Possible tax fraud in wake of corporate scandals—IRS

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Indications of possible fraud in the tax returns of some major corporations have been discovered by the Internal Revenue Service as a result of the corporate kickback and bribery scandals, an IRS spokesman says.

He declined to name the corporations or say how many are involved, but he said they have been warned by the IRS that its agents "are looking for possible criminal cases" in their tax returns.

If charged and convicted of criminal fraud, a corporation could receive a heavy fine and the responsible corporate officer, or officers, could be imprisoned for up to five years, in addition to also being fined.

Major corporations are routinely audited by the IRS because of the large amount of money involved in corporate operations.

The spokesman said, however, audits were intensified after the recent disclosures that a number of major corporations have paid millions of dollars at home and abroad in kickbacks, bribes and political donations, some of them illegal.

Special instructions were sent to the regular IRS auditors on what to look for in the the returns, to determine if deductions as business expenses had been wrongfully claimed for the payments.

As a result, the spokesman said, the regular IRS auditors turned up "indications of the possibility of fraud" in some returns and special agents of the IRS' Intelligence Division, specializing in criminal cases, were called in to determine whether fraud was actually committed.

The regular audits are continuing, and the spokesman did not rule out that additional instances of possible fraud could be found.

Many of the payments made overseas by corporations apparently were not illegal under the laws of the foreign countries. However, the IRS spokesman said the foreign payments still could not be claimed as a business deduction for U.S. taxes if the same payment made in this country would have been illegal.

For example, payments to an Italian political party would not be allowed as a tax deduction here since corporations are prohibited by law from making donations to U.S. political parties or candidates.

If they claimed a deduction for a domestic political donation, that would be a clear violation of U.S. tax laws and would not be allowed.

However, the spokesman said that even if a corporation has wrongfully claimed a deduction for a kickback, for example, it does not automotically mean criminal fraud, or even civil fraud, has been committed.

To prove fraud, it must be shown that there was "a willful attempt to evade income taxes and show it beyond a reasonable doubt," the spokesman said. If a deduction was wrongfully claimed, but the corporation thought it was acting legally, then it would not be a case of fraud, he added.

A tax would be assessed against all wrongful deductions, however.

PANAMA CITY, Fla. (AP) — Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Sheik Ahmed Yamani and U.S. oil company officials converged here Saturday night amid reports of an secret international oil meeting.

Sheik Yamani arrived at Tyndall Air Force Base by private jet, according to a Pentagon spokesman in Washington.

A State Department official told the Panama City News Herald the meeting could be of Aramco, a company jointly owned by Saudi Arabia and four giant U.S. oil firms — Texaco, Exxon, Standard Oil of California and Mobil. The official said Aramco has been in the process of being nationalized and the session could be a culmination of that.

Mobil, Texaco and Exxon officials arrived at the airport Saturday night, according to a pilot of one of the private jets.

Industry sources said the Saudi government has been negotiating with its four American partners in Aramco over the past several years regarding compensation in the event of nationalization.

"There have been reports of conversations and negotiations from time to time but so far there has been no definite announcement made as yet," a spokesman for one U.S. oil company said.

The Saudi government originally owned 25 per cent of Aramco, then upped its interest to 60 per cent as the first step to full nationalization. As a result, the American partners had to reduce their share.

In December 1974, published reports said the Saudis might pay up to $2 billion — about one month's revenues — to compensate the four American firms for upping its percentage to 75 per cent. It is not known if that deal was ever finalized.

Last July, when the two sides met in Geneva, the talks on the acquisition of the remaining U.S. interest in Aramco were reported to have left only two issues unresolved — the fees the U.S. firms would receive for continuing to operate Aramco for the Saudis and the amount of crude oil that would be guaranteed by Saudi Arabia once the sheikdom took over full ownership.

The United States is the largest purchaser of Saudi oil, and Aramco is the world's largest producer of crude oil.

Local sources had said earlier a secret meeting was planned between U.S. oil executives and representatives of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries. Spokesmen for half a dozen U.S. oil companies, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and several government agencies said they knew of no meeting of OPEC, which sets prices on behalf of the oil producers.

FINANCIAL PROBLEMS

Mrs. Jerry Davis is shown in the family home in Lewisville, Texas, with her quintuplets, four girls and a boy. She tells of sleepless nights worrying about the financial future of the family. The Davis' fixed income just doesn't go far enough, she said. The quints were born July 18, 1975 in Dallas.

Six hurt in Pomona

Boy, 13--no driver's license--dies in crash

A 13-year-old Pomona boy, driving without a license, was killed in a head-on collision with another car in the 1800 block of Towne Avenue, Pomona police said.

Six other persons were injured in the accident. Jose Quintero, 32, of La Verne, driver of the second car, and his wife Esther, 29, were reported in good condition Saturday at Pomona Valley Community Hospital. Their children, Joe, 8, Tony, 7, and Josie, 3, were treated for minor injuries and released. Debbie Alberton, 33, of Pomona, a passenger in Arenas' car, also suffered minor injuries.

Randy Arenas of 924 E. 9th St. apparently was driving on the wrong side of the street, officers reported. He was trapped behind the steering wheel after the crash late Friday night.

Arenas was dead on arrival at the Pomona hospital.

Panic in streets as quakes hit Guatemala

GUATEMALA CITY, Guatemala (AP) — A new series of strong earth tremors shook earthquake-ravaged Guatemala all day Saturday, causing panic in the streets. Some slight damage was reported but no victims.

The major part of the damage was the crumbling of walls already cracked by the killer earthquake of Feb. 4 and subsequent aftershocks. The Feb. 4 quake killed 23,000 persons and injured 74,000, authorities said. More than a million people were left homeless in a country whose population is six million.

Eight strong tremors rattled the country Saturday, starting in the morning and lasting until evening, officials said.

A spokesman for the state geophysical observatory said the epicenter of the tremors was believed to be in the El Progreso region, between 40 and 43 miles northeast of Guatemala City, the capital of the country.

The shocks sent people fleeing into the streets and many Guatemalans resignedly pitched makeshift tents of canvas and nylon sheets in the streets outside their houses to spend the night.

Fight developing over auto emission standards

Nation's health vs. the economy

WASHINGTON (AP) — A battle is flaring in the House Commerce Committee over whether to tighten automobile emission standards for the sake of health or leave them alone for the sake of economy.

Whatever happens in a vote slated for Tuesday, the fight is almost sure to ignite again when the measure reaches the full House later this year as part of broader Clean Air Act amendments that also deal with such areas as industrial and aircraft pollution.

Rep. John D. Dingell, a Michigan Democrat who represents part of Detroit, has joined forces with the Republican administration and proposed a five-year freeze on emission standards.

His amendment would extend current 1976 standards through 1981. After that, the Environmental Protection Agency could issue new regulations, but they could be rejected by a majority vote of both houses of Congress.

On the other hand, Rep. Paul G. Rogers, D-Fla., whose health subcommittee first drafted the Clean Air package, argues that the public's physical well-being might be gambled away if the environment is not cleaned up.

Rogers' version would fall harder on the automoble manufacturers, who have heavily lobbied Capitol Hill to tone the bill down.

Under his provision, statutory emission standards for new and other light-duty vehicles would be delayed until model year 1980 for hydrocarbons and carbon monoxide. Those standards require a 90 per cent reduction in the two pollutants.

But it would allow another year's delay for the pollutant oxides of nitrogen. The EPA could also grant a year by year suspension up to 1985 of the nitrogen oxide regulation if the technology was unavailable or if an excessive fuel penalty would fall on motorists.

Dingell, chairman of the Commerce Committee's energy panel, says tight emission standards would result in less fuel efficiency in automobles and respiral into a greater reliance on more imported oil. He thinks Rogers' bill is not soft enough.

Agreeing is Rep. Clarence J. Brown, R-Ohio, whose state is the largest producer of automobile parts.

Brown told the Commerce Committee in a heated session last week that the costs of Rogers' bill would be unloaded on the consumers.

"We're going to make the automobile so expensive that noboody can drive it," said Brown.

Rep. Henry A. Waxman, DCalif., sided with Rogers on the health issue, saying:

"If we vote the Dingell proposal, the pollution is going to double in the big cities of our nation. We're going to find people dropping dead in the streets from the emission."

They also assailed Dingell's proposal to let the EPA recommend new standards after 1981, only to be argued before Congress again.

Spotlight on crime

4 policemen injured, 4 arrested in crowd fracas

Four policemen were injured, and four men were arrested in the aftermath of a fracas at a La Verne tavern involving about 100 persons.

Police said officers responding to a disturbance late Friday night at Little Louie's, 1520 White Ave., were overpowered by persons in the bar. Glasses and ash trays were thrown at the officers, police added.

It took 14 policemen from Pomona and La Verne to finally disperse the crowd. Four patrol cars from La Verne and three from Pomona responded to the scene.

Those arrested on assault charges and resisting arrest were Stephen Bradstreet, 21, of Riverside; Roger Ellison, 20, of La Verne; Dennis Milligan, 19, of La Verne, and Henry Perez, age and address unknown.

La Verne officers Ron Ingles, Jim Strona and Bill Taylor, and an unidentified Pomona policeman suffered cuts and bruises in the fracas. They were later treated and released from San Dimas Community Hospital.

In LA PUENTE, two young men were shot at by a group of men after they tried to stop the group from breaking into a car at 15719 E. Amar Road, late Friday night.

Sheriff's deputies said William Lucas, 19, and Terry Gartrell, 21, both of La Puente, attempted to apprehend the suspects when they spotted them apparently breaking into a vehicle. Gartrell was holding one of the men when another began shooting at him, police said.

Gartrell released the man and began running with Lucas. Both victims were then shot in the right hip, deputies said. The group apparently then fled the scene.

Nowell pulls out of L.A. supervisor race

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Louis R. Nowell says he is withdrawing from the county supervisor's race and will not seek reelection to the Los Angeles City Council.

Nowell, criticized for accepting a subsidized Mexican resort vacation from a billboard company and then voting on an outdoor advertising law, cited pressures on his family for his withdrawal.

His emotional announcement came as the council was adjourning Friday and stunned his colleagues.

Nowell said he was "getting out of the political kitchen" because the heat was "consuming his children and his marriage and his friends."

He said he would no longer seek the supervisors seat held by Baxter Ward and would not seek reelection to the council next year.

The retired city fireman, whose announcement came after the reading of two resolutions in memory of deceased persons, said it was his "political demise."

"I ask this city council to adjourn in the memory of this demise and ask the city clerk to send a suitable tribute to his wife," he said, his voice cracking as he read from a written statement.

Nowell was criticized for accepting an expense-paid vacation in Mexico from the Pacific Outdoor Advertising Co. and then voting against a controversial billboard control ordinance opposed by billboard interests.

He denied any wrongdoing in accepting the vacation in Puerto Vallarta, saying it was properly reported under state disclosure laws.

Malfunctioning oven sets blaze

Ontario firemen quickly put down a $675 fire in an apartment building at 151 N. Palmetto Ave., early Saturday evening.

Four units responded to the 6:49 p.m. alarm and discovered that a gas stove had malfunctioned and the resulting fire ruined the stove and burned nearby cabinets in a ground-floor apartment in the two-story, 14-apartment complex.

No one was injured.

Kentucky sheriff fighting uphill bootlegging battle

HARLAN, Ky. (AP) — Billy G. Williams is working overtime again to destroy the one business that runs a close second to coal in Harlan County — bootlegging.

"And I'll succeed, if the people in the courthouse will quit fighting me," said Willias, who has promised himself that the county's dry cities — almost all of the county, in effect — will be truly dry by the time he leaves office as sheriff.

That's 23 months away, and bootlegging is on the increase.

"Why not?" Williams asked. "It's profitable. Most judges are reluctant to uphold the law. They won't hand out 30-day jail sentences but let a man off with a $37.50 fine. To me, that's just a fee for bootlegging."

The sheriff paused, then pointed to a wall map containing 77 red markers pinpointing the locations of homes and stores suspected of illegally peddling alcoholic beverages.

"We keep a close watch on these people. Yet, liquor still gets in here," Williams said.

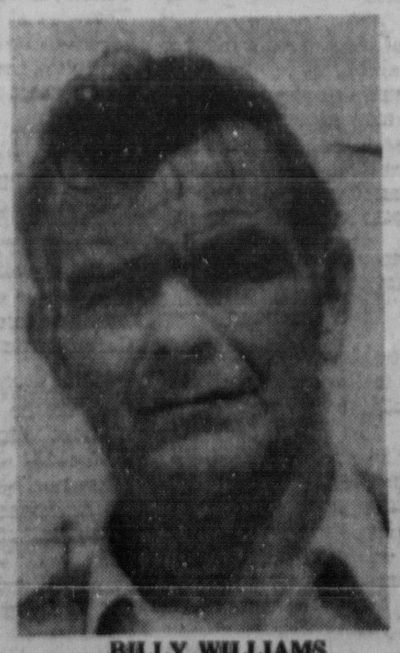
Much of the liquor is transported from Cumberland, one of the few communities in Harlan County that has voted itself wet under local option laws. Harlan, a dry city, is one of Williams' major targets.

He figures that 6,000 cases of beer and 300 cases of whisky are transported weekly into dry communities.

"That's a lot of money. With beer selling for 50 cents a can and liquor about $6 a (fifth) bottle, the bootleggers do pretty well for themselves," he continued.

Shortly after Williams took office, attempts were made to bribe him to look the other way when he knew a truckload of liquor was coming into dry cities in the county.

"I was guaranteed $4,500 a month from one source. Another told me I would have $200,000 in the bank by the time I quit this job," he said.



BILLY WILLIAMS

In the beginning, Williams and his deputies were working 15-18 hours a day cracking down on violators. Last August, the department made 129 arrests but in January the number had dwindled to 29. The sheriff was having financial problems.

"I'm allowed $225 a month to keep five cruisers operating," he explained. "That's not enough money. My first year as sheriff I went $7,000 in the red." Williams, who owns a water drilling firm, paid the deficit out of his pocket.

The sheriff was more than annoyed when residents of Harlan voted to keep the city dry in December's local option election. He was an outspoken supporter of the wet faction because "a victory would have given us six legal places to purchase liquor. We would have been able to wipe out the bootleggers."

When alcoholic beverages are confiscated, they're supposed to be turned over to the state Alcoholic Beverage Control Board. The beverages are sold, with the county and the ABC board splitting the money.

Williams has refused to surrender his beer and whisky. "I dole it out to the nonprofit organizations whenever they have a public function and need refreshments. By law, you're permitted to have a certain amount for personal consumption, so I'm helping a good cause."

More broadsides from Reagan

Ronald Reagan criticized President Ford on Saturday for "timid, vacillating" leadership while Ford claimed credit for the preservation of "the integrity of the American dollar and the American economy."

Former California Governor Reagan, who by week's end had shifted from his soft-sell approach to sharp criticism of the Ford administration, unleashed more broadsides during a full day of campaigning on Florida's west coast in preparation for Tuesday's primary in the Sunshine state. That primary is considered crucial to Reagan.

Ford, campaigning in Illinois, continued to focus on what he termed his steady leadership in economic and foreign affairs.

On the Democratic side, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, campaigning with former U.N. Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan, didn't resume his criticism of former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter. But some labor leaders who appeared with Jackson didn't hesitate to attack Carter, who is expected to battle Alabama Gov. George Wallace for the top spot in Florida.

Wallace continued his criticism of the federal judiciary. Meanwhile, the Machinists Union urged its 17,000 Florida members to vote against Wallace, saying he has a poor record on labor matters.

Arizona Rep. Morris K. Udall, who isn't running in Florida, said he is using the four weeks before his next major primary contest to try to enlarge his support for the Democratic nomination. He is next on the ballot April 6 in the New York and Wisconsin primaries.

Carter, who was strongly attacked by most of his opponents during the last week of the Florida campaign, spent much of the day in his home state, resting for the final days of the race.

During a speech to about 400 persons at the Port Charlotte Cultural Center, an adult education facility, Reagan accused the Ford administration of "timid, vacillating and divided leadership, attempting to sweet talk the Russians out of their belligerent behavior."

Reagan, who at the urging of local supporters has recently stepped up his attacks on Ford, said he was concerned about "cracks in our relationship with mainland China.

"The common interest lay in both of us standing firm against Soviet expansion, subversion and aggression the world over," Reagan said. "Under Ford and (Secretary of State Henry) Kissinger, the United States has failed miserably to uphold its end of the bargain as the senior partner and super power in the relationship with China."

Reagan, in is first lengthy statement on U.S.-China relations, said "it is not surprising that the Chinese, in their frustration, would send a jet for Richard Nixon, well aware of Mr. Nixon's problems in his own country, but hoping that he could explain to them why America seems unwilling to play her part as a superpower."

Ford, in Illinois seeking votes in that state's March 16 primary, said that the rhetoric of his opponents is "no substitute for practical achievements."

Political arena

McVittie urges Gov. Brown to run in California primary

Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist., has urged Gov. Edmund Brown Jr. to become a Democratic candidate for President in the state's primary election.

"The governor's popularity both in my district and across the state is solid indication that the people welcome his refreshing, no-nonsense approach to the government," said the Upland legislator.

"All politicians speak of the necessity for reordering priorities and making government leaner and more responsive. But Jerry Brown rises above the rhetoric in a manner our state has never seen before. Brown has intelligence, independence and abundant energy."

McVittie said Brown should give California voters an opportunity to rate him with other Democratic hopefuls — whether his purpose is to lead a "native son" delegation or be a full-fledged presidential candidate.

REP. H. L. Richardson, R-19th Dist., has urged that Raymond Procunier be fired as chairman of the California Adult Authority for allowing the release of convicted acid murderer Geza de Kaplany.

The legislator termed de Kaplany's acid slaying of his wife one of the "most horrible, premeditated and vicious acts ever perpetrated in California."

Richardson, who criticized the secrecy of the inmate's release, said Procunier wanted him out of prison and started working on it four years ago. "The only way he could be successful was to sneak this man out because public reaction would have overwhelmingly been against releasing de Kaplany."

The senator said press reports indicate the Taiwan government didn't know that de Kaplany was a convicted murderer when it let him enter the country as a medical missionary.

"Procunier claims speed was essential because the Taiwan hospital needed de Kaplany's skills as a cardiac specialist. However, de Kaplany was an anesthesiologist, not a heart doctor, according to press reports, and he had not practiced for the 13 years he was in prison," he added.

Should Brown reappoint Procunier, Richardson said he would make every effort to convince legislators that he should not be confirmed by the state Senate "under any circumstances."

ASSEMBLYMAN WILLIAM CAMPBELL, R-64th Dist., has introduced a bill to make bicycle lanes more visible.

Several communities have problems with bicycle lane markings, he said. Apparently some bike lanes are so wide that drivers mistake the white lines to indicate a traffic lane rather than a bikeway and are traveling in these lanes.

Prior to the enactment of uniform requirements by the state in 1974, some cities used a blue line to delineate bikeways.

"The experience of those communities indicates this greatly reduces confusion for the driver and danger to the bicyclist. I am hopeful my measure will provide greater safety for the thousands of bicyclists in our state."

Committees suppporting passage of PROPOSITION 15 — the Nuclear Safeguard measure — on the June primary ballot will not accept contributions of corporate funds, officials said.

The campaign steering committee decided to reject such contributions because "corporations are not people. They can't vote and they should not be permitted to influence elections with their funds," said Larry Levine, news director.

"The election process, and most particularly the initiative petition process, belongs to the people and must not be permitted to fall into the hands of invisible corporate interests."

Officers for the upcoming school year will be elected during the business meeting.

BONITA HIGH SCHOOL PTSA plans a Bicentennial celebration for its Wednesday night meeting at 7:30 in the school's Student Union.

The La Verne students will participate in the various departments' presentations on the contributions of all peoples in the making of American history. The music and drama students will be featured in narrations, readings and songs.

Sarafian's inauguration turns into big birthday celebration

By VONNE ROBERTSON
PB Staff Writer

The solemnity of the inauguration of the new president of La Verne College was broken as 900 guests joined in the singing of "Happy Birthday to You" to Armen Sarafian.

The inauguration Friday of the 16th president of the college coincided with Sarafian's birthday. He was presented a candle-topped cake during the dinner which precede the inaugural ceremonies at the La Verne Church of the Brethren.

Later, as he opened his inagural speech, Sarafin told the capacity crowd "This is the biggest birthday I've ever had.

"La Verne College will stand in years to come as a lighthouse to lead the way and show that education is not always confined to the classroom, but is rather the learning to live. Education is the search for truth.

"La Verne College has as its purpose the service of the common needs of mankind," the new president continued.

Then he turned to the serious financial problems now facing the college.

He outlined the major financial loss to the college, which he placed at $600,000, when the Veterans Administration withdrew payments for a college program for veterans.

Sarafian pointed out that, in spite of the loss of government revenue, the college had kept its commitments to those students.

Saraifna praised the alumni who have come to the assistance of the college with financial support and said the college is optimistic about the future.

"La Verne faced even rougher times when my father was on the faculty," said the new president. He was referring to the 1930s when faculty members chose to teach without being paid rather than close the college.

"We've been here since 1891 and we'll meet this challenge and move forward."

Sarafian's talk followed his formal inauguration as president in a ceremony conducted by Mrs. Mary E. La Fetra, president, of the board of trustees, and Howard B. Beckner, board secretary.

The ceremony in the church sanctuary was opened with a traditional procession of college professors from La Verne and other colleges and universities, all in academic robes.

W. Donald Clague, vice president of academic affairs at La Verne, served as chairman and introduced speakers.

Greetings to Sarafian were offered by Rep. James Lloyd, D-35th Dist.; Kay J. Anderson, executive director of the Western Association of Schools and Colleges; R. Truman Northup, executive secretary of the Pacific Southwest Conference of the Church of the Brethren; Robert Dyer, president of the Alumni Association; Mike Morales, mayor of La Verne; John Gingrich, representing the faculty; and Don Carter, chairman of the Associated Student Forum.

Sarafian came to La Verne College as president in October from Pasadena City College where he had served as its president since 1959.

His assuming the presidency also marks a return to La Verne as a member of the college community. In addition to his father serving on the faculty, Sarafian was graduated magna cume laude in the Class of 1940.

He earned his master's degree at Claremont Graduate School and his doctorate at USC.

Also introduced at the dinner prior to the inauguration were Sarafian's wife, Margaret, and his mother, Mrs. Kevork Sarafian.

Plastic used in furniture

NEW YORK (AP) — A comeback is being staged by plastic furniture, according to Modern Plastics.

The magazine says softwood price increases, a decline in demand for Mediterranean-style furniture, and new technology which lets plastics simulate such materials as wicker and bamboo are contributing factors.

Path to success now paved by psychology

By BARRY SIMON
NEA Book Critic

Anyone who has read the Horatio Alger stories and believed that the road to success is paved with hard work will be shocked by the new wave of books on the subject. Positive mental attitude won't get you anywhere. Long hours and hard work will only leave you exhausted. You no longer have to win friends to influence people.

The new success strategy's strongest spokesman is Robert Ringer. The title of his books,WINNING THROUGH INTIMIDATION, is an accurate indication of his feelings about the Protestant work ethic — it simply doesn't work.

Currently a wealthy real estate agent, Ringer recounts early on-the-job education at what used to be called the "School of Hard Knocks" but now is more appropriately called "Screw-U." His education, which consisted of observing successful salesmen and studying their techniques, soon taught him that the more he allowed himself to be intimidated by the other parties to a deal, the less money be made.

So he mastered the art and science of intimidation and earned more money with every successive deal. Now, thanks to Ringer, students enrolled in "Introduction to Intimidation" have an authoritative text book, full of advice and examples to guide them up the ladder to success.

Once the executive has realized that there's more to success than hard work, he should read Michael Korda's "POWER! HOW TO GET IT, HOW TO USE IT." Unlike "Winning Through Intimidation," which is basically the autobiography of Ringer's own rise to the top, "Power" is the account of how some of this country's most powerful people got there.

The powerful person, according to Korda, frequently makes others inconvenience themselves for him but seldom returns the favor.

A top Hollywood producer, for example, begrudgingly grants an audience to an elderly screenwriter. The appointed time arrives and so does the screenwriter — to find the producer floating on a raft in a hotel swimming pool and determined to stay there. The writer — who is dressed for a business meeting, not a splash party and who can't swim, in any case — obviously has great difficulty explaining why his contract should be renewed.

Of particular interst is Korda's chapter on power symbols. With the proper symbols, he says, one can give the impression of power without actually having it. Attache cases, for example, reveal a lot about their owners. The larger the case, the lower the status. Those who have made it to the top carry nothing at all because the reports and contracts are brought to them.

Power people also wear Peal & Co. or Gucci shoes, never wear yellow clothes, always have filled-in desk calendars, and never dial their own phones or use pocket calculators.

Korda shows the reader how to identify those in control by where they stand at cocktail parties (in the corners), where their offices are located (the corners, again), and where they sit at staff meetings (always to the left of the boss).

The author, who also wrote "Male Chauvinism! How it Works," devotes a chapter to women. In keeping women from assuming real positions of power, men often rely upon maintaining traditional sex roles, such as asking the woman to take minutes at a staff meeting. The female executive, he advises, can use these same roles to her advantages. For example, nobody will ask a woman to give up her chair, even if it is the power seat.

"THE ORGANIZATION GUERRILLA" proceeds on the assumption that to make it to the top of an organization it helps to know how that organization really works. And it doesn't work, author Allen Weiss says, the way those college textbook have always said it does.

A business can do feasibility studies, employing techniques such as return on investment, discounted cash flow, risk analysis, but in the end those who have the power will do it their way — no matter what the study's findings.

But for those not yet ready to adopt the power-intimidation guerrilla philosophy, "BOSS PSYCHOLOGY" can be used, according to author Charles Vance, to help your boss make you a success. Vance advocates working with the boss — not against him.

Lamy of Santa Fe

Spotlight on noted clergyman

By KATHERINE MORSBERGER

LAMY OF SANTA FE, by Paul Horgan. Farrar. Straus and Giroux, $15.00.

Morgan's long-awaited book is the definitive biography of Juan Bautista Lamy, the Archbishop in Willa Cather's "Death Comes for the Archbishop."

The first Roman Catholic bishop assigned to New Mexico, has jurisdiction at one time actually encompassed almost one-third of the present United States.

Horgan reconstructs from deep firsthand acquaintance with the territory the many journeys that Lamy undertook in the course of his mission.

From France to Ohio, from Ohio to New Orleans, and up to Santa Fe via San Antonio to Los Angeles and to Baltimore, Lamy went, saying mass, preaching, marrying, baptizing, recruiting clergy, and seeking for funds to carry out his mission.

Horgan, both novelist and historian, employs the best of both genres in his study of Lamy, upon which he spent 20 years' research and writing.

The biography's greatest strength, but also its greatest weakenss, is the wealth of detail. It requires a specialized reader to sustain interest in all the complexities of church administration, the lengthy communications with the Vatican.

Yet the equally detailed accounts of frontier life and travel more than compensate: Lamy's going alone on horseback to Mexico and back; Lamy rallying a wagon train of merchants, frontiersmen, and nuns to fend off an Indian attack; Lamy's garden with its diverse plants, many carried all the way from France — all give a vivid portrait of the archbishop's complex character.

Rounding out the verbal portrait are sections of illustrations, mostly photographs, and end-paper maps.

Press and Amer. Revolution

George Rogers Clark and the Northwest

By Dr. Francis G. Walett
Worcester State College

Early in 1778 western Indians, encouraged by the British, carried out a number of devastating raids into the Ohio, Illinois, and Kentucky country. Col. Henry Hamilton, the British governor of Detroit, was known as the "Hair-Buyer" because of his eagerness to purchase white scalps.

The British were trying to hold on to this vast western region, which they had controlled since the French and Indian War; but eastern states also had claims, based on colonial charters, to the region. With Indian parties attacking outlying settlements and the British fastening their hold on the area, something had to be done.

After several American military efforts to gain control of the Ohio country and to take Detroit had failed, a famous frontier fighter came on the the scene and won lasting fame as an heroic figure in the struggle for the west.

George Rogers Clark, born near Charlottesville, Va., was a tall, red-headed, and hardy frontiersman. Although only 23 years old when the American Revolution began, he was already an experienced Indian fighter familiar with the western lands. In 1777 Clark conceived the bold plan of seizing the old French villages in southern Illinois and Indian (Kaskaskia, Cahokia, and Vincennes), which were now in British hands.

Late that year Clark went to Williamsburg, Va., where he got Thomas Jefferson, Richard Henry Lee, and George Mason to agree to his plan. Soon Gov. Patrick Henry persuaded the Virginia assembly to support an expedition, provide funds and authorize Clark to raise forces.

The stated purpose of the mission was to defend Kentucky; but the secret intent was to take Kaskaskia, other posts, and, if posssible, Detroit itself. Thus George Rogers Clark undertook a campaign to save the northwest. It is significant to note that his authority and support came from Virginia (which had claims to western land) and not from the Continental Congress.

Although he had some trouble raising men, Clark finally started down the Ohio with about 175 troops. Hiding their boats about ten miles below the mouth of the Tennessee River, the party marched northeast through the forest toward Kaskaskia. By July 4 Clark and his men had crossed southern Illinois to a point near Kaskaskia on the eastern side of the Mississippi River.

Without firing a shot the Americans captured the virtually undefended town. Presently, Cahokia, a few miles to the north was occupied; and in August 1778 a force was sent to take possession of Vicennes. Clark then organized the whole region as the county of Illinois within the state of Virginia. Proudly he wrote home about his conquests, and the newspapers reported these victories.

The west had not yet been won, however. Governor Hamilton still had some fight in him, and at the head of a force of about 500 whites and Indians, he retook Vincennes without opposition. He had plans to seize other posts in the territory, too.

Clark learned about the fall of Vincennes while at Kaskaskia. He strengthened that fort and immediately set about raising a force to move against the British. By promises and threats he got about 200 men, half of them French, to march for Vincennes, Feb. 6, 1779.

It was a dreadful ordeal, struggling in the middle of winter across 170 miles of rain-soaked flooded country. Still worse, an early thaw made the crossing of several rivers very dangerous. Since game had been driven off by high

Nuevas politicas empujadas para reducir el crimen

Un comite de la ciudad de Pomona integrado por ciudadanos, oficiales escolares y representantes de la industria y el comercio reclamo el lunes por la noche de los ediles minicipales el cambio de los servicios de las unidades patrulleras como un medio de reducir el crimen.

El concejal Sr. Benjamin Ochoa, presidente del Comite Anti-crimen Escolar-Camara de Comercio, que ha venido estudiando la delincuencia en la ciudad desde el pasado verano, dijo al concejo que esta y otras recomendaciones del Comite "pudieran no ser la respuesta total para la eliminacion del crimen, pero ayudarian a reducirlo en nuestra ciudad."

El Comite recomienda cuatro importantes medidas a tomar: formacion de grupos vecinales, servicios juveniles, despliegue policiaco, y asistencia voluntaria a la policia.

La mas controversial de las recomendaciones parece ser el cambio en el despliegue de las unidades policiacas.

Actualmente, de acuerdo con el Sr. Ochoa y el Sr. Bernard Ousley, miembro tambien del Comite, el servicio de vigilancia de la ciudad esta repartido proporcionalmente, a pesar de que las estadisticas indican que los delitos se producen en ciertas areas mas que en otras.

"Nosotros recomendamos que la ciudad abandone el presente sistema y despliegue sus fuerzas sobre la base de donde al crimen se produce," dijo Ousley al concejo.

El Sr. Ousley agrego que habria seguramente protestas de los residentes de aquellas areas donde el patrullaje se redujese, pero "ellas serian eclipsadas por los resultados en la reduccion del crimen."

Mientras que el sistema de patrulla policiaco parece ser la mas discutible de las recomendaciones, el proyecto mas ambicioso del Comite es crear una agencia especial para coordinar programas juveniles de diversion y justicia.

Agencia tal necesitaria la activa cooperacion de la ciudad, del distrito escolar, del condado, estado y gobierno federal, todos los cuales tienen actualmente algun programa financiero aplicable.

El Sr. Ochoa dijo que al presente no habia seguridad de que la juventud necesitada de auxilio lo obtuviera.

"De todos aquellos detenidos en Pomona por la comision de algun delito, el 48 por 100 son menores de edad. !Es una gran cantidad de jovenes!, explico el Sr. Ochoa.

Tambien dijo que los programas actuales destinados a ayudar y dirigir a los delicuentes jovenes sufre por falta de coordinacion, deficiencias administrativas y costosas duplicaciones funcionales.

El sugirio que el minicipio tome la iniciativa tratando de formar alguna agencia coordinadora para supervisar los programas juveniles citadinos.

Otras recomendaciones del comite fueron estimular y promover la formacion de grupos vecinales por calles interesados en reducir el crimen en sus zonas (ya hay 16 de tales grupos en Pomona), y aumentar el numero de policias disponibles para el servicio de vigilancia prestando voluntarios para realizar servicos no especializados (tales como control del transito), realizados ahora por agentes de policia.

¿Eleccion por recinto en La Verne?

Los electores de La Verne tendran una oportunidad el proximo noviembre de decidir se ellos desean elegir sus concejales por precintos.

El concejo voto unanime para poner el asunto en la boleta el lunes por la noche despues que el concejal dimisionario Sr. Dan Lopez atribuyo al "faccion alismo" por el presente concejo municipal le ha constado a la ciudad $10,000.

"Esa es la razon por la que no me he presentado para mi re-eleccion", dijo el Sr. Lopez al cierre de la sesion. "Me he convencido de que no es util. El concejo no representa la comunidad."

Explico que el cree que un concejal electo por toda la ciudad no puede hacer tan buena labor como sie fuera electo por distritos, porque "ellos no conocen a la gente ni sus problemas. El unico medio adecuado es ir a los precintos."

El acuso que en los asuntos importantes, el y el concejal Sanborn eran anulados por el alcalde Sr. Mike Morales y los concejales Allan Mackay y Frank Johnson, y aseguro que los tres opositores estaban "dominados por gente que ni siquiera pagaban impuestos."

El declino nombrar esa gente, pero sugirio que los intereses duenos de las casas-mobiles y de sus parqueos estaban entre ellos.

El Sr. Lopez aseguro que por decisiones equivocadas de los tres miembros citados del concejo la ciudad perdio el ano pasado $100,000. El afirmo que el concejo se doblego bajo la presion de los proyectistas de los terrenos Burger y el minicipio perdio $45,000 en derechos por habitacion. Los terrenos de Buger estan todavia en el condado, localizados entre la ciudad y Claremont.

El aseguro tambien que la ciudad perdio dinero en impuestos en gran cantidad cuando permitio que la propiedad Gillette se convirtiera en un parque de casas-mobiles.

Morales, Johnson y Mackay inmediatamente negaron que estuvieran influidos por ningun poderoso grupo de intereses.

George Rogers Clark and the Northwest...

water, the men were on starvation rations. Clark wrote to his friend, George Mason, that the conditions they faced were almost "too incredible for any person to believe."

Yet he kept them going, even though they had to wade through shoulder-high icy water at times. When they finally got to high ground near Vincennes the men were ready to collapse.

Colonel Hamilton was hardly ready for an attack; not expecting that he would need them so soon, he had let about one-half of his militia go home; and now many of his Indian allies fled. The British commander refused Clark's demand that he surrender immediately, however. At this point the hard-headed Clark took five captured Indians, tomahawked them in full view of the garrison and threw their bodies into the river. After this gruesome bit of showmanship by the enemy, Hamilton decided to give in.

Without question George Roger Clark's forced march under most difficult conditions to retake Vincennes was a remarkable feat. He described it fully in private letters and in a journal published many years later. A shorter account of the expedition appeared in Dixon and Hunter's VIRGINIA GAZETTE for June 26, 1779.

Vincennes and the other principal posts in the west remained in American hands for the rest of the war. Hamilton was taken to Wlliamsburg under heavy guard; although he escaped frontier vengence, the "Hair-Buyer" remained in prison in Virginia for many months.

Clark wanted desperately to capture Detroit, but could not do so. While his capture of Kaskaskia and Vincennes turned out to be permanent, it did not stop Tory and Indian raids into the Ohio country and Kentucky. The Shawnee and Delaware in particular made numerous savage assualts on the frontier during the late stages of the war.

If Clark's exploits did not end fighting and bring peace dramatically to the west, they did establish firm footholds in this country for the United States. Without them the British and Indians would probably have pushed the frontier of white settlement much farther to the East. These conquests too unquestionably influenced the cession of the huge territory to the United States at the end of the American Revolution.

George Rogers Clark, however, rough and harsh at times, did much to establish American power in the turbulent Ohio country; and he will always be remembered in history and legend as the greatest hero of the American Revolution in the west.

Kabuki show slated at Pasadena museum

Leonard Pronko, professor of Romance languages at Pomona College and one of the nation's foremost authorities on the Japanese kabuki theater, and Takao Tomono, Japanese actor and Pronko's assistant, will present a kabuki demonstration at 2:30 p.m. next Sunday at the Pacificulture-Asia Museum, 46 N. Los Robles Ave., Pasadena.

The two actors will demonstrate the art of kabuki costuming and make-up and will perform "Narukami" (Thunder God) and "Kuzazuribiki" (Pulling the Armor).

Pronko has studied all phases of kabuki in Japan and returns there each year to do further work and to add to his large collection of authentic costumes and wigs. He studies Japanese dance with Fujima Kansuma in Los Angeles.

Tickets to the performance-demonstration are $3.50 general, and $2.50 for students. Group reservations can be made by calling (213) 449-2742.

Art director named in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP) — William McNaught has been named New York area director of the Archives of American Art.

Runners-up were Janice Coon and Barbara Del Rio.

The four will represent the area in the regional competitions at Pattison Hall, Scripps College, March 21.

The competition is sponsored by the Music Teachers Association of California in cooperation with the Southern California Junior Bach Festival.

Berger Nielsen, left, manager of the Ontario Chamber of Commerce, and Dale King, chamber president, try to decide which sign best depicts the need of the Union Pacific Railroad depot which is being closed on April 1. The chamber hopes some community organization can use the structure. The only catch however, is the building will have to be relocated.

Ontario R.R. depot: Can anyone use it?

By L. T. ROGERS
Asst. City Editor

Anyone need a large, elderly railroad depot?

One is becoming vacant in Ontario, and the Chamber of Commerce hopes it can be used by some organization.

The Union Pacific Railroad plans to close the 73-year - old structure on April 1 and consolidate that agency with Pomona into a mobile van.

Rather than seeing the old structure remain vacant, Berger Nielsen, chamber manager, hopes some youth group can use the building.

Railroad officials said no decision has been made on the facility but that any requests received would be considered.

In similar cases, the railroad firm has donated unused depots, sold them or torn them down, they added.

But old age may be a major factor in the structure finding new occupants.

It was recently inspected by Robert Jackson, the city's chief building official, who reported the exterior walls and columns appear to be constructed of reinforced brick and hollow clay tile.

This type of construction isn't permitted today, he added.

Jackson said that railroad engineers had also looked into the possibility of moving the structure and they also determined it couldn't be moved.

But Jackson noted the storage building and dock area are constructed of wood and stucco and there is some salvageable material available.

"The only practical approach to save the building would be to use it in its present location if this would meet the approval of the Union Pacific Railroad."

He warned, however, that a future grade separation on Euclid Avenue would cut off all access to the site.

Nielsen said the depot side is zoned for industrial use and is adjacent to the General Electric Co. plant. Should that operation expand, this site may be used.

If some group needs the building and can determine how the structure can be moved, they may contact Nielsen or Union Pacific officials. Such requests would then be forwarded to railroad management for a decision, said railroad officials.

The depot, one of the oldest in California, was opened in 1903 when the railroads reached Ontario, they reported. The building contains living quarters on the second floor and an attic above that.

Pomona Council faces million dollar decision

By ED PRATHER
PB Staff Writer

A million dollar decision will confront the Pomona City Council Monday night when members weigh the merits of securing an immediate $1.2 million in federal funds at the expense of accepting an unknown number of federally subsidized housing units.

On two previous occasions a majority of the council has been unwilling to approve the housing program, Section 8 as it is known, on the theory that Pomona already has enough poor people and that the program would only serve as an inducement for others to move here.

The housing program, unfortunately for the council, is inextricably tied to the Community Development Block Grant program under which Pomona qualified for more than $300,000 last year, can receive $877,000 this year, and ultimately may collect up to $7 million by 1980.

But it can collect only if the concept of Section 8 is accepted by the council, explained City Administrator Jerrold Gonce.

"To receive the funds the council must approve the application and accept the concept. We can argue with HUD (the federal agency administering the program) about the number of units, but not about the concept," he said.

Basically, Section 8 operates like this: poor persons are qualified for the program based on their incomes and social situation (such as a single woman head of household) and matched up with existing or new qualified housing — with the federal government picking up 100 per cent of the rent cost.

While no member of the council has stated he is against poor people, the council seems unamimous in the belief that government subsidized housing creates as many problems as it solves and that as a general principle the federal government shouldn't go around telling cities what to do, even when its handing out millions of dollars.

It is a painful decision for the council, mostly because the projects that can be funded by the grant are things they desperately want.

Georgia Grove, for instance, has spearheaded the effort to beautify Pomona during the past several years. The grant would buy $250,000 in beautification this year alone. Mrs. Grove is also a conservative and opposed to idea of subsidized housing.

She said she might be willing to accept the Section 8 concept if the city can get the government's proposal of 140 units in Pomona substantially reduced.

Mayor Ray Lepire finds himself in a similar position. He is certainly no sympathizer with the concept of subsidized housing, but might accept the program if the city can control the number of units — meaning a reduction in number and limiting it as much as possible to persons already living in Pomona.

Councilman Benjamin Ochoa, probably the most liberal member of the council, is not a proponent of subsidized housing either. But, he says, the projects that can be funded with the grant are too important to turn down.

"I'm not adamantly opposed (to the Section 8 concept). I'm willing to negotiate. I think we should approve the application and get the money," he said.

The two councilmen most opposed to the Section 8 concept are Adrian Wright and Charles Bader.

Wright's opposition, which he tirelessly repeats almost weekly, is that the federal, state and county governments should keep their noses out of Pomona's business and that Pomona is already "impacted" too heavily with poor people and their related social problems.

Bader, who is a conservative on most issues, opposes Section 8 on the general principle that subsidized housing doesn't work and creates new problems for the city and its residents.

He also thinks Pomona is being unfairly targeted for Section 8 by the federal government.

"My biggest complaint is that HUD is expecting us to do something other cities are not," he explained.

That complaint may not be entirely correct, however. Many Southern California cities, including Ontario and Chino in the valley, are also seeking grant funds and have accepted the Section 8 concept.

"It's going to be a tough decision," said Bader.

Other agenda items for the 8 p.m. meeting include: A report concerning proposed lighting for Cherrieville Park; consideration of street improvements for Mills Avenue between San Bernardino Court and Evart Street; and consideration of a City Code amendment allowing competitive ambulance service for non-emergency calls.

Focke sticks to his earthquake prediction

By GEORGE MacLAREN
PB Staff Writer

Three years ago, the head of the physics department at Harvey Mudd College at Claremont brashly predicted that Claremont would be shaken by a tremor of 6.0 magnitude or stronger before 1984.

Now retired and the new disaster chairman of the Claremont Red Cross, Alfred B. Focke still sticks to his "brash" prediction.

Focke believes that although no one can accurately predict the occurrence of an earthquake, everybody should be prepared to react intelligently when a tremor occurs.

"A wood frame house is comparatively safe during a quake," Focke explained. "The chances of a house falling on our head are minimal."

"I feel there is a real probability of an earthquake. We should be ready. Since we live in earthquake country, we should be prepared to set up shelters on school grounds or in parks."

Although he has made his living as a pyhsicist, Focke has had seismology as a hobby since he was a student at Case Institute in 1927.

He ran a movie projector for an American Geological Society meeting and saw evidence of earthquakes in California.

He saw first hand damage created by the Long Beach earthquake in 1932 when he was working in solid-state physics at California Iustitute of Technology.

In his explanation that Claremonters live in earthquake country, Focke points to the mountains to the north and says, "One million years ago, Mt. Baldy wasn't there."

Focke explained that up to 15 years ago there was no theory of plate tectonics, a theory that the earth's crust is broken into massive plates, 50 to 60 miles thick which move slowly in a definite direction.

ALFRED B. FOCKE

Focke said that, according to the theory, Southern California is an island apart from the North American plate, whose southern boundary is the San Andreas Fault, which runs along the northern foothills of the San Gabriel Mountains.

The Southern California plate is moving slowly away from the Northern American plate at a slow rate, Focke explained.

Focke said that although the San Andreas Fault is the most well-known, three other faults run southward from that fault at 20-mile intervals: the San Jacinto, the Elsinore, and the Inglewood-Newport, responsible for the 1933 Long Beach quake.

Focke noted that six quakes with a magnitide of 6.0 or stronger have occurred along the San Jacinto Fault, which runs as close as 25 miles from Claremont, in the 69 years from 1899 to 1968, or one every 11½ years.

On that basis, he predicts that the next strong quake should occur before 1984.

Chaffey board will name new superintendent

Chaffey school board president G. A. Chalfant has called a special board meeting Monday at 7 p.m. for the purpose of naming a new superintendent.

During the past month, the school board has interviewed nine candidates, including one woman, according to Supt. Allan G. Smith.

Smith submitted his retirement resignation last October. It is to become effective the close of the school year. Smith has been with the district since 1946. He was hired as an English teacher. He was named superintendent in 1958.

San Bernardino County Schools Supt. Roy Hill was chairman of the screening committee which conducted a nationwide search for Smith's successor.

A budget seminar will follow the special meeting.

Genealogical Society hosts Jim Romain

Jim Romain of the El Monte branch of the Title Insurance and Trust Co. will be speaker at the Pomona Valley Genealogical Society program Monday at 7 p.m. in the Pomona Library.

His program, entitled "Yesterdays," will include a slide presentation of early Los Angeles and Pasadena. He will include information on researching deeds and land titles as aids in genealogical research.

Neighborhoods participating in C-CAP watch still growing

By PHYLLIS CANNON
P-B Staff Writer

In increasing numbers, Pomona's citizens are organizing and training to fight crime.

Cmdr. Larry States of Pomona Base, California-Community Alert Patrol (C-CAP) said that in the past five months 25 Pomona neighborhoods have organized and are participating, under block captains, in C-CAP's block-to-block watch.

A 26th neighborhood will be organized Thursday night when C-CAP officers meet with the Rev. Dick L. McPherson at the Philadelphia Street United Methodist Church.

"Mr. McPherson called us," said States. "He and his neighbors want to do something, they want a neighborhood watch. Lots of their homes have been hit (by burglars) including the minister's. They're ready to go."

According to States, that's the way most organizations have been initiated. Neighbors reach a saturation point and decide to join with C-CAP to watch their own neighborhoods and serve as more eyes and ears for the police.

Citizens interested in learning more about the all-volunteer organization, or in forming block watches of their own, may call the communications center, situated on the third floor of the Progress Bulletin building, at 622-3233. States also may be reached at 629-3840 at night.

Citizens volunteering their time operate the communications center part of each day, nights when the working men are off work, and weekends. No one is paid for his services.

C-CAP volunteers have no police authority and are not armed. They're constantly training. "One group just completed the standard first aid course," explained States. "A second group is midway through a Red Cross CPR (cardiac-pulmonary resuscitation) course. And a traffic control class is being set up."

States said it is the base's plan to place radio-equipped mobile patrol units in 18 districts within the community.

"We need volunteers for the mobile patrol," said Street. "We're thinking now of starting out at night, initially, but it would be good to have the patrol on duty in the daytime, too. We have a lot of daytime crime, and these patrols would be a deterrant."

"We've had lots of good response from the community, but we're not up to peak yet."

States said the base is planning a fund-raising picnic March 14 in San Dimas Park to attempt to get money to pay the telephone and utility bills and pay for printing and office supplies.

"Everyone who is interested is invited. We'll start in at 8 a.m.

We'd like everyone who comes to bring a covered dish and a wrapped gift, which we will auction off."

States said there would be volleyball, softball and horseshoes.

The base will provide security for the cars, as well as barbecues for cooking.

Regular base general membership meetings are held the first Sunday of each month at 7 p.m. in the Pomona Education Center auditorium. "It doesn't take long," explained States. "We have a business report, reports from the block captains, listen to citizens' concerns and have a question and answer period.

"We distribute literature showing that C-CAP is a non-profit, state-chartered organization."

Residents who wish copies of C-CAP literature may write to Pomona Base C-CAP, P.O. Box 1943, Pomona 91769.

Anyone who would like to make a tax-deductible contribution to the base may write a check to Pomona Base, C-CAP.

Primaries carry little weight

William R. Keech and Donald R. Matthews, who are associated with the prestigious Brookings Institution, are about as cynical as two men can be on the influence newsmen play in presidential nominations.

"The myth of objective reporting," they conclude in a recent book, "leads to political news that focuses attention on what candidates do — often meaningless events staged for the benefit of the media — and what they say. Speculation about who is ahead and what will happen tomorrow too often passes for analysis." Yet it is, of course, the press and TV "who shape mass perceptions of who is ahead, who is fading or gaining, who is hopelessly behind." And these perceptions have profound effects on the raising of political money."

The significance of this, of course, is that a candidate dropped by the press in the early days of the campaign may have his funds dry up faster than a puddle on a boiling summer day — and his candidacy ends forthwith.

Yet the press that is so influential in the nominating phase of politics "comprises a relatively small group of individuals." A consensus on the characteristics and qualifications of potential candidates tends to develop within this group. And what they write about candidates and potential candidates "strongly influences what the rest of the mass media says . . ."

Thus a strong feeling and much publicity on who are front runners develops before the first series of primaries take place.

The danger of such early decision-making by this tiny inner group is inherently dangerous, Keech and Matthews seem to imply, not only in its effect on money-raising. In their analysis of who has been nominated for president by both parties over the years, they bring out that with few exceptions, those perceived as front runners in the early stages of the race for the nomination have ended up the party's nominees regardless of who won the primary races. This has been true, they assert, of both Republicans and Democrats.

Neither Keech of Matthews are impressed, in fact, that primaries have any great influence on who is nominated. Keech has for years been fond of pointing out that in 1952, Estes Kefauver had won nearly all the primaries; yet his peak in delegate support was 29.6 per cent on the second ballot.

"Only once since 1936," Keech and Matthews say, "have the primaries contributed to the downfall of a candidate who was likely to win nomination before they were held, and only once have they led to the emergence of a nominee who was otherwise unlikely to be chosen. Both events occurred in 1972 when the Democrats nominated McGovern."

The two researchers concede, however, that the New Hampshire primary may have been influential in the Truman and Johnson decisions not to run for reelection.

The men have been convinced in their research that public opinion polls are a much more accurate guide to victory at the nominating conventions than primary results. In more cases than one, they say, who's ahead for the nomination is clear from the polls at the start of the nominating year. And the leader, though he may stumble, usually goes on to win. If the race is broad and leadership uncertain, primaries may confuse the issue all the more; but the polls, Keech and Matthews believe, rather clearly track the slipping back of this candidate and that and the gains won by others — so that by convention time it is almost clear who the winner will be.

In reading Keech and Matthews, one comes away with the uneasy feeling that we the voters know all too little about the men nominated — that, by and large, they fit a pattern — usually vice presidents or senators and, infrequently of late, governors. Sometimes generals. We are told a great many superficialities about each. More than we care to know. But very little substance.

Doc Peirsol
Just in jest

One of the first things we the people do in order to effect a more perfect society is to draw up codes of ethics. We have them for doctors, lawyers, congressmen, school teachers, used car dealers, service club members, and just the other day a graduate business school decided the time had arrived to add a course in business ethics to its curriculum.

We firmly believe that by establishing rules and regulations and inscribing them on a wall plaque, we are demonstrating our honesty and integrity and are even making it possible for widows and orphans to deal with us without fear of being ripped off. Then, having gone to all that trouble, we figure we have a perfect right to revert to type and continue doing business as usual. And when somebody has the temerity to accuse us of pulling a fast one: — "Look," we say, pointing to our code of ethics hanging on the wall, "Would we cheat you?"

For additional evidence that in this country a sin is not always a sin, you have only to go to Minnesota where gambling has officially been declared illegal — except, of course, church operated bingo games.

The public forum
Drowning in our freedom

Dear Editor:

I am grieved over the story in the Progress Bulletin in which it was reported that the Chino School Board was unable to resolve the proposal made by board member Lyle Briggs that board meetings be opened with the pledge of allegiance to the American flag.

It is amazing how intelligent men act so unintelligent and spineless. I can just see this school board the day they really have to make an important decision. It will probably go something like this:

Sir, today we have to accept or reject the fact that Jesus Christ is the son of God. Mr. Briggs will state firmly his position. Supt. Royce Lapp will no doubt say, "Now for the past said many years we have not had to make that decision, I don't see why we should have to make it now." Board member Roy Ward, in my opinion, will say, "I'm afraid to object because of what judgment may come upon me," or maybe he'll say, "I'll stay neutral, because that way I'll neither be right or wrong."

Board member August Tapia will go along with whatever is decided. Oh yes, then there is board member Pete Vander Poel. He will, of course, jokingly say, "We best get a public committee to decide on this one." And last, but certainly not least, board member Allen McCombs will offer an alternative to the decision.

I am very grieved in my heart for such misguided men who, in my opinion, are so very, very blind and who waste so much of our tax dollars and their time perverting our educational system.

We, in America have gotten so loose and free that we are drowning in our freedom. We have allowed the governmental system, from the highest to the lowest, even to the very school system, to prostitute the morals of a fine nation, one that was founded on loyalty to God and country.

I don't know Mr. Briggs personally, but I am proud to know at least one of our school board members has not forsaken the standards that our lovely country was founded on.

I will continue to pray for those of us who are not strong enough to take a firm stand. May God help all the people of this nation who have lost sight of the loyalty and love of our heritage. — Mrs. Wilbur C. Rehm, Chino

Poll of judges has high purpose

By EARL WATERS

In a novel experiment the Sacramento County Bar Association conducted a judicial appraisal poll among its members. The launching was controversial in itself but not as much as what it became after the results were published. Understandably, some judges rated higher than others in the opinion of those who must practice before them. The charge, however, that it amounted to nothing more than a popularity contest would seem refuted by both the results and the nature of the categories evaluated. For, some personally likeable judges were rated lower than some who are not as well met.

The categories upon which the judges were judged covered competence and ability; honor, integrity and fairness; dignity and judicial demeanor; soundness of rulings; industriousness and conscientousness; reasonableness to counsel; and courtesy and respect to counsel.

While release of the poll to the public had initially been programmed for late last fall, inexperience led to delays and its publication shortly before the closing deadline for candidates caused some criticism. Spokesmen for the lawyers said there was no intent to influence anyone into running against any judge.

Still, some judges are being challenged although it is debatable whether the poll alone sparked the opponents.

Whether it did or didn't, there is little doubt the inevitable result of such polls will encourage lawyers to contest the re-election of a judge who rates poorly, and admittedly that is the ultimate purpose of such an exercise.

As one local attorney put it: "The way things are there is no dignified basis for a lawyer to campaign against a judge. But, if such a poll is accurate and fairly evaluates a judge, and he is found wanting, it then gives someone a platform upon which to run against him."

As it will work in Sacramento, such a poll in itself will not be conclusive. The Bar Association by-laws provide that in any contested judgeship a plebiscite may be conducted. If a candidate, including the judge, receives 60 per cent or better approval he may claim the support of the local bar; otherwise the results will not be released.

While the poll is new in concept it did not originate in Sacramento and has already been tried in at least two other counties as well as in Dallas.

The idea behind such polls is not basically that of providing ammunition for attorneys to oppose judges with whom they become unhappy. Rather, it is explained: "It is a means of upgrading the courts and keeping the judges on their toes. It is unfortunately a fact that some judges become tired or overbearing or lose interest. The poll is intended to make them aware of their shortcomings."

Some years ago the Legislature, acting upon the recommendations of the State Bar and Judicial Council, created the Judicial Qualifications Commission. It has acted to remove those from the bench who have violated judicial tenets. And it has quietly rebuked other judges.

But, conceded by the commission itself and reiterated by lawyers, is that its authority is with those involving serious overt judicial misconduct and is lacking in the nebulous areas of unfitness.

So the poll, which is gathering interest around the state, came into being to fill the void. The Sacramento attorneys acknowledge their initial effort was accomplished by some mistakes. But they plan to review and refine the process.

For criticisms notwithstanding, they plan to continue with such a poll each two years. From a distant view it would seem the principle of work evaluation should apply to judges as well as any others.

Obviously, the general public has not the ability to rate judges and the lawyers have.

Utilities want public to pay

WASHINGTON — The nation's giant utility companies are quietly conniving to tack on an additional $44 billion to their customers' electricity bills.

The utilities are pushing for an obscure change in federal regulations which would allow them to pass on current construction costs to users. Today's customers, thereby, would be paying for tomorrow's power.

If the The Federal Power Commission allows the rules change, the price of electricity could jump from 10 to 20 per cent.

This is the conclusion of an unpubiished Library of Congress study which was conducted for Rep. John Moss, D.-Calif. The study estimates the rules change would cost the consumers $44 billion over the next five years.

The utilities would like to rise this staggering sum to cover the cost of building nuclear power plants. The anticipated construction will require enormous capital which the utilities want to squeeze out of their customers.

The companies would rather stick the consumers with the construction bill, of course, than dip into their own profits. Meanwhile, the utility industry rang up an average increase of 20 per cent in earnings last year.

During the first nine months of 1975, for example, the Virginia Electric and Power Co. reported a 186 per cent boost in profits. Consolidated Edison of New York listed fourth-quarter profits of $54.7 million, a 31 per cent increase over the previous year.

The reluctant regulators at the Federal Power Commission, meanwhile, have scheduled only one public hearing on the $44 billion rules change. This will be held in New York City on March 8.

Utility executives, with their lawyers and economists in tow, are flying in from all over the country to present their case. Consumer groups, however, cannot afford the same highpowered lobbying effort.

Footnote: Technically, the rules change will affect only the small number of utilities directly under FPC regulation. However, most state utility commissiones follow the FPC's lead. If the change is made in the regulations, therefore, it likely will be adopted throughout the nation.

REVENUE RIGHTS: The federal government pumps billions into the treasuries of states and localities. But under the Revenue Sharing Act, the great green flow could be cut off to any local government that practices discrimination.

In past columns, we have published evidence that some of this federal manna is being spent in ways that discriminate against women, blacks and others.

Now we have obtained internal government documents, which confirm our findings. A Treasury Dept. task force, for example, found serious deficiencies in the Office of Revenue Sharings (ORS).

The task force charges not only that the ORS civil rights staff "appears to have limited previous experience as civil rights investigators" but that proper procedures to enforce the antidiscrimination provision "have not been developed."

An even more disturbing report has been prepared by the Center for National Policy Review and Clearinghouse on Revenue Sharing, which reviewed ORS files as part of a two-year government grant. Here are a few examples from the study:

— In Pittsburgh, the ORS accepted the city's contention that only two of 200 applicants for fire department jobs were minority citizens because the minorities weren't interested in working for the city. On the contrary, the study found that minority workers didn't apply because they thought it would be futile under the city's biased recruitment and testing procedures.

— In Los Angeles, a complaint against sex bias on the city's health staff was dismissed because the alleged discrimination had occurred before the Revenue Sharing Act went into effect. Yet the study charges that the employment bias was a continuing condition.

— In Spartanburg, S.C., an ORS auditor learned that a civil rights matter had been mishandled but never reported his findings to the compliance division.

My wife foresees

So I said to my wife, "Doesn't it ever embarrass you always to be first?" She was ready to pull out of Vietnam months before I was.

She recognized the perenniality of Walt Disney. The marketability and perishability of maxi-skirts and the transistoriality of rock-and-roll.

You want to know what's happening, ask me.

You want to know what's going to happen, ask my wife. She would have told you 15 years ago that New York would go broke, that the U.N. would lose its prestige and that Washington, D.C., would decide about now that busing, seat belts and handouts, foreign and domestic, are creating more problems than they are solving.

Liberals have argued for a generation that the cure for social ills is money. They imagined that you could empty the ghetto with modern, inexpensive public housing.

They forgot that poor people have poor ways; that when you take people out of the slums before you've taken the slums out of the people you end up with ramshacke high-rises with roaches in the kitchen and garbage in the bathtub.

A generation ago our republic was hemorrhaging red ink because of gargantuan military expenditures.

Today our nation is the prostrate victim of a horde of bloodsucking parasites. The budget for the "Health, Education and Welfare Department (HEW) is now one-third of our nation's total budget!"

We imagined that spoon-feeding would be enough to dissuade anybody from stealing. Instead, for all our Social Security, unemployment pay, Aid for Families of Dependent Children (ADC), food stamps and free rent, crime continues to increase 10 times faster than our population is increasing.

But my wife was right. Even in this election year the President proposes and the Congress appears acquiescent to slashing the budget for HEW.

That budget has been growing 15% per year and compounding; at least the new Ford budget will reduce that expansion rate by half.

Outlays for food stamps have tripled since 1972, will increase by another billion dollars this year. But the Budget Reform Act of 1974 created the first mechanism for comprehensive congressional action to control spending; lawmakers are now forced to calculate costs and future costs of all social legislation.

It won't be easy. Last summer Congress reduced one subsidy for the school lunch program — then added two more. Congress could not resist increasing veterans' pensions by 8%. Medicare and Medicaid, with no increase, will still cost us $4 billion to $5 billion more this year than last due to inflation.

But my wife sees beyond election year pragmatism to an awakening awareness by taxpayers and eventually by legislators that although there are many desirable services, they are not worth going bankrupt for.

That people who work for a living are going to demand that everybody who can — does. That as surely as the society of the gold spoon was unfair to some, the society of the tin cup is worse.

Ann Landers

Laugh today, cry tomorrow

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 13-year-old daily reader of your column and I am very mad at the kids I go to school with. The reason is you.

Every day, the first thing I hear when I walk into class is, "Did you read Ann Landers today?" Then they laugh and make fun of the people who write to you, as if they are all nutty or something.

Why don't they realize that a problem isn't funny to the person who has it? I'll bet every one of those kids who is laughing now will end up with some kind of trouble you might be abled to help them with. But they will be too ashamed to ask you for help because they made fun of you so often.

Please print this letter so the hyenas will stop laughing. — Your Booster

Dear Booster: Let 'em laugh, honey. If they need me I'll be here. Yesterday's knocker is tomorrow's friend.

Dear Ann Landers: As you undoubtedly are aware, a great deal is being said against the funeral service profession of late. I would like to present the other side of the controversy since almost everything I have read casts the funeral director in the role of the rip-off artist who takes advantage of poor people by making them feel guilty if they don't put Pa or Ma away in a $4,000 bronze casket.

The charges against the profession are based on an infinitesimal sampling of families, made in one small area of the United States. The statistics I have seen indicate that there were approximately 100 complaints from nearly a million families who were served. This compares very favorably with any profession in the United States. In fact, I believe it's a testimony to the integrity of the profession. Will you please comment? — Unjustly Maligned

Dear U. M.: Every profession has its chiselers, con-artists and, incompetents. Funeral directors, along with the physicians, lawyers, bankers, etc., have their share. But I'm sure the overwhelming majority of morticians are honorable people who perform a service we could not do without. Moreover, they perform it with dignity and sensitivity and are extremely even-handed in that they offer a wide range of financial alternatives for people of every economic level.

I know of a funeral director in Chicago whose family has been in business since 1864. Rarely does this firm charge more than a token fee for the burial of an infant and in cases of financial hardship they either donate their services or they will accept as a fee whatever the family can afford.

Dear Ann Landers: I have a 24-year-old brother who acts like a 10-year-old kid. He has a good job but is always broke. Why? Because he keeps lending money to deadbeats and buying gifts for golddiggers.

Hank now owes me $110 and I'm not exactly the U.S. Mint. It burns me up to see the way his friends take advantage of him. He says he knows he's being taken for a sucker, but he just can't say no. What can I do? — Sister Of A Sap

Dear Sis: For openers you can stop lending him money. Next you can suggest that Hank get some counseling and find out why he has such a low opinion of himself that he believes he wouldn't have any friends unless he played Santa Claus.

SIGNIFICANT YEARS

What would you say to be the three most significant years of your life? Consider past, present and future, please. When scholars put that query to a sizable sampling of citizens, a majority of those over age 40 picked all three years out of the past. And almost all of them over age 55 selected past years. This suggests that too many people too soon come to think of themselves as over the hill. They ought not. Everybody ought to believe that at least one of life's three most important years is still in the future. Meet me next to the soapbox in Union Square this evening and we will discuss the matter at greater length.

Little wonder those doctors who fit dental braces to straighten teeth are doing so well. Exactly 49 out of every 50 people grow at least one crooked tooth, the records indicate.

Dr. Miller

Bears hibernate in tree trunks

DEAR DR. MILLER: My dumb sister claims she read in a respectable magazine that a black bear will spend a bad winter sleeping in a tree. That's crazy. I happen to know (1) full grown bears can't climb trees and (2) even bear hair wouldn't keep it warm if it was hibernating on a tree limb in a storm, which it wouldn't do because bears aren't that dumb and it would fall off if it did, besides. Letter writing's a pain, but it's worth it if you can straighten my sister out. I tried and I can't. — G.D.

DEAR G. D.: Writing worth it? Well, not always maybe. It's true a black bear wouldn't hibernate on a tree limb, but then they're not true hibernators. They are, however, excellent tree-climbers and often winter IN old tree trunks. These dens may be as high as 60 feet off the ground.

DEAR DR. MILLER: My wife's canary had a toe turn black and drop off. When I used to raise chickens, young ones would have the same thing happen to them if they ate a cereal fungus called ergot. Couldn't this cause a loss of toes in canaries, too? — K. D.

DEAR K. D.: Yes, if grain contaminated with ergot is fed to a caged bird it could cause gangrene to develop in the extremities which could cause the loss of a toe, or worse. There are, however, other diseases in caged birds which will cause toes to turn dark and be lost, causes ranging from injury to septicemia.

DEAR DR. MILLER: At a dog show, every breeder you talk to claims their dog is the smartest breed. I don't buy that. When you get right down to it, isn't one breed about as smart as another ? — K. J.

DEAR K. J.: Breeders are understandably a bit biased about their breeds and brains. All the same? Not at all. Breeds of dogs, and certainly dogs within a breed, may vary widely in not only their potential I.Q. but even more important, in the way it's expressed. A people-oriented pooch, even though its canine I.Q. may actually be a bit on the low side, will rate high because it's responsive and anxious to please. Conversely, a canine with a cranium cramped with gray matter may appear a bit dull if it doesn't care to communicate. Naturally enough, a pooch's performance will also relate to his inherent abilities. The smartest, and invariably the happiest, dogs are those whose owners are able to utilize their inherent inclinations and abilities.

Erma Bombeck

All Ford requires is Heston

A lot of people are so busy watching and listening to the presidential candidates, they overlook the real people who could make the difference. Show business personalities.

It's simply a matter of scoring. To date, on the Democratic side Jimmy Carter has the endorsement of the Marshall Tucker band and Gregg Allman. Since Gregg is married to Cher, it could mean the entire block of "navel" votes could go to Carter.

Mo Udall has Linda Ronstadt as a supporter and Fred Harris lists Harry Chapin, Arlo Guthrie, Pete Seeger and Tom Paxton behind him. George Wallace is claiming a large segment of country music performers.

On the Republican side of the ledger, Ronald Reagan hopes to net Pat Boone. Gerald Ford is still doing a single.

The Democrats seem to have captured the lion's share of tennis players (which could make a difference at the convention) but have only one tap dancer (Shirley MacLaine).

The Republicans, however, have several blockbusters, Sammy Davis, Jr., Pearl Bailey and John Wayne, who have been known to affect a landslide victory.

Still confused and wondering who to watch in the forthcoming election year?

Watch Rich Little. Rich is no fool. He's not going to align himself with any candidate whose voice he can't do.

Watch Jeanne Dixon. She's another one who, in her business, can't afford to endorse a "loser."

Watch Bob Hope. As yet, he's uncommitted, but you can bet he won't play footsies with a "ski" man even if he has to nominate Jack Nicklaus himself.

Paul Newman. Some people question how much effect a sex symbol will have on the voting public. I can only tell you Paul Newman supported Humphrey in 1968. In 1972, I voted for Humphrey and he wasn't even running.

Watch for the uncommitted vote. There are 97 per cent of the entertainers in Las Vegas, Hollywood, Nashville and New York who are still on the fence.

My husband refutes my theory. He says people listen to issues, weigh the attitudes of the candidates and the soundness of their proposals.

All I know is if Gerald Ford gets Charlton Heston in his back pocket, that's the old ballgame. With Moses on his side, he can't miss.

Jogging good for women, too

DEAR DR. LAMB — I would like to know if jogging is a good recommended exercise for women as well as men? A friend told me it wasn't good for women.

DEAR READER — Jogging, trotting, walking and such exercises are good for men and women of all ages if they are in good health. I can't imagine why anyone would tell you jogging would be good for men but not good for women. The truth is that because women are less inclined to have heart and vascular diseases than men they have less dangers of getting into trouble jogging than men do.

Women are also less inclined to be competitive to the degree men are. That means they are more sensible about how they exercise. You won't find the majority of women racing the clock to better their time every time they run. I think women are more inclined to jog or run for pleasure than they are for the score. The biggest danger in jogging is overdoing it before you are trained to that level and trying to improve your life time.

It's the distance you jog at a comfortable rate, not the speed, that really benefits your health. For more information on jogging and its relation to health and dangers send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 4-2, Jogging, Exertion, Sudden Death. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Progress Bulletin, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Many members of my family have congenital polycystic kidneys. I cannot find any information on this disease. Can you help me?

DEAR READER — This is a fairly rare disease. The figures vary but for about every 500 autopsies one case of cystic kidneys is found. Because of an inherited or developmental abnormality the kidney has a number of small rounded cysts in it. These are usually associated with enlarged kidneys. Sometimes these can be felt on physical examinations, in other instances they are first noted by an X ray of the abdomen.

When relatives are all carefully studied usually about half the relatives of a patient with polycystic kidney also have the disease.

How much trouble it causes really depends on how much damage there is to the kidneys. If there are a few small cysts and the condition is first observed in adult life the outlook may be fairly optimistic. However, the more cysts there are and the larger they are the more likely the kidney function will be impaired early in life.

Thse patients may have sudden painless bleeding in the urine or they may have high blood pressure and other evidence of impared kidney function.

The treatment really is medical in attempting to control high blood pressure and provide general good health particularly protecting against infections. Interestingly enough restricting the salt in the diet isn't particularly helpful in people with this problem.

Some individuals with polycystic kidney disease also have cysts of other organs in the body. But if general good health is present and the kidneys become sufficiently diseased that they are not providing adequate function then such techniques as an artificial kidney or even kidney transplants can be considered.

Opening lead — 7 ♥

By Oswald & James Jacoby

A really good rubber-bridge player would lead the seven of hearts against South's six-diamond contract. He would reason that the bidding had marked North with the king of hearts and South with a doubleton. If North and South also held the jack that lead would almost surely result in defeat of the contract. Otherwise, it would give declarer an unimportant extra trick.

A match-point player would lead the ace to save that over-trick.

This brings us to a story about this hand. West, a young player with roving eyes had seen the entire North and South hands during the bidding and therefore had no problem about leading that seven of hearts.

South, a naive-looking elderly lady also had no problems. She rose with dummy's king of hearts, drew trumps, ruffed out the queen of clubs and made seven.

"How did you figure that out?" asked West.

"Chest your cards, young man," was the reply.

Lure cockroaches to their death

By NORMAN H. STARK

Cockroaches? Ugh! To me they're in the same category as house flies or rats — carriers of disease and filth. But they are a fact of life, appearing in the most meticulously maintained home to the chagrin of its occupants. So it's wise to be aware of this possibility and be prepared to take action, should it happen to you.

To annihilate these objectionable filthy pests, make up this mixture. Put two tablespoons of FLOUR, one tablespoon of COCOA POWDER and four tablespoons of POWDERED BORAX in a suitable container, such as a wooden bowl. Dry mix these ingredients thoroughly and store in a glass, plastic or metal container. To use, sprinkle the mixture on small pieces of paper and place in areas where roaches have been seen.

Decoying them to their demise is admittedly sneaky, but effective and justified.

Your cost to make cockroach exterminating powder is about three cents per ounce.

To determine your savings, divide the cost of your store-bought brand by the number of ounces it contains. Then compare the per-ounce cost — you'll be surprised at how much you can save for so little effort.

Note: Material costs are based on the prices at retail outlets of national drug, grocery and hardware chains. These costs will vary, depending on the geographic area. If you wish to make up a larger quantitiy — and save even more — buy your materials at a chemical supply company (see the Yellow Pages).

(Like any chemical product you use at home, you should store this one safely, label it — listing ingredients and noting any cautions — and keep it out of reach of children.)

(There has never been a how-to book so practical and helpful as THE FORMULA BOOK. Hundreds of easy recipes put savings and fun into the making of your own personal and home care items. Over 200 pages of recipes, diagrams and instructions on ingredients and equipment, in a large paperback format, for only $5.95. Send to THE FORMULA BOOK, c/o this newspaper, P. O. Lola Ades sets talk

Claremont artist Lola Ades will give a demonstration of painting roses at a meeting of the Associated Artists in the Ontario Public Library at 9:30 a.m. Wednesday. The public is welcome.

Mrs. Ades is Kansan by birth. When she was 6 she began to sketch the farm animals she saw and "portraits" of her family. When she was 14, she moved with her family to California. In high school she won a prize in a national art contest for a piece of sculpture.

Three lessons in china painting got her started on the right road, she says, and she enrolled in the Famous Artists Course, graduating in 1967.

Mrs. Ades now concentrates on oil painting. She has won prizes in many Southern California art shows. Her work is sold mostly through galleries. She has two art books published by Walter Foster, which are sold all over the world.

Seven artists to show

Seven local artists will take part in an exhibition of drawings and graphics at the Libra Gallery of the Claremont Graduate School, 12th Street and Dartmouth Avenue, Monday through Friday.

They are Barbara Allen, Melissa Blake, Paul Darrow, Ted Drake, David Firman, Eric Ismay and Diana Johnson.

A reception for the artists will be held at the gallery from 8 to 10 p.m. Tuesday.

Gallery hours are 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Retired Pomona teacher

Lends hand in community

The California Retired Teachers Association has been making a survey of its members who are doing volunteer work in their communities.

The results of the survey show that many retired teachers are deeply involved in civic, educational, church, cultural and health services. Mrs. Angeline Becker, coordinator of the survey of over 400 members of the Pomona Valley Division of the CRTA, has determined that 8,365 hours, or an average of 24 hours for each member, have been contributed each month in the last few years by retired teachers in this area.

The research accomplished by Mrs. Becker has brought to light some very interesting examples of volunteer work contributed.

One of the most unusual volunteers is Mrs. Florence Miner, who for 42 years taught in Pomona schools, Washington, Kauffman and Fremont.

Mrs. Miner has been assisting the residents of Pilgrim Place in Claremont, a religious and cultural center where 300 retired Christian workers, including teachers, missionaries and ministers make their homes.

Each November the group holds a two-day festival with performances celebrating the first Thanksgiving Day and booths where many things are sold for the benefit of their health service fund. Many volunteers help the residents in the preparation and selling of the articles at the festival. Mrs. Miner is one of these volunteers, but her contribution goes far beyond her sales effort.

In the past five years Mrs. Miner has been raising plants to be sold at the festival. Early in the spring she starts young plants from slips or flats. The pots for the plants are contributed by her friends or containers are purchased in the local thrift stores.

Mrs. Miner says she has dug up so much of the soil from her own yard that she has had to buy the dirt for the pots. After months of care, she has ferns, ivy, philodendron and other plants growing in pots up to a gallon in size. Some are in macrame holders that she has made. By fall they will be ready for the Pilgrim Festival.

Las year over two truckloads of plants, more than 500, were taken from her home to Pilgrim Place. Mrs. Miner spent four days arranging and selling the plants. Other items she contributes for the festival include baked goods, and chestnuts from her tree at home.

More than $700 was realized from the sale of her plants and food at the festival.

The donation of the money as well as the hours spent planting, transplanting, potting and watering, is one retired teacher's contribution to the welfare of others.

Luncheon planned by club

Members of Claremont Women's Club will be entertained by Betsy Ross and Suzanne Harris at the March luncheon meeting Wednesday noon at the clubhouse.

Miss Ross, of Scottish and Irish descent, has music degrees from Chicago Musical College of Roosevelt University. She studied the bagpipe for four years and is now completing a second master's degree in music history at Claremont Graduate School.

She will dance the Highland Fling, Sword Dance and will be in full costume when she plays the bagpipes.

Miss Harris, a lyric soprano, sang with the Loma Linda Chamber Singers and toured the major cities of Scandinavia with the group while studying for a B.S. in nursing.

After the program the Free Lance and Bridge seven sections will be in charge of a Chinese auction.

Lunch will be prepared by Mrs. John Powlesson and her committee. Reservations may be made by calling Mrs. Azalea George, 624-7495, or Mrs. Georgia Butler, 965-5769.

The Book Section will meet March 19 at 10 a.m. in the home of Mrs. Mabel Hammons. Mrs. Cortelyou Presson will present a review. A luncheon followed by cards is planned at the clubhouse on March 24 at noon.

BELTED TUNIC FOR SPRING

Model wears two—piece wool suit in red and white checks from Pierre Balmain's 1976 spring and summer collection. Belted tunic jacket is worn over pleated skirt. Red wool coat completes outfit, left. Christian Dior presents raw silk jacket worn over blue crepe dress.

Annual Showcase will open in April

Interested groups are invited to make arrangements now to tour the 12th annual Showcase of Interior Design in Pasadena. The women of the Pasadena Junior Philharmonic Committee, assisted by decorators who are members of the American Society of Interior Designers, are currently at work landscaping, refurbishing and decorating a landmark home and from April 25 through May 16 they will open it to the public for tours.

This year's project is a five-acre estate well-known in the area as "Pegfiar." Visitors will see every room of the beautiful white-colonnaded Colonial home situated on a hillside above the Rose Bowl.

The beautifully planted gardens, play yard, pool, and tennis court will also be on the tour. There will be entertainment by various musical groups daily, a continuous art show, and wine and cheese tasting in the evenings.

'Scandinavian Saga' featured

Treasured names and far-off places provide the setting for the fourth in a series of Audubon color film and lecture presentations at 7:30 p.m. Monday in La Fetra Hall on the La Verne College campus.

John Douglas Bulger's film "Scandinavian Saga" will take the viewer on a scenic tour of Denmark's enchanted isles, Norway's craggy fjords, Finland's forests and Sweden's castles.

More than 50 species of birds and other animals are featured. Gaily costumed puffins, tawny darting skuas, brightly colored oyster-catchers and captivating lynx kittens vie for attention with strikingly beautiful geese and many other creatures ranging in size from the tiny wagtail to the immense European bison.

Other colorful aspects of Scandinavian life add their own interest. Finns display uncanny agility and balance as they ride huge logs through white water rapids, and viewers visit Elsinore Castle, Tivoli Gardens, famed bird rocks of Oland and the Lofoten Islands.

Bulger began writing at an early age and has contributed to many magazines. Photography, for years a hobby, became a creative adjunct to writing and led to the making of movies. His wildlife films have been seen on television by millions, on nearly every station in the United States, and his camera has focused on wildlife from the depths of the African bush to the ice floes of the Arctic Ocean.

Tickets for the performance are available through the Pomona Valley Audubon Society or the business office at La Verne College.

Bruins bounce Trojans

By BILL LANGLEY
PB Sports Editor

LOS ANGELES — UCLA and USC were both happy to see the Pacific-8 Conference basketball race end Saturday afternoon.

For UCLA, the 87-73 victory served as a good tune-up for the Pac-8 champions as they prepare for the annual NCAA tournament, which is also known as the UCLA Invitational.

On the other hand, USC is delighted to see the 1975-76 season come to a close. The Trojans finished with a perfect Pac-8 record in losing all 14 conference games.

For awhile, it looked like USC might turn in an incredible upset when it took a 62-58 lead with 8:11 left in the game. At that point, the Trojan fans among the 12,717 at the Sports Arena were going wild.

But they were soon quiet as USC returned to form when UCLA outscored the hosts, 29-11, the rest of the way to make the final score very misleading.

It's probably no coincidence that UCLA took control when All-American Richard Washington got back in the game.

Washington was charged with three fouls in the first 10:13 of the game and sat out the rest of the first half. He picked up his fourth with 15:56 left in the game and went back to the bench.

But he scored 11 points in the final eight minutes to finish the day with 23 to lead both teams.

"We staggered a bit while Washington was out," UCLA Coach Gene Bartow said. "But he came in — and we were all right. Richard is an All-American, a great All-American, and you just don't play as well when you have an All-American sitting on the bench."

UCLA outscored the Trojans, 13-2, in a five-minute stretch to break the game open. In that period, USC would miss shots with the Bruins grabbing the rebound and moving up the court to score.

"What happened?," USC Coach Bob Boyd said. "Several things. Some good shots didn't go down. There were some calls that didn't go our way. But perhaps it was that undefinable thing that happens to losing teams."

Fouls certainly costs the Trojans down the stretch. USC lost center Steve Malovic and forward Greg White when it was still possible to win.

UCLA will take its 23-4 season record into NCAA first round action next Saturday at Eugene, Ore. against the Pacific Coast Athletic Association champion.

The Bruins appear ready to defend their national championship.

"We feel we've been playing well for about six weeks now with the obvious exception of our loss to Oregon," Bartow said. "We're as ready as we're ever going to be for the NCAA tournament."

Boyd is also happy. After going through the pre-conference schedule with an impressive 11-1 record, the Trojans took a nosedive in losing their final 15 games including all of them in Pac-8 play for USC's first winless league season since 1927.

"I don't think it sounds good for me to say.I'm glad the season is over but it's hard to lose for two straight months," Boyd said. "I never want to go through it again."

UCLA enjoyed the lead throughout the first half but the Trojans made it close at halftime, 35-33, thanks to a spectacular basket by Greg White at the buzzer after a long pass from Casey Jones.

USC went ahead, 56-54, on White's layup. Pomona's Cleve Porter kept the Trojans ahead with a 10-foot jumper and baskets by Earl Evans and Bob Trowbridge built the four-point margin when Washington helped turn it around for the Bruins.

UCLA shot 50 per cent from the floor and made 21 of its 23 free throws while USC could make only 41.7 per cent of its field goals and 13 of 17 free throws. The Bruins had a big 45-31 edge on the boards but UCLA also committed 16 turnovers to USC's eight.

Marques Johnson scored 20 to help Washington with freshman center David Greenwood and senior guard Andre McCarter adding 14 and 12 respectively.

Despite playing only 21 minutes, Washington made 8-of-11 field goals and 7-of-8 free throws and grabbed nine rebounds to tie Johnson for that honor.

Senior forward Trowbridge paced USC with 19 points followed by Evans with 13, Marv Safford with 12 and White's 10.

Porter, a sophomore from Ganesha High, played 28 minutes in a starting role for USC. He scored eight points, blocked one shot but had only one rebound.

In the preliminary game, the UCLA women's team whipped USC, 96-59. The Bruins ended regular season play with a 16-2 record while USC finished at 8-9.

Miller blasts BB hierarchy

NEW YORK (AP) — Negotiators for the two sides in baseball's labor dispute held separate press briefings Saturday but had no immediate plans for resuming talks in an effort to break the stalemate that has kept spring training camps shut down.

"What we have is an owners' strike," charged Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association. "It is a strike against the fans and against the players and it is without justification."

Miller, responding to the suggestion that the labor deadlock could lead to owners "abandoning baseball," said that his office has received angry calls from players suggesting that the Players Association might seek alternatives to a bargaining agreement with the owners if the talks remain stalled.

"April 25 is the deadline," Miller said. "The players are willing and able and want to play baseball. And they are under contracts to the clubs to play. If that's impossible solely because the owners won't permit it, each player has the right to demand to be paid on April 15. Unless they are paid within 10 days, they are free. Either they will be paid, or the franchises will have no players."

And what would happen then?

"The players could seek alternatives such as community ownership of teams. I think there will be a baseball season, one way or another," Miller said.

"If the owners deprive the fans by 'abandoning baseball,' we will look into alternatives. The fans won't be deprived and the players won't be deprived. The owners will find that they are redundant and unnecessary."

Miller lashed out at the Player Relations Committee which represents the owners in the talks. The committee's negotiating team is composed of American League President Lee MacPhail, National League President Chub Feeney and John Gaherin, the owners' chief negotiator.

"We don't negotiate with people who have money in the clubs," said Miller. "Their negotiators are people on the owners' payroll and they do what they are ordered to do. They obey the lowest common denominators—the hard liners."

The owners' committee reacted in amazement at the suggestion that the players could take over baseball after Miller's April 25 deadline.

"Our position is that individual contracts are subordinated to a collectively bargained agreement," said Gaherin. "We would not consider what Mr. Miller is saying to be factual. He is not supported by the law."

MacPhail wondered where the players would play. "The clubs hold leases on the parks," he said. "If the players are going to take over and run it, I've got six unsigned umpires and I'd like to turn them over to Mr. Miller."

Semantics seemed to separate the two parties on another matter.

Miller charged that the owners had rejected the Players Association offer of a modified reserve clause that would allow players to become free agents after six major league or nine professional seasons after giving one year's notice.

'Pack's Coste claims state title

By BRENT SHYER
PB Correspondent

Out of 312 wrestlers who entered the Fourth Annual CIF State Wrestling Championships, only 13 were crowned as state champions, and Claremont's Randy Coste was one of those victors.

In the final rounds held at Cal Poly's Kellogg Gym Saturday, Coste captured the first spot in the 165-pound weight class by defeating Kevin Cookingham of Clovis High.

Prior to Coste's big match, he anxiously paced across the gym floor. Claremont's head wrestling coach Jim Broncatello said about Coste's mental state, "He is relaxed enough. I'm the one that is nervous."

"He is a nice kid and a very coachable one. I was fortunate to have him," continued Broncatello.

Coste won his semi-final round earlier in the day as he vanquished Eureka's Rocky Harrison by a 3-0 count to gain his chance in the finals.

His match with Cookingham was not easy. Cookingham had extremely impressive credentials going into the bout. He was 41-1 on the season, and 111-7 in his Clovis career.

Cookingham actually took a 1-0 lead in the second period by escaping Coste. But Randy came back in the third period to take down the Central Section grappler, and then scored three points on a near fall. That made the final decision 5-1.

The only local grunt and groaner to participate in Saturday's happenings was Upland High's Doug Stone. However, Stone lost in the opening round of the consolation bracket 8-2, to Mike Gordon of San Marcos and was eliminated through that defeat.

Coste, who was naturally elated with his win, said following the match, "I worked hard for this all year. I figured if I could stay even or go ahead of him in takedowns, I could beat him."

When asked about the near-pin Coste responded, "I tightened up as tight as I could but he had his shoulder up, so I couldn't get him all the way down. He's a very tough wrestler."

Clovis High won the tournament's team championship with a 65-point total. That victory marks the third consecutive title that the Central Section entry has captured.

Ryan Kawaoka from James Lick High won the outstanding wrestler award in the tournament. Kawaoka won four straight matches enroute to his 127-pound championship. He had a pin in his first match and then decision scores of 5-4, 15-3, and 11-3 to take the crown.

Grapplers that went undefeated to their championships are listed in each weight class as follows: Dan Cuestas (Merced-95-pounds); Gary Fischer (Dos Pueblos — 103-pounds); John Smithson (Buena — 112-pounds); Wayne Ouncey (Merced — 120-punds); Chris Benintendi — (El Cajon — 133-pounds); Glen Cooper (San Juan — 138-pounds); Scott Heaton (San Luis Obispo — 145-pounds); Craig Trxler (Morro Bay — 154-pounds); Spyro Kemble (Corona Del Mar — 175-pounds); Eric Wais (Woodland — 191-pounds); and George Moskowite (Vintage — 235-pounds).

Coach Broncatello, who spoke with a broad grin on his face following Coste's victory remarked, "Basically you tell a kid that you've got it in you. Randy believed it — he believed in himself. There were a lot of outstanding wrestlers here who could have won, but the one who wins is the one that believes he can."

For those who were unable to attend the tourney in person, there is still an opportunity to view the action. KNBC Channel 4 taped Saturday's final championship rounds and will show it on its Prep Sports World on Sunday, April 11, from 1-3 p.m. with Ross Porter and UCLA wrestling coach Al Hollinger describing the action.

Saturday's attendance was estimated at 4,000 fans and they saw some great grappling.

Pepperdine wins WCAC

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Marcos Leite, Pepperdine's 6-foot-9 junior center, scored 28 points and hauled in 15 rebounds Saturday night to lead the Waves to an 85-84 overtime victory over the University of San Francisco Dons.

The victory gave Pepperdine the West Coast Athletic Conference basketball championship and a payoff spot in the NCAA regionals next Saturday at Tempe, Ariz.

The game was close throughout, with Pepperdine leading most of the way by three or four points. The Dons tied it at 73-73 on a 15-foot jumper from the outside by Winford Boynes with 1:13 left, ending scoring for the regulation time.

USF jumped off to a 76-73 lead in the overtime but Ollie Matson cut that to a point with a driving layup. The two teams traded baskets, with the Dons going ahead 80-79 with 52 seconds left. Two free throws by Leite and got the lead back for the Waves and Brian Gorjian cushioned the margin with four free throws in the final 22 seconds, offseting a layup by USF's Boynes and a jumper by Bill Cartwright at the buzzer.

Ex-MSAC baseball coach Ron Squire dies at age 43

Ron Squire, former Mt. San Antonio College baseball coach, died at his home in Walnut Friday. He was 43.

Squire had been suffering from amyotrophic lateral sclerosis, commonly referrred to as "Lou Gehrig's Desease," for several years.

Although confined to a wheel chair the past several months, Squire had continued his duties as counselor at MSAC up until the time of his death. He was also serving as a scout for the Philadelphia Phillies and had been in attendance at local baseball games as recently as last Thursday.

Squire came to MSAC in 1964 from a successful coaching career at Lynwood High, and continued his winning record at the Walnut campus.

While coach at Lynwood, Squire-coached teams compiled a 144-48 record in 10 years and won the CIF baseball title in 1964.

Squire topped that feat in his first season at the helm of the Mounties, as he guided them to the State JC championship. Squire's 1966 Mounties finished second in the conference. Overall, the Mounties posted a 101-32 mark during Squire's tenure.

Citing personal reasons, Squire stepped down as Mountie mentor following the 1968 season.

Many of his players went on to successful careers in professional baseball, while others followed Squire into the coaching ranks.

A native of Long Beach, Squire received his B.S. degree from Pepperdine, where he played varsity baseball under John Scolinos (the current Cal Poly Pomona skipper) in the early 1950's.

Following graduation from Pepperdine, he spent three years in the U.S. Air Force from 1951 to 1953. After receiving his honorable discharge, Squire attended USC and earned a Masters Degree.

He started his successful coaching career in Lynwood in 1955. In 1964 he authored a book on baseball, "How to Develop The Successful Pitcher," which was published by Prentice-Hall. He was regarded as one of the top authorities on coaching methods in the country and many major league pitchers sought his advice.

In addition to his coaching duties, Squire served as a scout for the Detroit Tigers from 1958 to 1960, the Cincinnati Reds from 1960 to 1969 and the Phillies from 1969 until the time of his death.

Besides his widow Shirley, Squire is survived by two daughters, Susan and Sherry, a son Steven, all of Walnut, his parents, Dr. and Mrs. Russel Squire of West Lake Village and a brother, William, also of West Lake Village.

Funeral services will be held Monday afternoon at 3 p.m. at the Oakdale Memorial Chapel in Glendora. Rev. Hubert Derrick will officiate. Friends and former players of Squire are invited.

Donations may be made to the Ron Squire Memorial Fund in care of MSAC.

MSAC coach Art Mazmanian announced that the scheduled game between the Mounties and Santa Barbara City College Monday afternoon has been postponed until Tuesday in Squire's memory.

Pacific upsets Fullerton, 72-64

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — The University of Pacific Tigers upset Pacific Coast Athletic Association basketball cochampion Fullerton State 72-64 Saturday night and will play San Diego State Sunday to determine who meets UCLA in the NCAA west regional next Saturday.

San Diego State beat San Jose State 67-64 in the opener as Bob Kovach and Will Connelly combined for 45 points for the Aztecs, who were last year's NCAA playoff representative for the PCAA.

Pacific, playing on its home floor where it is 11-3 this season and where it beat Fullerton 7365 Feb. 5, took the lead nine seconds before the half and never lost it, building a margin of as much as 12 points.

Pacific, 4-6 in the league and 14-13 over-all, shot 46 per cent from the field to 39 per cent for Fullerton, which shared the PCAA title with Long Beach St. at 6-4 and is 15-10 over-all. Long Beach is on NCAA probation and was ineligible for the league playoffs.

Pacific's leading scorers were Myron Jordan with 24, Jim Hurley with 20 and Vic Baker with 16, and Baker topped the Tigers' rebounding with 11.

Greg Bunch had 15 points and 18 rebounds for the Titans, and Tim Dwyer contributed 12 points and Bob Losner 10.

The San Jose-San Diego game was close all the way.

Connelly scored 24 points and Kovach 21, and each grabbed 10 rebounds. The Aztecs came from behind with a run of 12 points in the first half and led 33-25 at the intermission. The Spartans trailed through the second half, narrowing the margin to 58-56 with 6:16 to go and to 63-62 with 49 seconds left.

Ron Delsman's two free throws for San Diego offset by Ken Mickey's layup which kept the Spartan within a point at 65-64 with 14 seconds to go. Connelly added a layup at the buzzer for the final margin.

Mickey led Spartan scoring with 16, Rick Quinn had 13 and Gary Eubanks 11. Earl Hogue of San Jose led all rebounders with 12.

Chino's Finnerty ready for playoffs

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

Chino's Kevin Finnerty just experienced his biggest thrill since he began playing basketball and is looking forward to the chance of experiencing an even bigger one.

Finnerty's team, Cal Baptist, won the district playoffs and is in the 32-team NAIA National Tournament at Kansas City beginning Monday.

The Lancers (27-3) are slated to play Husson College (26-0) at 11:15 a.m.

"Winning the district title has to be the biggest thing that happened to me," said Finnerty. "I was the Most Valuable Player in a Christmas Tournament in Oregon, but those things just lead into the playoffs."

The 6-9 Lancer center averaged 15.3 points a game this year and was the team's second best rebounder averaging 10.4 per contest.

Cal Baptist is the top scoring team nationally in the NAIA. Coach Floyd Evans' team averaged nearly 103 points a game and had a team shooting percentage of .536.

The Lancers have seven players averaging in double figures. Eight players, including all five starters, are averaging over 50 percent from the field!

"I think we have a pretty good chance in the nationals," Finnerty said. "Of course you never know in a big tournament like this."

Finnerty has come a long way from his early days at Chino High.

"I was a 6-4 freshman and couldn't even make the team," he recalled. "The next year I did make the jayvee squad, but I was the last man. I didn't play hardly at all. The only time I'd get in was when it was like 40-20 with 10 seconds left."

By that time, Kevin had grown to 6-6.

"Coach (Frank) Elder took an interest in me and worked with me," Finnerty said. He asked me to play summer league ball, and when I came back in the fall as a junior, he made me a starter. He could have gone with a senior, but he stuck with me. I didn't do much. I was probably the weakest link on the team. I scored only about five points a game but rebounded well."

The senior Elder's patience paid off. In his senior year, Finnerty, now 6-8, averaged near 16 points a game, was Chino's leading rebounder. He was named to the All San Antonio League second team.

"My biggest thrill in high school came in the Chino Tournament," he remembered. "We beat Claremont. Phil Pinto threw a length-of-the-court pass to me and I scored with one second left to win the game."

Only two colleges, Cal Baptist and Cal Poly, recruited him and he went to the Riverside school.

"I really hadn't developed even then," he said. "I didn't develop until I was a sophomore at Cal Baptist."

Injuries dogged Finnerty his first two years. Starting out on the freshman team at Cal Baptist, he was moved to the varsity after seven games only to suffer a knee injury that sidelined him the rest of the season.

In his sophomore year, he broke his wrist on the first play of the first game of the season. He was out for six weeks, returned and averaged about 16 points and 10 rebounds a game the last half of the season.

As a junior last year, he was Cal Baptist's leading scorer (16.9 average) and rebounder (11.8 average).

Between his freshman and sophomore years, he reached his current height (6-9), and got up to his present weight, 215, about a year ago.

"I never was much interested in weightlifting even though I was always too light," he admitted. "But I never could discipline myself to working out two or three hours three or four times a week. When I did try out, it always threw my shot off."

Kevin married his highschool girl friend, the former Kathy Aday, just about a year ago (March 22). Kathy had been a Chino High Song leader.

A Business Administration major, he plans to go in that direction after a little more basketball.

"If I get drafted (by the NBA) I'll try that," he said. "Otherwise I think I may play in Europe for a year."

When he does finish playing basketball, he plans to return to Southern California or Arizona.

"I want to stay somewhere around here or in Arizona because I like the warm weather," he said. "Southern California has the best weather anywhere. I have relatives back in Iowa and I have no desire to be back there when it's cold."

The outside temperature won't bother Finnerty now. He only hopes he and his teammates will continue their sizzling scoring in the national tournament.

W. German woman wins

COPPER MOUNTAIN, Colo. (AP) — Rosi Mittermaier of West Germany won the women's World Cup ski over-all points championship Saturday, becoming the first to do it since Austria's Annemarie Proell established dominance of the tour in 1971 with the first of her five straight titles.

Miss Mittermaier accomplished what almost any other woman skier would have considered the dream of a lifetime when she won the Olympic downhill and slalom gold, then captured the giant slalom silver, losing to unheralded Kathy Kreiner of Canada by just 12-hundredths of a second.

Those 12-hundredths separated her from a feat unparalleled in women's Olympic skiing and accomplished only twice by the men—three golds in the Alpine events.

But her smile never waned, and she made it clear her next goal was to capture the World Cup title. Although she had been in the top 15 in the World Cup standings since 1958, she never had won a title.

Miss Mittermaier, a hotel and restaurant waitress in the offseason, came to Copper Mountain with a better-than-even chance of clinching the Cup. After winning Friday's giant slalom—while Miss Morerod could do no better than seventh—the short-haired West German had a virtual lock on amateur skiing's most prestigious title.

After the Innsbruck Games, Miss Mittermaier, who never before had won an Olympic gold, was offered $500,000 in endorsements, which prompted her to comment that she didn't know how long she could retain her amateur status. She has been non-committal about turning pro, but it is expected this will be her last World Cup.

Miss Mittermaier, weathered from nine years of competitive skiing and looking at least three or four years older than her 25 years, will next ski at Aspen, Colo., where the tour moves next weekend. After that, there are only two more World Cup stops, at Mont Ste. Anne, Quebec, and Quebec City.

The Copper Mountain World Cup continues today with the men's slalom.

GOTEBORG, Sweden (AP) — Dorothy Hamill, America's 19year old Olympic champion, shook off her stage fright Saturday and won the women's figure skating world championship for the United States for the first time in eight years.

Miss Hamill, of Riverside, Conn.—coached by the same man who trained the previous U.S. world and Olympic champion Peggy Fleming—withstood challenges from defending champion Dianne de Leeuw, who lives in California but competes for Holland; and 1974 champion Christine Errath of East Germany. Miss Errath, with strong free skating, overtook Miss de Leeuw for second place.

Miss Hamill, who has declared she will end her competitive career here and may take up one of many rich offers from ice shows, won both Friday's short program and Saturday's final four-minute free skating.

She did not have as difficult a program as Miss Errath—the only girl who dared the difficult triple toe-loop—but executed her program with very competent double jumps and excellent spins, including her famous "Hamill Camel." She got three near perfect scores of 5.9 for technical merit, including marks from the U.S. and Soviet judges—but a row of 5.9's from all but one judge for artistic impression. Miss Errath had 5.9's for technical merit but 5.8's for artistic flair. She also had a slight miss on one jump.

The 20-year-old Miss de Leeuw, an elegant, long-legged brunette from Paramount, Calif., who has skated for Holland since 1971, made a faultless performance but earned only 5.7's and 5.8's. The Dutch girl, who intends to turn professional, finished behind Miss Errath in third place in a very close contest where both had the same place points. All judges but one had Miss Hamill as No. 1.

BERLIN (AP) — Sheila Young, winner of three medals at the Innsbruck Winter Olympics, scored victories in the 500 and 1,000 meters Saturday, leading a powerful American assault at the World's Speed Skating Championships in West Berlin.

Miss Young, the 25-year-old gold, silver and bronze-medal winning Olympian from Detroit, won both the women's 500 and 1,000 meter races and led at the halfway mark of the competition with 87.150 points.

Right behind Miss Young was her U.S. teammate, Leah Poulos of Northbrook, Ill., with 87.870 points and second-place finisher in the 500 and 1,000 meter races.

The American men also did well, with Olympic gold medalist Peter Mueller second in the standings with 80.255 points. Mueller, 21, from Mequon, Wis., was second in the 1,000 meters and was sixth in the 500.

Dan Immerfall of Madison, Wis., was in seventh place over-all with 80.685 points following a first-place finish in the 500 and eighth in the 1,000. Immerfall said he was troubled by a sore throat and the weather— cold, snowy and breezy that slowed down the West Berlin rink with an icy crust.

Stags eighth

MARSHALL, Minn. — Claremont-Mudd finished eighth in the NAIA National Swimming Championships which concluded here Saturday night.

The Stags accumulated 84 points during the three-day meet. Occidental, also a member of the Southern California Interscholastic Athletic Conference, placed 11th with 74 points while Pomona-Pitzer finished 17th with 12.

Defending champion Simon Fraser won with 412 points.

C-M's Jon Gudman set a SCIAC record for the 1650-yard freestyle with a time of 16:50.60, good for fourth place Saturday. The Stags' 400-yard freestyle relay foursome of David Kent, Ed Mesa, Mike Blatt and Jack Pearce placed eighth in 3:15.4 while Occidental took fifth place in the event in 3:12.96.

Claremont-Mudd finished third last year in the NAIA finals.

N.L. sked finally released

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Now that the San Francisco Giants are safe at home, the National League has released its official schedule for the 1976 baseball season...five weeks late.

Originally, release of the schedule was set for Feb. 2, coinciding with the centennial anniversary of the founding of the league Feb. 2, 1876.

When an agreement in principal was reached Jan. 9 to sell the Giants to a Canadian group that would have moved the team to Toronto, the Feb. 2 date was abandoned and "three or four possible schedules were drawn up," said Blake Cullen, league public relations director.

"It wasn't just a matter of substituting Toronto for San Francisco in the scheduling," Cullen said. "One of the alternate schedules provided for some inter-league play."

In line with past tradition, NL action will open at Cincinnati where the Reds will entertain Houston for a day game on April 8.

For the first time since 1958, the Los Angeles Dodgers will play an opener in San Francisco against the Giants. That will be a day game on April 9.

Other openers on April 9 have Montreal at New York in the afternoon and Chicago at St. Louis and Atlanta at San Diego at night.

Pittsburgh opens at Philadelphia in a day game April 10.

The schedule, which ends on Oct. 3 has Atlanta leading in the number of home night games with 67, two more than Los Angeles. Houston and Philadelphia have 64 under the lights; San Diego 63, St. Louis 59, Cincinnati and Montreal 55 each, Pittsburgh 51, New York 39, San Francisco 29, and Chicago, which has no lights, none.

College baseball roundup

Broncs sweep two from CSLA

Cal Poly swept a doubleheader, Pomona-Pitzer split a twinbill with LIFE Bible and La Verne dropped a single game at the University of Arizona in Saturday college baseball.

Poly dented Cal State Los Angeles pitching for 27 hits and 17 runs in beating the Diablos, 10-8 and 7-4.

Pomona-Pitzer was edged by LIFE, 7-6, in the first game and won, 8-6, in the second.

La Verne committed six errors in dropping its second straight game at Arizona, 9-6. Two games were originally scheduled Saturday, but the second was cancelled in order to avoid any conflict with the Arizona-Arizona St. basketball game.

Alex Torres carried the hot bat for the Broncos. The Poly second baseman went 5-for-9 including a two-run triple in the first game and a double in the second.

Centerfielder Dennis Sherow had four hits in the two games including a three-run homer in the first game. Poly scored in all but three innings.

In the nightcap, the Broncos won the game with a six-run third inning. In all 12 players went to bat.

Kevin McLean started it with a single and then stole second. Sherow walked. Clay Harris singled to load the bases. Ken Hellyer singled to McLean and Sherow. Jay Johnson fanned.

Torres hit a screaming double off the left field wall driving in Harris. John Turriff was safe on an error, Hellyer scoring. Lon Brucegard singled in Torres. Scott Pyle singled to load the bases again.

McLean struck out, but Sherow walked forcing Turriff across the plate. Harris grounded out to end the inning.

Pomona-Pitzer outhit LIFE, 10-6 in losing the first game. The Sagehens also made fewer errors, two to LIFE's four. But LIFE made it's six hits good for seven runs.

In the second game, the 'Hens broke a 1-1 tie with a three-run sixth inning only to have LIFE score four runs in its half of the stanza.

Gordien betters his own mark

LONG BEACH — Mt. San Antonio College's Marcus Gordien twice bettered his own national junior college discus record Saturday afternoon at Long Beach State to lead a group of MSAC and Cal Poly athletes who turned in good showings at the Long Beach Relays.

Gordien, a sophomore from Claremont High, set the national standard of 189 feet, 10 inches Friday in a dual meet with Cerritos. The old mark of 187-5 had endured for 13 years, but Gordien's record lasted only a day as he threw a 191-6 in the prelims and 192-3 in the finals Saturday to win the open division discus at Long Beach.

Also in the open division, Cal Poly's Mark Lottich placed second in the steeple chase with a time of 9:48.7 and MSAC's Steve Miller took fifth in the high jump at 6-7.

John Gregorio, a product of Ganesha High and MSAC who is presently training for the Olympics at MSAC, won the open six mile in 28:11.2. Gregorio was running unattached.

Several individuals and relay squads from Poly placed well in the college division.

Paul Nelson won the 440-yard high hurdles in 54.5, Mark Kegans won the pole vault at 15-6 and Joe Schiefer and Claude Chumley placed second and third, respectively, in the high jump, both at 6-7.

Poly's mile relay foursome of Ron Stewart, Nelson, Oscar Kenda and Jerrold Curry took second in 3:19.1 and the sprint medley squad of Kenda (220), Pete Delagardelle (220), Stewart (440) and Nelson (880) placed second in 3:35.0.

The Bronco distance medley team of Gaylon Ratliff (440), Mike Nash (880), Greg Morrison (1320) and Alan Ashcraft (mile) was third in 10:39.0.

Vikes get no hits

Garey High's baseball team ran into quite a pitcher Saturday night at Ralph Welch park.

Garden Grove's Dan Brent won his third game without a loss by no-hitting the Vikings for a 7-0 victory. He struck out 11 batters and walked three.

Garden Grove managed just five hits off Viking hurlers David Rondero and Timmy Quiroga, but the pair walked eight and the Vikes had five errors to account for the wide margin.

Garey (2-2) will host Duarte Wednesday afternoon.

KEEPING HIS EYE ON THE BALL — Gary Player eyes his blast out of a sandtrap on the 16th green Saturday at the Florida Citrus Open Tourney. Player set a course record with a blistering 62 to charge into contention for the title.

Connors paces World Cup win

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — A fresh Jimmy Connors hammered away at John Newcombe, playing his third match in less than 24 hours, to defeat the Australian 6-2, 6-3 Saturday and give the United States its first World Cup of tennis since 1971.

The victory by Connors, playing in his first World Cup match in the event's seven-year history, clinched the best-ofseven series for the U.S., 4-1.

Sunday, Connors was to play Tony Roche before a final doubles match, for which the players didn't have to be announced until an hour before it began.

Arthur Ashe set up the rare American victory by winning his second singles match in as many days, beating a determined but tiring Roche, 3-6, 6-2, 6-3, in Saturday's opening singles match.

Connors' victory broke a four-year stranglehold on the Cup by Australia, which won five of the six previous tournaments.

Connors had little trouble with Newcombe in the first set, breaking his service in the second and eighth games. Connors made the point that won the set with one of several overhead smashes that left Newcombe helpless during the match.

The American leaped into a 3-0 second-set lead. In one of the longest games of the tournament, Connors won on the fourth break point of the second game. The winner was a forehand over Newcombe's head which dropped just in front of the baseline.

Newcombe gave it one last charge. He held his service, broke back in the fifth game and won the sixth game at 40-30 with an ace to even the set at 3-3.

Then Connors reasserted himself, holding his serve with a love game then came up with a critical break in the next game.

"I imagine I can play a little better than today," said Newcombe, who arrived in Hartford Thursday after a long trip from New Zealand and played a singles match and a doubles match Friday night.

Asked if he was tired, Newcombe said, "That's the second year in a row I played Friday night and then Saturday afternoon. I'd like to attend the draw next year."

Connors said, "I just went out and played tennis today. I had a lot of fun and played one of the best matches I've played in a long time."

With the addition of Connors and with Ashe at the top of his game, the U.S. had probably its best team in World Cup history. Australia lost Rod Laver before the tournament began because of his wife's illness. Roche is playing the singles matches in his place and Australian Captain Fred Stolle minimized Laver's loss, saying, "We had the guys there with the ability to do the job."

In his match with Roche, Ashe seized the advantage in the sixth game of the final set when he broke Roche's service and took a 4-2 lead. Roche survived a pair of break points to bring the game to deuce.

Then Ashe, who defeated Newcombe 6-3, 6-4 Friday night, smashed a forehand crosscourt and Roche returned wide. The 30-year-old Aussie left-hander then double faulted to give Ashe the critical game.

College basketball roundup

Hoosiers triumph

By The Associated Press

Indiana completed its second straight unbeaten regular season, Rutgers remained undefeated, Virginia's Cinderella Cavaliers won the Atlantic Coast Conference championship and defending national champion UCLA tuned up for defense of its NCAA basketball title with victories Saturday.

Top-ranked Indiana, with All-American Scott May and burly Kent Benson each scoring 21 points, routed Ohio State 96-67 for its 27th victory of the season and 18th in the Big Ten Conference.

Rutgers, ranked third and the nation's only other major unbeaten team, held off 16th-rated St. John's, N.Y. 70-67 in the final of the Eastern Collegiate Athletic Conference Metro Division playoff final for its 28th victory.

Virginia, which finished sixth in the ACC during the regular season with an undistinguished 4-8 record, completed its stunning run to the post-season title with a 67-62 victory over fourth-ranked North Carolina. On the way to its first conference championship in the league's 23-year history, Virginia beat three nationally ranked teams, including ninth-rated Maryland and No. 17 North Carolina State.

Meanwhile, several berths were being filled for the widespread NCAA tourney, which begins next Saturday at eight regional sites and ends March 29 in Philadelphia.

Texas Tech qualified for an NCAA first-round game against Syracuse at Denton, Tex., edging Texas A&M 74-72 on Mike Russell's 17-foot shot with two seconds remaining in the final of the Southwest Conference playoff. It was the 100th victory for Tech Coach Gerald Myers.

Cincinnati, ranked 13th, won the first Metro Six title and earned the right to meet Notre Dame in an opening-round NCAA game, beating Memphis State 103-95, with the help of Pat Cummings, who scored 15 of his 23 points in the second half.

In addition to the Rutgers-St. John's game, there were three ECAC regional playoff finals, with each of the winners earning NCAA berths.

Georgetown, D.C., sparked by reserves Larry Long and Jonathan Smith, rallied for a 68-63 victory over George Washington in the ECAC Southern Regional. Connecticut took the New England regional title, upsetting Providence 87-73, and Syracuse won the upstate New York championship, downing Niagara 77-68.

Unheralded Hofstra won the East Coast Conference championship, topping Temple 79-72 behind Rich Laurel's 28 points.

Among the other ranked teams in action Saturday, sixth-ranked Alabama was upset by Kentucky 90-85 in a nationally televised game and No. 11 Michigan held off Northwestern 80-77.

Indiana, which will meet St. John's in an NCAA Mideast Regional opening-round game at South Bend, Ind., outscored Ohio State 33-8 during one stretch of the first half and cruised past the Buckeyes, extending its Big Ten winning streak to 37 games, its regular-season victory skein to 57. It was the Hoosiers' 61st triumph in its last 62 games over-all, and sent Fred Taylor to a dismal defeat in his final game as Ohio State coach.

"I didn't think it was ever going to end," said Taylor. "But this is the kind of thing (the lopsided score) you can expect from a team going for an undefeated season."

Rutgers, also gunning for an unbeaten season and scheduled to face Ivy League champion Princeton in an East Regional NCAA opener at Providence, R.I., received much stiffer resistance from determined St. John's. But three key baskets in the closing minutes by Phil Sellers, who shared scoring honors with Hollis Copeland with 22 points, kept Rutgers in front.

Stags, Biola split twinbill

By DON BRADLEY
PB Staff Writer

Claremont-Mudd won one game from visiting Biola College Saturday and should have won two.

The Stags split a twinbill with the Eagles, winning the opener, 2-1, on Greg Thompason's home run and dropping the error-marred nightcap, 7-6.

It looked like C-M had the second game in the bag when the Stags scored two runs in the botton of the seventh to stretch their lead to 6-3.

But the momentum switched to Biola in the eighth and ninth inning.

Reliever Steve Rodriguez had sailed along on three hitless innings after taking over for starter Bob Phee in the top of the fifth, retired the first batter in the eighth and then seemed to lose it.

Dan McMillian and Cory Lyon singled. Both runners advanced on Ed Bangs' ground out and both scored on Jimmy Ritchie's second two-run double of the game.

Ritchie's hitting was an ironic twist. He was the number nine hitter and hadn't even played in the first game.

Rodriguez fanned Jim Mitchell to end the inning, his fourth strikeout in his four-inning stint and he didn't walk anyone.

But when Charlie Atkinson doubled off Rodriguez' first pitch of the ninth inning, Stags' coach Bill Arce wasted no time replacing him with Norm Richards.

Richards got Ed Hernandez to top a ball to him and had an easy play at first. However, he threw to third and an effort to get Atkinson. Atkinson beat the throw and Hernandez continued on to second which the Stags had left unguarded.

Mike Taylor singled in Atkinson to tie the game and then stole second. Dave Ludwig hit a grounder to Jaime Opatrny at third. Opatrny booted it for his second error of the game and sixth of the day. That loaded the bases.

Richards got McMillian to hit a bouncer to second and Bob Turek fired to Thompson at home in time to nip the runner. That should have been the third out, but it was only the first.

Cory Lyon hit a medium fly to center. But Taylor scored the winning run easily after the catch when the overeager Wynn Moore bounced his throw into the plate.

Player fires a 62

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Gary Player, author of an amazing 10-under-par 62, talked of shooting a score in the untouched 50s.

Hale Irwin talked of an improved and improving putting stroke that has enabled him to score 130 for his last 36 holes.

And Kermit Zarley, still in the lead through three rounds of the $200,000 Citrus Open Golf Tournament, had his game plan for Sunday's last 18 holes firmly in mind.

"I'm not going to look back at those guys," Zarley said from the lofty height of a threestroke lead, assembled on a third-round 68 and 54-hole total of 201, 15 under par on the treelined, 6,929-yard Rio Pinar Country Club course that took such a beating from Player and Irwin.

"I was thinking of withdrawing, going home, until I birdied the 17th hole in the first round," Irwin said after he'd shot 64 and moved into second place in Saturday's play. "I'm glad I didn't.

"My putting started coming around Friday and then today it was good. And I have the feeling it's going to get better."

Player made up the most ground with the best score of his 20-year American career.

"A score in the 50s will be shot," he said. "It's not so many years ago that everyone thought the four-minute mile was impossible. Now they run that in colleges.

"The same thing will happen in golf. It's inevitable. And when it happens, it may become commonplace."

It hasn't yet happened—at least, not on the American tour—but Player flirted with it. At one time he was in position to make it. He was thinking of it. But a poor club selection left the 50s still unreached.

Still, his 62 was remarkable enough in itself. It was the lowest score of the young season. It was the best since Johnny Miller shot 61 in Tucson more than a year ago.

And it was just two strokes off the all-time PGA tour record of 60. That mark is shared by seven players. Sam Snead was the last to reach the figure, in the 1957 Dallas Open.

And even that mark was in danger for a while.

Player, one of the first off the tee in bright, warm, sunny weather that later gave way to threatening clouds, was eight under par after 11 holes and, admittedly, was thinking of a score in the untouched 50s.

"It's one of my ambitions," the little South African veteran said. "I've broken 60, shot 59, in Brazil in 1974. But I've never broken 60 in America. I'd like to do that.

"I had a chance through the first 11 holes."

Player, who barely qualified for the final two rounds, started the day 11 strokes back of Zarley and made up six of them with a 206 total that left him only five shots back and very much in contention going into Sunday's final round of the chase for the $40,000 first prize.

John Mahaffey and Mike Hill were tied for third in the closely bunched pack at 205. "It's gonna be a shoot-out at high noon tomorrow," Mahaffey said after his 69. Hill had a 67.

Tied with Player at 206 were Mark Hayes, 71, Bob Murphy, 69, and Larry Ziegler, 68.

Upland, Webb earn victories

Upland High, Chino and Webb School posted baseball wins Saturday afternoon while Walnut fell to Rowland.

The Highlanders traveled to Azusa for a 6-4 victory, the Cowboys won, 10-5 at Bloomington, the Golden Gauls took eight innings to dispose of host Rio Hondo, 9-7, and the Mustangs lost to the visiting Raiders, 5-2.

Upland's Jeff Sarratt collected three hits, scored a run and drove one in as his teammates took full advantage of seven Azusa errors. Starter Gary Carr picked up the win, his first decision of the year, and Stan Smith earned a save by fanning the final Azusa batter to snuff a rally in the bottom of the ninth. The Aztecs had already scored three times in that frame.

The Cowboys used four singles, two walks and a hit batsman to score six runs in the fifth inning, erasing a 5-4 Bloomington lead. Rick Riedel's single drove in two of those runs.

Chino's Scott Ferguson got the win as teammate Marty Edens went three for four with an RBI.

Webb's Paul Richards went three for five and drove in four runs, including the winning one, as the Gauls scored four runs to tie in the top of the seventh inning and two for the win in the eighth.

Doubles by Tory Hubbell and Marshall Morton highlighted the four-run tying rally.

Manuel Castro earned his second win without a loss.

Soviets whip U.S. tracksters

LENINGRAD (AP) — Stan Vinson of Detroit and Wendy Knudson of Loveland, Colo., scored middle-distance victories over the Soviet Union and helped the United States to a sweep of the relays—but the young Americans were overwhelmed in most other events Saturday in their track meet against the Russians.

The Soviets, led by Yevgeny Yevsyukov, who set a world indoor record in the five-kilometer (3.1-mile) walk, won 18 of the 27 events before about 2,500 fans at the Leningrad Winter Stadium in convincingly winning the meet 171 to 117 points and taking a 3-2 lead in the series.

Soviet 1-2 sweeps were the order of the day, with the Russians achieving that feat in 12 of the 18 events they won. The Americans managed only one 1-2 sweep, that in the men's 400 meters, where Vinson clocked 47.69 seconds and Dorel Watley of Pittsburgh was second in 48.47, edging Vladimir Nosenko, third in 48.89.

"Frankly speaking, we expected to win—but not so big," Soviet Coach Anatoly Komarov said. "The Americans were weaker than we had expected."

The four individual American victories by the men were by Vinson in the 400 meters, Larry Shipp of Washington, D.C., in the men's 60-meter hurdles, Greg Fredericks of State College, Pa., in the 5,000 meters and Larry Myricks of Jackson, Miss., in the long jump. The three U.S. women's triumphs were scored by Miss Knudson in the 600 meters, Sharon Dabney of Philadelphia in the 400 and Jan Merrill of New London, Conn., in the 1,500. Miss Merrill also competed in the women's 3,000 meters and finished a close second.

Evert downs Evonne

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Chris Evert fought off a strong comeback by Evonne Goolagong and beat the Australian 7-5, 7-6 Saturday to win a $75,000 women's tennis tournament.

Miss Evert appeared on her way to easy victory after winning the first five games of the first set, but Miss Goolagong's strong passing game evened the set at 5-5 before Miss Evert rallied and win the last two games.

In the second set, the women exchanged games and were deadlocked 6-6 before Miss Evert won in a thrilling suddendeath finish. On the women's professional circuit, if the set is tied at 6-6, a 5-of-9 point sudden-death playoff decides the winner.

Miss Goolagong forced the game into sudden-death with a brilliant lob shot to win the 12th game of the set.

Miss Evert said she "felt great" during the match despite a gruelling semifinal Friday night against Marita Redondo which she won 6-7, 7-6, 76.

"I felt really great all through the game," she said. "But I think I'm due for a rest." Miss Evert beat Miss Goolagong 6-3, 6-0 in a $75,000 tournament in Sarasota, Fla. last weekend.

'Pack girls win meet

The Claremont High girls track team posted two wins Friday in a triple dual meet.

The Wolfpack defeated defending CIF champion Royal, 63-28, and Glendora, 51-40. Glendora beat Royal, 56-34. Stacy Johnson of Claremont won the 100 and 200 yard dashes and anchored the winning 440 and mile relay teams.

Claremont, 3-0, is at Eisenhower next Friday.

JC golfers win matches

Mt. San Antonio and Citrus College golf teams posted wins Friday. The Mounties defeated Rio Hondo, 32-22. Citrus beat San Bernardino Valley College, 37-17.

Low medalist for MSAC was Tom Clark with a 74. Tim Black and Mike Bicker each shot 76s to tie for low Medalist for Citrus. The Owls are now 4-2. MSAC is 3-1.

TELLY HEADED NORTH, OTHERS ??? — Rescheduling of the $150,000 California Derby, first event in the rich California Golden Triple, for next Saturday hasn't changed trainer Mel Stute's plans one iota.

However, many other conditioners of Santa Anita-based stakes-class sophomores now find themselves in something of a dilemna. One day after the Cal Derby, Santa Anita is offering the $50,000 San Felipe Handicap, which, like the California Derby, is carded at a mile and one-sixteenth.

Whether to venture north and tackle a proven performer like Telly's Pop, but one who has not been in action since the last week in December, or stay at home and race for one-third the money versus competition that might not be as tough, that is the question.

NEW JOB, SAME GOOD PERFORMANCE — For more than two decades, Jack Williams ranked as one of the most successful trainer-drivers on the California harness racing circuit.

Until last fall, the 46-year-old native of Grand Rapids, Mich. held the Western Harness "iron man" record, having competed on 111 straight WHR programs at Hollywood Park in 1973-74.

Without any fanfare, Williams retired from competition after the '75 Western Harness meet and after a crash course in officiating this winter at Bay Meadows, he has stepped in as one of the three stewards at Los Alamitos.

"I had been thinking about switching to the other side of the game for some time," reports Williams, "and when Ed (his long-time patron, Ed Schaefer) died last fall, I decided this was the time. I had a real good learning session with Harry Hatch and John Jenuine at Bay Meadows and I'm very happy with the new job."

Williams' former rivals on the race track are happy, too. Not only has a rugged foe been eliminated, but they also know harness racing has gained a race-wise and fair hand in the steward's stand.

COULDN'T CATCH HER — Racing folklore includes a host of yarns about the speedy maiden who didn't reach the race track until she was five because she was so fast it was impossible to get a halter on her.

But a recent tale out of Chicago may be the topper. It concerns a pacer named Lincoln's Princess, who recently breezed to a nearly 12-length win in a maiden event. The oddity? Lincoln's Princess is nine years old.

Yep, the Hawthorne Race Course effort was her first start. The Princess already is a mama but through a series of mishaps, lameness and motherhood, she had never reached the starting gate.

The Princess was allowed into the contest written for four and five-year-old maidens. Racing secretary Bob Lary says he waived the conditions to allow Lincoln's Princess to compete because Hawthorne was presenting a day-night doubleheader and was short of horses during this winter season.

The mare's victory prompted comment from protesters to Chicago scribe Rick Talley. But there was no beef from the Hawthorne backsiders who watched the Princess take a qualifying heat several days prior to her maiden appearance. The nine-year-old not only scored easily but she paid only $6.20 and was the second half of a $19 daily double and the front end of a $12.80 quinella.

If they'd haltered her when she was seven, she'd probably have been odds-on.

AROUND THE OVALS — Where are they now dept . . . Bobby Nono, the former rider, is in the landscaping biz in Pasadena . . . About face dept. . . . A recent vote of the Village Board in Arlington Heights, Ill. scuttled a request for Sunday racing by a 5-4 tally. Two weeks later the matter again hit the agenda. This time it was 9-0, in favor. So Sabbath competiton will begin at the northside Chicago oval on July 4 . . . Three-alarm dept. . . . A new measure is moving through the New York State legislature. It will allow firemen to own race horses. Presently, the hook and ladder gang barred from ownership . . . Mr. and Mrs. Abe Colton, who raced the filly star Sandy Blue, were hoping to have a starter in the recent Santa Margarita in Bold Baby. She injured a foot and missed the distaff classic. But they were pleased that winner Fascinating Girl is by Sir Ivor. Sandy Blue has a striking Sir Ivor filly at her side in Kentucky . . . the Golden Gate strike forced trainer Neil Boyce to look elsewhere for competition. Boyce shipped his 16-horse string to Hazel Park, Detroit. Veteran jockey Jack Leonard accompanied Boyce on his midwest invasion of the Midwest . . . Karen Durkee, the gal rider owner Fred W. Hooper hoped would make it at the big apple but didn't finally collected a recent winner at Hialeah . . . Sandy Hawley grabbed the stakes-winning lead again at Santa Anita with his $32 Santa Isabel upset aboard Flunsa. It was Sandy's sixth added-money tally. Laffit Pincay and Bill Shoemaker are but one back.

THE WAY IT WAS — This 1966 shot of Yankee Stadium shows how the structure (erected in the 1920's) looked before a $46 million refurbishing job was done recently. The "new" Yankee Stadium is set for reopening with the start of the 1976 baseball season.

Facelift for Yankee Stadium

NEW YORK (AP) — Yankee Stadium stands as a landmark should, tall and proud, scrubbed down and freshened up, ready for a grand reopening when the 1976 baseball season gets started.

But, except for the neighborhood, Babe Ruth, Joe DiMaggio, Mickey Mantle and the other magic names who made the Stadium the best-known ball park in America, would never recognize the old joint.

Remember the 296-foot right field fence and its short wall that outfielders could reach over to steal home runs? Well, forget it. It's gone.

Remember the 457-foot death valley in left center field, where home run-sized drives turned into long, loud outs? Put it out of your mind. It's a thing of the past.

Oh, the outside is the same white stucco it was when the gates first opened in 1923. And there's already a bit of graffiti decorating the sidewalk-side of the outer wall—a graphic reminder that the ball park still stands in this decaying section of the Bronx.

Inside, however, this is a brand new showplace and it's easy to see how the project's original $32.7 million construction estimate ballooned to some $46 million for the ball park alone. Surrounding environmental improvement including the construction of two giant parking garages makes the total investment some $65 million for New York City, which now finds its pocketbook all but empty.

In 1972, with the Stadium approaching its 50th birthday and rapidly deteriorating, the Yankees began making loud noises about a new home—perhaps in New Jersey, where the National Football League Giants, long their co-tenants at the Stadium, were moving.

Fifteen years before, the Brooklyn Dodgers had sung the same song and when the city turned their new stadium request down, Walter O'Malley packed up his team and took Horace Stoneham's Giants along for a gold rush to California. Not wishing to see that happen again the city, seemingly more solvent then than it is now, agreed to refurbish the old ball park.

The work began at the conclusion of the 1973 season and while the Yankees spent the next two years sharing cityowned Shea Stadium with the New York Mets, architects and engineers went to work redoing their famous old home.

The city hired Madigan and Praeger, the same construction firm that built Shea for $24 million a decade earlier. The Yankees hired their own architect, Perry Green, to represent their interests. And the project started.

"The Yankees' main concern was that the ball park be modernized while retaining its historical aura," said Green. "That was my assignment."

So, the wooden plank seats were replaced with molded plastic ones, broader than their predecessors to accommodate the widening prosperity of the American fan. There are no slats in the seats, but there are crevices where the slats would be if the seats had been planked. Cost: $1.7 million.

On the sides of the old stadium, the original builders had inserted fancy louvres. They couldn't be saved but exact replicas were built and installed in the new stadium. Cost: $1.5 million.

Outside of the old stadium were ticket booths, a bit of the charm of the 1920s when the park was opened. They were all but destroyed by the fans when the park closed for refurbishing. One booth roof was saved and from it the architects were able to reconstruct the specifications and build a bank of booths to stand outside the park. The cost was minimal but historical aspect was significant.

Across the roof of the old park was a facade of grillwork that was uniquely Yankee Stadium. It could not be retained in the new stadium's roof but an exact facsimile was constructed and sits above the spectacular scoreboard that circles almost the entire outfield. Again, history was served.

The playing surface is a carpet of grass—the natural variety that also served the old stadium.

Green is understandably proud of the project.

"It's like the old Yankee Stadium," he said. "It's got character and charm."

Unlike so many new parks, the new Yankee Stadium will not be symmetrical.

"There was a conscious effort to avoid the cookie cutter syndrome," said Green. "This is still Yankee Stadium."

When the reconstruction project was begun, the outer walls, basic structure and all foundation work of the original Yankee Stadium was retained. "It was a selected demolition," said Green.

Working within that original shell, the new ball park was built. A special enclosed section was even constructed between the two bullpens to house the plaques and monuments that are so much a part of Yankee lore.

Although the builders sought to retain the flavor of the original Stadium, they also put in the luxuries you would expect contained in a modern ball park. These include banks of specially furnished suites on the loge levels that are private boxes. The larger ones, which include 30 seats, cost $30,000 for the season and the smaller 14-seat affairs go for $19,000. Both are tastefully decorated and include oil paintings that capture the Yankee past.

The luxury even extends to the dressing rooms. The visitors' room is is pretty basic but the Yankee quarters are equipped with a sauna bath and the individual lockers include mirrors.

Joe Pepitone would have loved that.

Angels to host open house today

ANAHEIM — California Angels announcers Don Drysdale and Dave Niehaus have joined the cast for today's open house at Anaheim Stadium to "Meet the Angels."

Drysdale and Niehaus will conduct informal interviews via the public address system with 15 Angels players plus manager Dick Williams and coaches Norm Sherry, Billy Muffett and Jimmie Reese.

The open house is scheduled from 2 to 4 pm with stadium gates to open at 1:30 pm. Parking and admission are free to the public.

Players and Angels front office executives will sit and chat with fans in the stands between interviews. It marks the first time fans will have an opportunity to meet players and ask questions strictly on an informal basis.

The Angels' Halos Dixieland band will provide musical entertainment throughout the afternoon.

Angels players scheduled to attend the open house include: Bob Allietta, Bruce Bochte, Bobby Bonds, Dave Chalk, Dave Collins, Andy Etchebarren, Ed Herrmann, Don Kirkwood, Joe Lahoud, Dick Lange, Bill Melton, Jerry Remy, Gary Ross, Billy Smith and Frank Tanana.

Field announced for 102nd Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Twenty-one states, Canada and two European countries have contributed to a list of 252 colts, geldings and fillies nominated for the 102nd Kentucky Derby to be run May 1.

Topping the list is Bertram Firestone's Honest Pleasure, juvenile champion last year, winner of seven of nine career starts and a record setter in his last race, the prestigeous Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah.

However, there is strong opposition from the likes of Telly's Pop, winner of five of seven races; the Puerto Rican-raced Bold Forbes; the undefeated An Act, and the lateblooming Lord Henribee.

Along with the others, these horses now begin the eight-week trek they hope will put them in the starting gate at Churchill Downs at 5:40 p.m., EDT, on the first Saturday in May.

No supplemental nominations are accepted for the Derby. If your name isn't on the list, you have no chance to add it.

The number of nominations is the third largest in Derby history—topped only by the whopping 290 who wanted to be in the 100th in 1974 and the 258 in 1972.

Tee to Cup

Paul Hahn; he did the trick

By PHIL ROCHE
PB Staff Writer

ON A COLD day years ago at Rio Hondo Golf Course in Downey, I saw Paul Hahn do his stuff. Smiling and casual with a driver, he hit a ball teed up on his wife's nose.

ON A COLD day years ago at Rio Hondo Golf Course in Downey, I saw Paul Hahn the trick shot artist, do his stuff. Smiling and casual with a driver, he hit a ball teed up on his wife's nose. She was lying down, and he teed up and knocked one down the fairway about 230. He hit golf balls on one leg, with crooked clubs, with his eyes blindfolded, with an old stick he found in someone's alley, lying down sitting down, and kneeling down.

He just kept smiling and cracking jokes. I remember how he violated every little rule of hitting a golf ball, but always belted the ball straight down the fairway — except when he wanted to slice, he sliced. When he wanted to hook, he hooked.

Paul died at 58 a few days ago. A pro at Lake Worth, Fla., he suffered a heart attack and never got back on the links. A little less merriment around courses these days.

But Paul's son carries on. He's a trick shot artist, too, no doubt taught by his pop. When you figure it out, Paul Sr. left his son a legacy. When one looks at all the unhappy people in this world, what could be a sunnier occupation than trick-shot golfer?

WHAT'S HAPPENED to Lee Trevino? Golf fans around here are hoping that the colorful character can kick the slight slump he's in, and move to the front again. He missed the cut for the Citrus Open, and appears to be off his game just a bit, and that's all it takes to be just another player.

While we're on the subject of carefree customers, we're pulling for Chi Chi Rodriguez to come through this year. Chi Chi had a terrible year in 1975. We'd like to see both him and Trevino come roaring out of the pack again. They're always good for some laughs.

S.A. Handicap set for today

SANTA ANITA — Santa Anita Park is likely to hit its high point, excitement-wise, for the current meeting today, the date of the newly enriched Santa Anita Handicap. Once the first $100,000 race run in the United States, the Big 'Cap was increased to $250,000-guaranteed this year.

When the Santa Anita Handicap was offered during the very first meeting presented at the Arcadia track, it was designed as an eye-opener and conversation-starter.

Lou P. Doherty, master of the Stallion Station in Kentucky and a figure in French breeding and racing, analyzes the first running of the $100,000 Santa Anita Handicap back in 1935 this way:

"It was a lucky race in more ways than one. It caught the imagination of the American public and foretold what is now taking effect, namely, the transfer of the title of America's racing capitol from New York to Los Angeles.

"Many horses in that first handicap were past their peak form — Twenty Grand and Equipoise, to name but two — but nevertheless they were names to conjure with, and they gave a town not only to the Santa Anita Handicap but to all West Coast racing.

"I was new in racing at the time, was in New York, and didn't have any money to speak of but I had a burning desire to see the race. I did, borrowing for the travel and expenses. It was that kind of a race. Nor was I alone, as I was later to learn. The race attracted thousands from far away places.

"It also was an historic event in another sense, for Santa Anita was the first big league sport that Los Angeles ever had and it established the town, sports-wise, as a top-notch American city. Major league baseball, football, basketball all were to follow."

The lone "big name" who didn't make it to the starting gate was Cavalcade, sometimes described as "the best horse of the century, including Man o' War." Cavalcade is now almost forgotten, but there is no doubt he was a first-calss runner, and his "iffy" status added a lot of pre-race decision, if not downright excitement. Even as a non-starter, he contributed a great deal of glamour to the race.

The winter betting books were flourishing institutions then, and Tom Kearney in St. Louis, the best known of them all, admitted to making a bundle on him. The winter book to the south, at Caliente, made Equipoise their favorite, and the best he could do was seventh.

The Los Angeles Times estimated a crowd of 50,000 would show up for the race if the weather was nice. It was, and actually 34,000 were on hand.

Brian Oldfield: Drifter

NEW YORK (AP) — "Drifter...have shot, will travel."

That's the way muscular Brian Oldfield lists his occupation in the International Track Association guide. Actually, his main job is shot putting, and he is predicting a record throw of at least 78 feet this year.

Oldfield, the biggest attraction—at least artistically if not physically—on the pro track tour, will take his traveling show on the road this week, making his 1976 ITA debut Saturday night in Seattle. He then will make his first television appearance of the year with the ITA in the Vitalis Pro Track Classic in Dallas on March 27, a meet to be shown over NBC from 11:30 p.m. EST-1 a.m. EST, in place of the usual Saturday night rerun of the Johnny Carson Show.

The 6-foot-5, 260-pound behemoth, holder of the world shot put record with an almost unbelievable toss of 75 feet—more than three feet past the best throw by an amateur—missed the ITA's first meet of the season, at Salt Lake City, Utah on Feb. 20, to participate in the Superstars competition Feb. 21-22 at Rotonda, Fla., where he placed fifth and earned $5,400.

The money he pocketed in those two days represented nearly one-third of what he collected ($17,125) as the ITA's second-leading money winner last year when he shattered the shot put record and uncorked the 16 longest tosses of the year.

But he said, "I didn't enjoy the Superstars after a while. I got nervous. I could have finished second."

The nervousness could have resulted from his lack of stamina. For the competition, he lost 25 pounds, to 250. Now, he is working on regaining 10 of those pounds.

"I took a water displacement test and found out that I should be 260 for maximum speed and strength," said the surprisingly quick Oldfield, who in addition to his shot putting, runs—and wins—dashes against the ITA's best women sprinters as a novelty and for extra money.

Weekly Wall Street

Trading slows; investors watch interest

By CHET CURRIER
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Trading slowed and prices turned mixed in the stock market this past week while investors kept a cautious eye on the outlook for interest rates.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks wavered in a realtively narrow range all week, finishing with a token net gain of .31 at 972.92.

New York Stock Exchange volume averaged 25.52 million shares a day, in marked contrast to the 30 million-plus pace of January and February.

The chief question being asked on Wall Street was whether interest rates might be beginning a sustained upward trend under the prodding of the Federal Reserve.

By Monday, most analysts agreed that the Fed had decided to tighten credit by at least a modest amount in response to recent growth in the nation's money supply.

The Fed's weekly statistical report Thursday showed a dropoff in the basic measure of the money supply—cash and checking account deposits in the economy—for the latest reporting week.

But investors seemed inclined to want to see more than one week's drop before concluding that credit conditions had settled down.

In its preoccupation with Fed-watching, the market all but ignored an abundance of favorable news in other parts of the economic picture.

The Commerce Department reported a good sized jump in orders received by manufacturers during January.

The Govenment's wholesale price index registered a 0.5 per cent drop for February, providing another sign that inflationary pressures had eased.

Major retailers posted healthy sales gains for February.

And the Labor Department reported on Friday that the unemployment rate had declined further, to 7.6 per cent in February from 7.8 the month before.

Analysts said the market had taken such developments into account in advance with its dramatic rise at the beginning of the year.

Unlike the Dow, most other market measures showed declines for the week.

Standard & Poor's 500-stock index was off .60 at 99.11, and the NYSE's composite index of more than 1,500 common stocks dropped .30 to 53.05.

Losers outpaced gainers 987 to 844 among the 2,056 NYSE-listed issues crossing the composite ticker tape.

New 1975-76 highs among individual issues numbered 216 during the week, against only seven new lows.

Litton Industries, the most active Big Board issue, jumped 3⅝ to 16. Analysts noted that the stock has attracted heavy trading interest since a Litton subsidiary won a $200 million Navy contract late last month.

Levitz Furniture picked up 1¼ to 8⅛. The company, which operates warehouse-stylehome furnishings stores across the country, reported a sharp gain in February sales.

Levitz stock traded as high as 60½ a few years ago in Wall Street's initial enthusiasm for the company, and then fell below 2 later on. Its low last year was 1¾.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index rose .28 to 103.65.

The Associated Press 60-stock average inched up .2 to 304.7.

Fairway set for expansion

Sixty acres have been purchased for expansion of the Fairway Homes development in Ontario, said Richard H. Han, president of Kingsway Construction Corp.

The community now has 346 three and four bedroom homes — including 98 under construction — adjacent to the Ontario National Golf Course.

The 60 acre addition will be used initially for start of the sixth phase with 49 more homes, he added.

"Construction of Phase 6 will make Fairway Homes an approximately $13 million development, making it one of the largest and fastest growing in Southern California."

Hahn said the first five phases have been sold out. "We feel this situation was brought about because Fairway Homes offer so much value at prices within reach of the average income family."

Each Fairway home has two bathrooms, wall-to-wall shag carpeting, fireplace, ceiling-high closets and ash cabinets. Buyers have a choice of five floor plans.

To reach the homes, persons may take the Pomona Freeway to the Vineyard Avenue offramp, drive south to Walnut Avenue and then to 1911 Bernuda Dunes Court.

Model homes are open for viewing daily from 10 a.m. until dusk.

Acid springs

The Lemonade Springs in New Mexico carry about 900 pounds of sulfuric acid per million pounds of water, more than 10 times the acid concentration in coal mine discharges.

OPENING TODAY — This is one of the homes on display today during the formal opening of Lewis Homes-Alta Loma development at Carnelian Street and Banyan Avenue, Alta Loma. The homes, priced from $50,400, include refrigerated air conditioning.

Credit offered renters

Persons could lose up to $45 if they fail to file for the renter's tax credit by April 15, said Assemblyman Bill McVittie, D-65th Dist.

The refund can be secured by filing a state personal income tax statement. It ranges from $25 on income under $5,000 to $45 on income over $8,000.

"People not required to file state income tax reports because their income last year was under $3,250 may still be entitled to the renter's credit," he added.

To receive the minimum $25 credit, a Form 540 personal income tax return is required. The credit will also be refunded to those whose income was above the minimum level if there was no tax liability, McVittie explained.

"If on March 1, 1975 you were a resident of California and the renter of a house, apartment or room on taxable property, then you are eligible for that credit.

"If you've filed an income tax return but neglected to include the renter's credit, an amended return on Form 540X or a claim for refund on Form FTB 3543 may be filed."

Any question regarding the tax credit may be directed to the Franchise Tax Board or to McVittie's office at 1063 W. Sixth St., Ontario. The telephone number is 983-2757.

127,000 photos are acquired

WASHINGTON (AP) — The National Collection of Fine Arts says it has acquired the Peter A. Juley & Son collection of some 127,000 photographic negatives which were produced from 1896 to 1975.

Lewis Homes opens Alta Loma project

Fifteen of the 24 new single family homes have been claimed by buyers, said Richard A. Lewis, president.

Thirty more homes of the same architectural and floor plan designs are under construction at an adjacent site to accommodate the large number of buyers indicated by the advance sales, he added.

Buyers have a choice of one and two story homes, which have from 1,776 to 2,194 square feet of floor space. They are designed with three and four bedrooms, two and 2½ bathrooms and three car garages. These are built on 12,000 square foot lots.

The homes, priced from $50,400 to $55,900, include refrigerated air conditioning. VA and FHA terms are offered.

The houses feature ceramic tile entries, fireplaces, family rooms, shag wall-to-wall carpeting and living rooms, dining rooms, hallways, stairways and bedrooms, and luminous ceilings in the kitchens and bathrooms.

To reach the homes, persons may take the San Bernardino Freeway to Vineyard Avenue in Ontario, go north five miles on Vineyard which becomes Carnelian Avenue and on to Banyan Avenue and then left to the homes.

Two display model homes are open daily

Finance services given to families on the move

Families about to move to new communities because of job transfers should plan for financing homes, said Herbert Hawkins, president of Hawkins Realtors.

Many employers have incorporated assistance with financing in their transfer programs, but employes of firms that don't offer such programs may encounter difficulties in arranging mortgage financing in communities where they haven't established banking contracts, he added.

"The sale of a family's present home to provide cash for the down payment on replacement housing is an obvious necessity for most families," said Hawkins. "An entree to a savings and loan association or other mortgage source in the family's new city is equally important."

The RELO-Inter-City Relocation Service, a real estate referal organization, can help at both ends of a move, he said.

The RELO member with whom a family has listed its home for sale will provide the first requisite. In Southern California, Hawkins offers an equity loan program which allows families to borrow on the equity in their homes to have ready cash for immediate purchase of another home.

The destination RELO broker to whom the family's housing needs are referred has established mortgage sources in the community where the family will relocate, said Hawkins. "His track record of having helped arrange hundreds of mortgages in good times as well as tight markets will benefit today's home buyer.

"The head of a family about to move may be a stranger in his destination city or town. But the RELO broker there — one of more than 850 members whose offices market real estate in some 8,000 communities — definitely is not a stranger," he said.

Close liason involving listing and destination RELO members and the family itself provides the family with essential and detailed information about its community and the housing market well in advance of moving there.

It also allows many house-hunting preliminaries — including initial contact for mortgage financing — to be completed as early as possible, frequently in advance of a family's first visit to its new town, Hawkins said.

"Relatively tight mortgage money is expected in most communities in the early months of 1976," Hawkins reported. "A friend in advance — in effect, a RELO broker informed about a family's housing needs and financial capabilities — in a city to which a family is being relocated can provide vital assistance.

"In addition, because of the close relationship between the broker selling the family's former residence and the RELO member helping find new housing at destination, negotiations for financing can be started even before the family has cash in hand from the equity in the home being sold."

Check contractor before remodeling

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Estimate: Americans will spend $30 billion this year to remodel their houses.

Estimate: Six per cent of the contractors in the country are dishonest or substandard.

Combine those two estimates, both of which have been made by authoritative sources, and you have some idea of how many home owners will be defrauded before the year is over.

Sadly, the large majority of those who are bilked will fall victim to three frauds every home owner should know, since he has been warned about them year after year by writers, consumer groups and even the reputable contractors whose reputations are tarnished by the misdeeds of the small minority.

One of the loudest voices in the campaign to educate the public in this regard is Joseph Nahay, executive director of the National Remodelers Assn., a nonprofit trade organization. I asked him to outline the three frauds that cause most of the trouble. This was his reply:

"The first is the old fashioned 'bait-and-switch' game — a technique in which astoundingly low prices are advertised for siding, insulation, fencing or other home improvements. The unsuspecting consumer answering the ad is told by a salesman that the item is sold out, or really not as good a value as another item in stock. (In some cases, the advertised item doesn't even exist.) Before he knows it, the home owner is switched to a higher-priced product or service, often sold for a lot more than its fair market value. Bait-and-switch is illegal just about everywhere, but it is often hard to spot and almost impossible to cure. In fact, the best cure is prevention. The home owner should be aware that any home improvement at an unbelievably low price is just that — unbelievable. If you suspect bait-and-switch, don't bite. Instead, report it to the authorities.

"A second fraud also works on the home owner's gullibility and goes something like this. A truck rolls up to your house and a man in work clothes hops out. 'Hi,' he says. 'I noticed you need new shingles on your roof, and I thought you might be interested in a special deal. I'm doing a roof two miles down the road and have a lot of extra shingles. I've also got some men idle. So I'd be happy to reshingle your roof real cheap.' The clinker in this fraud (which also applies to driveways, storm windows, fencing, etc.) is that once you've paid a deposit, the 'contractor' vanishes.

"The third fraud works a little on the home owner's vanity, and it resembles the second. Only this time the 'contractor' drives up and says, 'I noticed you need siding for your house and I'd like to put some up for you at a big discount. I've never done any business in this neighborhood before, and you would be my first customer. So I'll do the job at cost if I can use your house as a model for other potential customers.' Needless to say, the flattered home owner who makes a deposit comes out of his experience sadder, but perhaps wiser.

"To avoid getting snowed by an unethical or incompetent contractor, don't select one on the basis of price alone. Look for a reputable professional who has roots in the community and a business address and who can give you references. The names should include those of satisfied customers he's done jobs for. Then check his references to make sure they hold up. Also, check the local Better Business Bureau to see if there are any complaints on file, and call the contractor's bank to see if they'll say a good word for him. Incidentally, never do business with a contractor who says he works directly for a well-known manufacturer. Check with the National Remodelers Assn., which maintains a strict code of ethics for members, to see if they know him.

"Once you've found a contractor you have faith in, spell out your job in detail, then put it into a written contract. This assures there won't be a misunderstanding about what's to be done. The contract should provide for a down payment, plus progressive payment as work proceeds. Remember that after signing a contract you have three full days in which to change your mind and back out. That's an option that you can exercise under federal law. If, despite all these steps, you feel you got stung, write the National Remodelers Assn., Consumer Affairs Dept., 50 East 42nd St., New York, N. Y. 10017. Describe your complaint in detail, and include a copy of the contract, if possible. We are not a police organization, but our members can bring heavy pressure to bear if a home owner has ben wronged."

Large rooms are featured in plan

By HIAWATHA ESTES

It would be nearly impossible to locate a four bedroom, two bath home with rooms as generous in size as this plan and with less than 1,400 square feet.

The living room is as large as some designs nearly twice this size. Outdoor living is easy here since sliding doors open from the rear of the room to the patio. Windows at the front wall of the living room and dining area offer an ever changing view towards the front of the building site.

Visually, the living area appears much larger than it actually is, as there is no wall separating the living room and dining or the dining and kitchen. The compact kitchen has an abundance of storage, including a pantry. From the kitchen, there is access to the oversized, double garage. The furnace and water heater are located here as well as the washer and dryer with wall storage above.

There are back-to-back baths in the bedroom wing. One is the family bath and the other is the private bath off the master bedroom. Both feature pullman lavatories.

A guest closet, a wardrobe for general storage plus broom and linen closets open to the bedroom hall.

Both vertical and horizontal wood siding plus a low stone planter and stone pilasters link the home to the building site, making it possible to achieve a striking architectural effect for this relatively small home.

Complete working drawings for plan 41123 can be purchased for $13.73 for the first set and $8.48 for each additional set ordered at the same time. This plan will be available at these special prices until July 7. Please allow at least three weeks for delievery. A large reproduction rendering of the exterior is available for $1.06. Also available are six home plan books illustrating in excess of 850 plans — a $10.34 value — for only $8.22 plus 60¢ for postage and handling. Prices include sales tax. Send all orders to: Hiawatha Estes, P.O. Box 404-PO, Northridge, California 91324.

East, West Germany trade concessions

BERLIN (AP) — An agreement easing postal traffic between the two Germanys was initialed in East Berlin recently and was to be signed later in Bonn, officials said.

The agreement removes a previous requirement for West Germans sending used clothes and shoes eastward to get a certificate that they have been disinfected. It requires East German authorities who seize or return a package to state their reason.

West Germany agreed that an "X" previously used to designate the other postwar Germany in mailing addresses will be replaced by the letters "D-DR" for German Democratic Republic.

The East Germans will have to use "D" for Deutschland — Germany.

From the West German point of view, the most significant political feature of the agreement is that West Berlin is recognized in the address as part of Germany.

Realtors oppose nuclear measure

The California Association of Realtors is opposed to the nuclear initiative (proposition 15) which will appear on the June 8 primary ballot because officials believe it would remove the option of state government to approve nuclear power plans and would phase out existing plants.

The initiative would prohibit construction of new nuclear power plants in California unless federal accident liability limits are removed and unless the Legislature confirms the effectiveness of safety systems and waste disposal methods, they added.

Ira Gribin, association president, listed seven reasons why his 82,000-member organization is opposed to the initiative. These are:

— There has never been a significant nuclear power plant accident.

— No other industry has ever been subjected to such scrutiny and control as the initiative seeks.

— California needs energy from existing and planned nuclear plants to accommodate growing demands despite conservation.

— Conditions precedent for continuing nuclear power plant production are of such exactitude they probably can't be met and new nuclear power plants would be probhibited and existing plants phased out in 11 years.

— Production of adequate power from solar and similar sources is at least 25 years away and coal is unacceptable and most costly alternative.

— Procedural processes of the initiative are most awkward.

— Although property (plant capactiy) is taken by law, no provision is made for compensation.

Gribin reported that other groups aligning with his association are the California Council for Environmental and Economic Balance, California Chamber of Commerce, California Labor Federation and municipal utilities.

An estimated 100,000 wild turkeys will be bagged by marksmen this year in the 29 states that have hunting seasons for the wily birds.

Apt. group will discuss rentals

Joseph Schwartz, author of several books on rental property management, will be speaker at the Apartment Association meeting on Wednesday.

The program, starting at 7:30 p.m., will be held at the Pomona First Federal Savings and Loan Association building, 393 W. Foothill Blvd., Claremont.

In his presentation, Schwartz will present the serious aspect of managing apartment houses, said officials.

Polly's Pointers

DEAR POLLY — When reusing mayonnaise jars for storing foods in the refrigerator and so on, cutouts from styrofoam meat trays make very good new liners for the lids. — HAZEL.

DEAR POLLY — Cover an empty carpet roll with a piece of old carpet, stick hooks in it, stand from floor to ceiling and Presto!-a handy stuffed animal holder for the children. Place the animals so they look as if they are climbing the pole. — MARY, age 12.

© 1976 by NEA, Inc.

DEAR POLLY — We have a garden and I have a hamster, so when I clean the cage I dump the litter in the garden where it works as fertilizer. Just work the litter into the soil. — CAROLE.

Polly pays $1.00 for every idea used. Send them to her, c/o this newspaper.

DEAR POLLY — We have central air-conditioning and, instead of letting the water from the condensing unit go down the drain, we let it run into an old No. 3 washtub. This catches an average of three to four buckets of water a day. It can be used in my steam iron and also for watering young trees and our small vegetable garden. — MRS. W.S.C.

DEAR POLLY — I went to check on a load of clothes and saw soapsuds were beginning to come out around the washer lid. I could only think of the mess I was going to have to clean up, when I saw my pre-wash spray on the shelf. I grabbed it and sprayed a couple of healthy sprays and those suds disappeared. I felt good the rest of the day! — BETTY.

DEAR POLLY — My daughter-in-law uses a magnetic-page photo album for a cookbook. Any size recipe fits on a page and the plastic sheets protect the recipes from spills. We old hands can certainly learn from the new brides. — VICKI.

DEAR POLLY — I keep a small bottle of nail polish remover in the kitchen for removing price tags, and even the plastic that occasionally gets melted onto a pan from a bread wrapper. — CAROLYN.

DEAR POLLY — I keep a cheap tin measuring cup in each of my canisters along with a clean ice cream stick. The sticks come in handy for leveling-off anything scooped up in the cup, so I always have a level cupful. — CAROLYN.

DEAR POLLY — I keep a plastic scouring pad (bought just for this purpose) in the bathroom. When used with powdered cleanser, it cleans off a bathtub ring much easier than anything else. — MRS. P.K.

THIS WEEK'S TOP PRIZE QUESTION:

BARBIE BARNELL OF FRESNO, CA, ASKS:
"WHAT MAKES THE RING AROUND THE MOON?"

A BIG RING OF LIGHT SOMETIMES APPEARS AROUND THE MOON. THE RING IS MADE WHEN THE LIGHT OF THE MOON SHINES THROUGH CLOUDS OF TINY ICE CRYSTALS HIGH IN THE SKY. THE ICE CRYSTALS BEND AND SCATTER THE MOONLIGHT TO MAKE A RING OF LIGHT. RINGS APPEAR AROUND THE SUN, TOO--AND FOR EXACTLY THE SAME REASON. RINGS AROUND THE SUN AND MOON ARE CALLED HALOS. WHEN YOU SEE A HALO AROUND THE SUN OR MOON, IT USUALLY MEANS THAT A STORM IS COMING.

UP, UP AND AWAY IN 'LENGAI'

"From our flimsy platform three miles up, we watched in stunned silence as the huge domed peak of Kilimanjaro slid by below us."

Thus, the report from wildlife photographers Joan and Alan Root as they did what no one else had ever done—scaled Mt. Kilimanjaro, Africa's highest mountain, by balloon. The footage they took is breathtaking, and so was the ascent, literally. This and other spectacular sequences shot from the Roots' hot-air balloon, Lengai, are featured in "Balloon Safari," the story of their ballooning adventures, and misadventures, Monday at 8PM on CBS. David Niven is narrator of the special.

Months of preparation went into this daring flight. The slopes of Kilimanjaro are funnelled with treacherous updrafts that can have a frightening effect on something at the mercy of the wind like a balloon. "One powerful upcurrent was like a giant hand beneath us, pushing us up like a roller coaster into a sickening, swaying spin," reports Root.

As they levelled out over the summit of Kilimanjaro, "The Roof of Africa," at 23,000 feet, Alan noticed that Joan was behaving strangely. She was taking a long time to change the film in her camera and kept dropping it. Thinking she was just scared, he tried to reassure her. "I'm not scared," she said, indignantly. "I just feel awful." Checking her oxygen gear, Alan saw that her tube was not connected to the cylinder. Amazingly, she had been at 20,000 feet for more than an hour without oxygen. He reconnected the line, and within minutes she had recovered.

The glory of floating silently over the snows of Kilimanjaro left them speechless, but their problems weren't over yet. When the balloon was down to 2,000 feet, Alan dropped the heavy, 150-foot-long trail rope that acts as a drag brake. It fell badly and tied itself up in a knot. Laboriously, he hauled the rope back, unravelled it and then, exhausted, simply pushed it over the side instead of playing it out. With seconds, the heavy coils were unreeling uncontrollably, thrashing like some infuriated anaconda. Caught in a coil, Alan was thrown headlong over the edge of the basket. He held on and managed to clamber back in, having lost only his glasses.

"Fortunately, Joan's eyesight is similar to mine," said Root, "So I borrowed her glasses for the landing. Even so, I couldn't see too well, and as we came down I asked her how high she thought we were. 'How would I know?' she said. 'You've got the glasses. I can't see a thing.' The landing was fairly hard, but nothing got broken except a bit of my pride."

QUALITY LEADER IN ALUMINUM PATIOS

Lola Falana returns for her third Special of the year, "Lola," on ABC, Tuesday at 9PM. Her special guests for the hour of comedy and music are Redd Foxx and Dick Van Dyke. Like her first two specials, this hour gives the diminutive dynamo a chance to display the wide range of talents which have catapulted her from Broadway and nightclub stardom into the position of being one of the hottest new personalities on the small screen. Both Foxx and Van Dyke are special favorites of Miss Falana's, and she personally asked them to appear on her show.

Lola & Dynasty

Sarah Miles, Stacy Keach and Harris Yulin star in "James Michener's Dynasty," a two-hour Special on the NBC Saturday Night Movie at 9PM. The drama focuses on a family torn by jealousy, deception and rivalry in love and business, as husband, wife and brother-in-law seek their fortune on the Ohio frontier. The story follows their stormy relationship over a 35-year period from the time they arrive in Ohio in the 1820s, and follows the activities of the fictional family set against the background of factual events which shaped the course of this nation from 1820 to 1860.

'SHADES OF VAUDEVILLE'

"I always wanted to do a burlesque character," said Jack Lemmon. "Archie Rice is a composite of hundreds of actors I have known waiting for the big break. But this isn't just a show business story. Archie is at the stage in life where he feels time is running out on him. He is desperate." Lemmon was talking about his starring role as "The Entertainer," an NBC Special, airing Wednesday at 9PM.

The stellar cast of the original two-hour motion picture includes Ray Bolger as Archie's father, Billy, a long-retired but once celebrated king of vaudeville, and Sada Thompson as Phoebe, Archie's long suffering wife. Other stars include Tyne Daly, Michael Cristofer, Annette O'Toole, Mitch Ryan, Allyn Ann McLerie and Dick O'Neill.

Lemmon stars as a middle-aged, second-rate vaudevillian, making a final, desperate stab at success and stardom. The drama, which has been given an American setting during World War II, had its beginnings in England. It was written as a play by John Osborne in 1959, set in England during the Suez crisis. Later it was made into a feature motion picture starring Sir Laurence Olivier.

"I saw Olivier on stage and on screen as Archie," said Lemmon. "I remember meeting him around that time and telling him what a fantastic characterization he gave. But even then, I had the fantasy that one day I might tackle the role myself. The first thing I had to do was clear my head of Olivier's performance. With that hanging over me, I would have been a gonner. I had to get back to Archie, the man, and find what was in that part for myself, starting from scratch."

The new screenplay, by Elliott Baker, based on Osborne's play, is a Robert Stigwood Organisation, Inc. Production in association with Persky-Bright Productions, Inc. Producers are Beryl Vertue, of the Stigwood Organisation, and Marvin Hamlisch, the talented New Yorker who won three Academy Awards in 1974 for his work on "The Way We Were" and "The Sting."

Hamlisch had wanted to write music for a new version, for years. "And for years," he said, "I always had Lemmon in mind as the ultimate Archie Rice." The Lemmon version of "The Entertainer" contains eight original songs by Hamlisch, including "The Only Way to Go," with lyrics by Tim ("Jesus Christ Superstar") Rice. Other lyrics are by Robert Joseph.

Beryl Vertue shared Hamlisch's enthusiasm and joined forces with him under the aegis of the Stigwood Organisation. The show has been given an American setting and theme. In fact, it was filmed on location at the old Lindy Opera House in Los Angeles (Wilshire near La Brea) and the seaside community of Santa Cruz, California. The Opera House was used as a burlesque theater where Archie performs while Santa Cruz became the setting for Archie's home and the boardwalk on which the theater supposedly is located.

Filming on location at Santa Cruz provided some amusing elements. "We expected problems," said co-producer Beryl Vertue, "especially on the day we asked 500 local residents to appear in their 40s outfits on the boardwalk at the crack of dawn. We weren't sure how many people would take the time to come out, but they came in droves and we had 750 people clamoring to participate." The only difficulty posed by the extras was the lack of short hair among the men. The film company offered free haircuts but found no takers. At the last minute, a call was put in to the U.S. Army at Ft. Ord, which came through with some proper looking soldiers.

Even Beryl Vertue made her film debut. She plays a civic do-gooder involved with the beauty pageant.

Singer John Davidson will star in a "new look" musical-variety series to air on NBC during the spring and summer of 1976. The series is scheduled to begin in late May.

The shows will be structured around Davidson's new nightclub act, which combines his singing talents with newly emphasized comedy skills first displayed during his appearances on NBC's Hollywood Squares and as guest host of the Tonight Show.

Currently performing for record crowds at Harrah's in Reno, Davidson's repartee with audiences there has been so successful that the person-to-person contact will be incorporated into the new variety show's format, creating more of a club-like atmosphere.

The 34-year-old Davidson starred in a series for NBC in the summer of 1966 on The Kraft Music Hall. He also appeared in the Hallmark Hall of Fame production of "The Fantasticks" and the London-based John Davidson Show. In 1973 he co-starred in the situation comedy series. The Girl With Something Extra.

He appeared on Broadway in the musical, "Foxy," opposite Bert Lahr, on television with Carol Burnett in "The Entertainers," and as star of the Disney film, "The Happiest Millionaire." He has been a guest star on virtually every major television variety show. Davidson's dramatic skills won critical plaudits this past season when he performed in The Streets of San Francisco, for which he received an Emmy nomination as Best Supporting Actor. Production for the John Davidson specials will begin at NBC's Burbank Color Studios in mid-April.

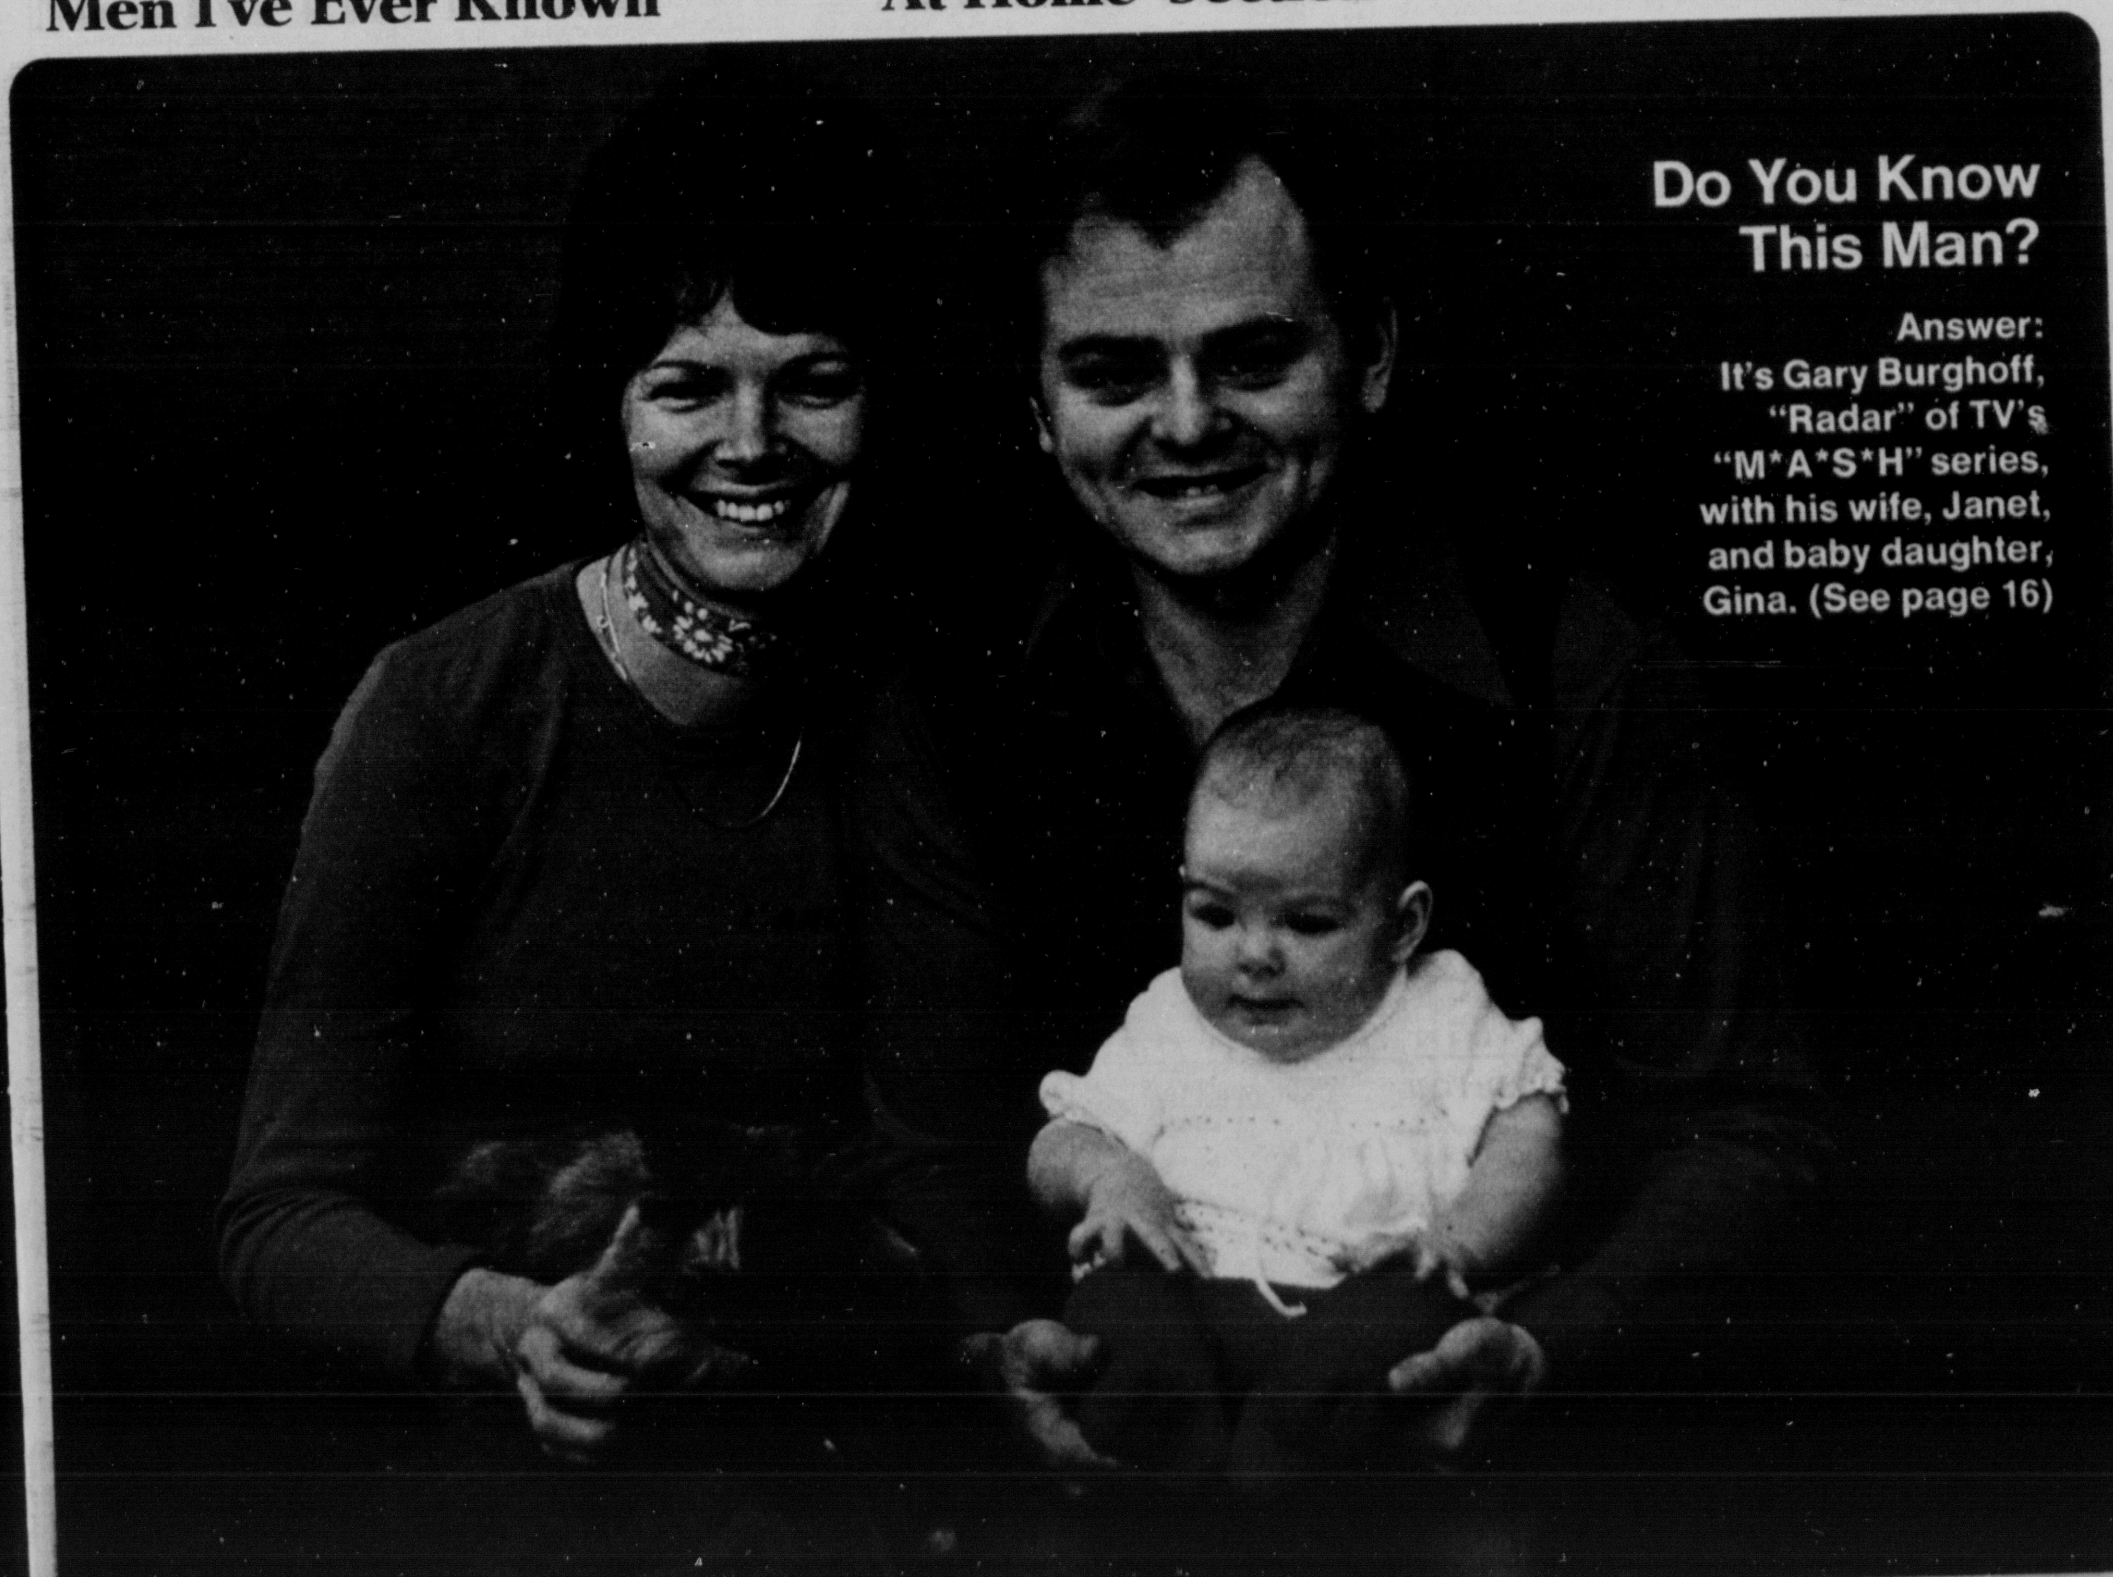
How a Decorator Lives—See Our "At Home" Section

Presenting: Our Fourth Annual Celebrity Poll!



Do You Know This Man?

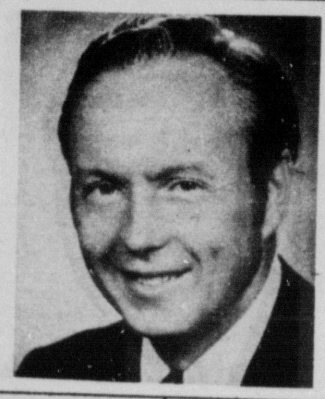
Answer: It's Gary Burghoff, "Radar" of TV's "M*A*S*H" series, with his wife, Janet, and baby daughter, Gina. (See page 16)

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR REP. JOHN N. ERLENBORN (R-Ill.)

Why did you work so hard to get the bill passed to keep teachers from drawing unemployment benefits this summer?—J.R. Smith, Jackson, Tenn.



● Taxpayers do not consider teachers among the unemployed during the summer. They're on vacation. When teachers bargain with the school board about pay, they expect that salary to be sufficient for the year, and so do the taxpayers. Depending on the teacher, the pay may or may not be sufficient for the year, but unemployment compensation is not intended to be an income supplement. It's a bridge between jobs for those who are out of work through no fault of their own, and who are actively seeking work. Surely no teacher would go to a neighbor's house during the summer and pinch a few dollars from her pocketbook. How different is it, really, to have the Government transfer these funds by taxing the neighbor and giving the money to the teacher who has not lost his job?

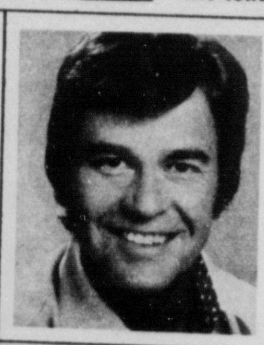
FOR RAQUEL WELCH

Is it easier or harder to reach stardom now than it was during the days of Bette Davis, Clark Gable and that classic old crowd?—R.A., Decatur, Ill.

● It's the same. Always was, is now and always will be. I had a particularly hard time, because I came on the scene as a sexpot and was an object of criticism and ridicule. No one took me seriously, even when I was serious.

FOR DICK CLARK, host of "$10,000 Pyramid"

You're no kid, but you sure do look like one. To what do you attribute your youthfulness?—J.T., Austin, Tex.



● It's either hereditary (my father just turned 79 and looks 60), or else it comes from hanging around youngsters. Youth is a state of mind. It doesn't come from drinking lots of milk and going to sleep early. I do none of that. I do everything wrong from a medical point of view. Being with kids is rejuvenating. It gives me a different perspective—more so than being with my work-mates and pals.

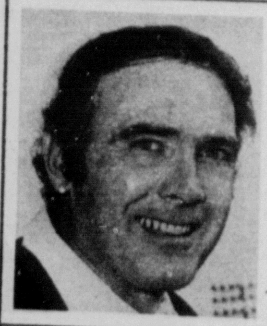
FOR PAUL ANKA

Has being a millionaire enriched your life, beyond making possible every luxury?—B.G., Ogden, Utah

● It buys my personal freedom—I'm not owned by anyone—which is more precious than having material things. I started in this business when I was very young, and I've been exposed to wealth for a long time. That's why I'm realistic, objective and respectful of money, because I know it can also be destructive. Had I made it later in life, with more effort and bitterness, I might have reacted differently.

FOR CHUCK KNOX, head coach of the Los Angeles Rams

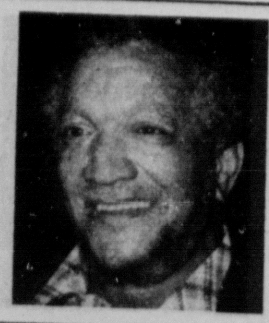
Do you think about football much during the off-season?—Mrs. Laurene Mills, Hobart, Ind.



● I have thought about football for some part of every day of every week of the 22 years I have been involved in coaching. That includes the off-season days when I like to go deep-sea fishing. The great thing about deep-sea fishing is that there are always times when there are no fish and you can relax and meditate about life and football.

FOR REDD FOXX

How did you come by the name "Redd?"—Mary Bartlett, Utica, N.Y.



● When I was a teenager, singing and playing my washtub bass, there was another guy around with reddish hair. We were both called "Red." So as to distinguish between us, he became "Detroit Red" and I became "Chicago Red." "Detroit Red" later became famous as Malcolm X. When I became a comic, I added another "d" to the Red and called myself "Redd Foxx."

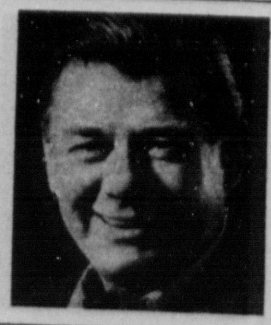
FOR EVA GABOR

In between your marriages, what do you like most about being single?—A.C., Danville, Ill.

● Swimming in my pool without make-up and putting on an old robe when I come out. (Can't do that when you're married. Must always look good!) Living alone makes one more resourceful . . . making decisions without the help of a husband. It stops the mind from becoming lazy. And when I'm alone, I can sleep crossways in bed without an argument.

FOR ARTHUR GODFREY

As one who knows, what can you say to a patient who is about to undergo surgery for cancer?—Elizabeth G. Delaney, Waterbury, Conn.



● I think the best thing you can say is "congratulations." Why? Because no surgeon worth his salt will venture surgery unless he thinks there's a chance for success. The reason the odds are so bad is because most people wait too long.

FOR DR. JOYCE BROTHERS

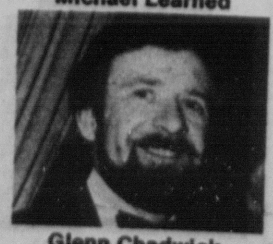
If a boy has his father's name and is called "Junior," can this cause an identity problem?—Mrs. A. Sprecker, Huntington, W.Va.

● Only if one already exists. If a successful man has a son who's a challenge, it could be disturbing. The father might want to press his boy down. If the two are not "friends," the son might feel he's a carbon copy of Dad, and that he's not accepted for himself. However, it's usually a source of great pride and sharing for the two to have the same name.

FOR THE "ASK THEM YOURSELF" EDITQR

I don't know anything about Michael Learned's new marriage. What can you tell me?—A.M., Middletown, Ohio

Michael Learned



Glenn Chadwick

● Michael is now Mrs. Glenn Chadwick. She married the former ballet dancer on Oct. 18, 1974. They met 10 years ago (while still happily wed to their first spouses) at San Francisco's American Conservatory Theater, where Michael was acting and Glenn was stage manager. Right now Glenn is thinking of giving up the theater for real estate. Michael now has three stepchildren (Mike, 15, Wendy, 13, and Pam, 11) and her own three sons (Caleb, 18, Christopher, 16, and Lucas, 13). She enjoys having two girls around: "It's wonderful. We got our ears pierced together, go shopping and get our hair cut at the same time." They just moved into a "new" 100-year-old home. Michael says Glenn is "just handsome—not tall or dark."

The Most Interesting Men I've Ever Known

Sheilah Graham

By Sheilah Graham

From the miserly to the mysterious, from the engaging to the erudite, each of these men has been a "master" in his field and a charmer of the public eye.

Mr. Getty

To me, the most interesting thing about J. Paul Getty is his money. To be the richest man in the world—and perhaps the stingiest—is a subject for conversation whenever his name is mentioned.

My son Robert was a close friend of one of his children—Timmy—from his fifth and last marriage, to society-singer Theodora (Teddy) Lynch. Timmy was 12 when he died in a New York hospital, 18 years ago (can it be that long?). Before that sad event, he and Robert learned to swim together in the pool at the Santa Monica home in which Teddy lived during and after her marriage to Mr. Getty.

Timmy, a miniature of his father when J. Paul was a younger man, always attended my annual Christmas party in Beverly Hills. He would sing Christmas songs with us at the piano and, in between, tell his jokes. At his last party with us, he went to shake my hand—and missed by six inches. A tumor had formed on the optic nerve, and he was going blind.

His mother took him to New York for the operations—about six. At this time Getty had taken up residence in Europe, and because of his fear of flying and all forms of transportation, he did not visit his son in the hospital. But he telephoned him there on his 12th birthday. "I'm giving you a present of a million-dollar trust fund" he told his now totally blind son. "Shucks" Timmy replied, "I'd rather have a hamburger with french fries."

Teddy was planning to return to California with her son when the doctor suggested, "Let's clean up the scars with plastic surgery." Timmy's heart failed under the extra strain of the minor operation. I'm sure Mr. Getty was very unhappy as he was fond of the boy. It would have been nice if he could have attended the funeral.

When the now old man—he looks even older than his 83 years—refused to pay the $2,900,000 ransom for the release of his 17-year-old grandson from another marriage, I was not surprised. I was in Vienna at The Imperial Hotel when I saw him give the equivalent of 25 cents to the concierge to pay for a stamp and heard him ask for the change!

Miserly men are usually unhappy, and one of the latest photographs of the multibillionaire sniffing a daffodil in the ornate drawing room of his 72-room mansion in England bears this out. He is shrinking into himself and spending even more time on his vast business interests. It is obvious that while his money has made J. Paul Getty interesting, it has not made him happy.

Mr. Hughes

Billionaire Howard Hughes has more fun with his money. With age—he is 70—his passion for pretty, bosomy girls has diminished if not vanished. During his stay in London, he was visited by movie-star actress Ava Gardner (they were an item when both were younger). It was sort of a hello-goodbye meeting. Ava had another man on her mind, and Howard was busy keeping his chin above the Watergate investigation.

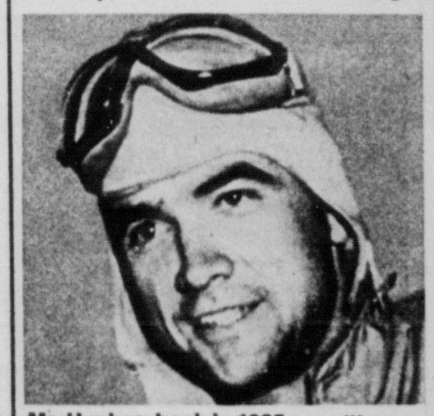
Whether you like him or not, you have to admit that Howard is a fascinating character, a man you wouldn't believe could exist if you read about him in a novel. But he was not always a recluse. I met him at all the New York parties when I came to this country from England in the mid 30's. In those days, Howard looked like any other rich young playboy on the prowl. I was to look him up, he said, when I came to Hollywood. I did, and we became sort of guarded friends. He sent me a gold and emerald brooch for Christmas when he was producing "The Outlaw" with Jane Russell. After that, six dozen long-stemmed red roses. I looked forward to them each December 25th. He was interested in me as a columnist only, and that was fortunate for us both, as he was not my type. Rich men never have been.

I followed his romances with Ava, Lana Turner, Terry Moore, Mitzi Gaynor, Ginger Rogers and Jean Peters (whom he married and by whom he was divorced).

And Katharine Hepburn. I would never have thought that Miss Hepburn was Howard's type—or vice versa—but she found him interesting. And indeed he was, even down to his unusual hours, toiling through most of the night, sending his car to bring you to him as I was brought one midnight in Beverly Hills for what he thought would be a scoop for me.

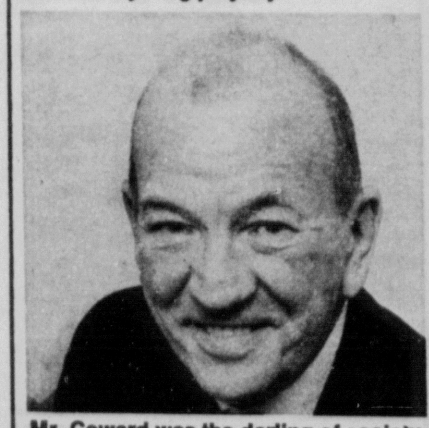
Mr. Getty gave someone 25 cents for a stamp, then asked for the change.

UPI



Mr. Hughes, back in 1935, was like any other rich young playboy.

UPI

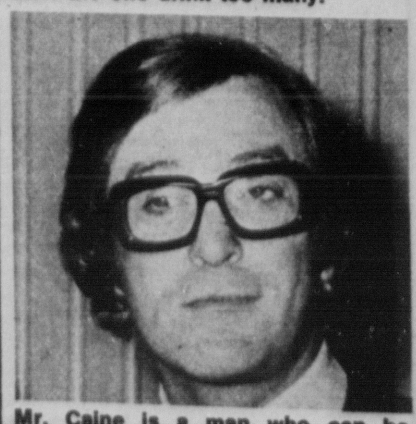


Mr. Coward was the darling of society, including members of royalty.

Pictorial Parade

Mr. Fitzgerald was fascinating, even after the one drink too many.

Bettmann Archive



Mr. Caine is a man who can be 'crushed' by a beautiful woman.

Pictorial Parade

The chief characteristic of Mr. Hughes is loyalty to those he trusts. But God help you if he thinks you have betrayed that trust. While he is a good friend, he is a dreadful enemy. As of this writing, he has managed to evade those who are trying to bring him into court on various matters. But it wouldn't surprise me if one day he were to appear suddenly and confront his adversaries with an explanation of his so-called misdemeanors.

This clever, shrewd man multiplied the fortune he inherited as a young man, and like Greta Garbo, created a legend of mystery so that the smallest tidbit about him becomes world-wide news—those long fingernails, long white beard, strange illnesses.

I suspected the Clifford Irving biography of Hughes was a hoax when the publicity stated that Howard had discussed the girls he had courted. This subject was strictly taboo, as I learned from the millionaire when I quoted the girls who talked. A man who is secure in his masculinity and bank account doesn't "kiss and tell."

Mr. Coward

I met Noel Coward during rehearsals in London for his revue, "This Year of Grace." I had a featured role which diminished almost daily as "the master" became aware of my lack of acting ability. It was in the late 20's, and he was at the height of his fame and productivity. "The Vortex" some years earlier had established him as a major playwright. He was the darling of society, including the younger members of royalty, because of his incisive, biting wit.

His displeasure, which was all too evident, terrified me, and many nights during that agonizing period, I cried myself to sleep. Years later, when I was driving along Sunset Boulevard in Hollywood, I realized how I should have sung those numbers. The next time I saw Noel in London, I insisted on singing the songs correctly, including the satirical number "I Am Just an Ingenue," which I had sung straight. In those years I had no idea of what satire meant. This became our theme song. Whenever a piano was available, he played and I sang. The last time was at the party in the Savoy Hotel to celebrate his knighthood and his 70th birthday.

"The master" always gave me marvelous interviews. He was the first person to tell me the sure-fire method of falling asleep—to relax the muscles one by one, starting with the toes on one foot, then the other, and right up to the neck and head. When I heard that he was very ill, I hoped he was still able to sleep.

Noel was always kind to me—as long as I was not performing for him. He was always generous with his time, always amusing—he had "a talent to amuse"—and always interesting.

Mr. Fitzgerald

I have sometimes been accused of "trading" on my relationship with F. Scott Fitzgerald. I have written two books about him—"Beloved Infidel" and "College of One"—and single chapters about him in other books. But other authors have also written about him—32 books, pamphlets and articles—and there will be more for the same reason that I write about him. He was simply the most interesting human being I ever knew.

Scott was the best companion anyone could wish for. There was nothing trite in his conversation. He had something to say, and he said it beautifully. He was always fascinating, even after the one drink too many. In the last years of his life, when no one was reading his books, he became rather shy with people, except those he knew well. But drunk or sober, he was the center of every group.

He was a great organizer of people, too. He could make the homeliest woman feel beautiful. His charm was always real, and it was irresistible even for men. Children adored him. When we gave a party at the Malibu Beach home I rented for him, the kids next door came over at his invitation and were fascinated with the card tricks he performed for them. He was a great student of the battles of history and spent hours maneuvering his toy army of soldiers and cannon into strategic advances and retreats.

There was no ego when he explained, "This is what Napoleon should have done at Waterloo." As there was no conceit when he called the Princeton football coach at two in the morning to describe a football strategy he had worked out. He was simply carried away by his enthusiasm. And this would be the word to explain the Scott I knew. The people who knew him well can never forget him. I'm glad I am among the privileged few.

Mr. Caine

"Why Michael Caine?" I was asked when I told a friend I was including him in this article. One reason: This Cockney son of a cleaning woman and a porter in the famed Billingsgate fish market in London has never allowed the fortune and fame to obscure his appraisal of himself and others.

Michael became a film star with "The Ipcress File," although I pegged him for acclaim when I saw his performance as the Eton-Oxford lieutenant in "Zulu." I did my bit to make him known in the U.S.—in fact to such an extent that one irate reader wrote me, "If you don't stop writing about Michael Caine, I'll stop reading your column."

But it isn't only his talent as an actor that makes Mr. Caine interesting, it's his conversation and character in real life. He has educated himself on the climb upward and knows a great deal about music, painting, literature, politics and what is going on in the world today. He is a brilliant speaker and is the first to laugh at his mistakes where his films and ladies are concerned.

He also has the simplicity of a nice man. He had been courting Camilla Sparv, the beautiful Swedish model, in London, New York and Hollywood, but had broken it off in London when it was printed that they were going to marry. He and I were dining together in a Chelsea restaurant, and who should be sitting at the next table but Camilla with a man and another couple. The laughter at her table almost killed him, and when she passed by without a word, I thought he would explode. Of course they resumed the friendship. But he did not marry her.

Mr. Caine has always known what he has wanted—a big career, a big home in the country and a wife and kids to go with them. He has it all. FW

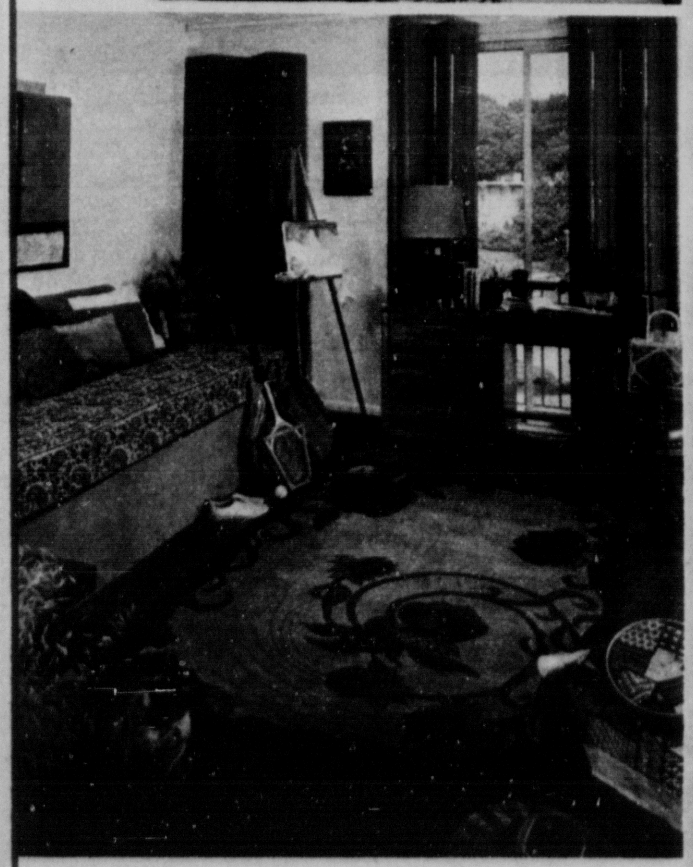
Decorator June Gussin: "Forget All the Rules– I Do!"

How does an interior designer live? Does she have the same space problems we all do? June Gussin (left) lets you into her home and shares her decorating philosophy—one you can use right now.



An area rug marks the activity center of the room.

Combination Guest-Hobby Room

How to make your college student's room multipurpose: Turn the bed into a sofa; soften one corner with screens and finish with an Art Nouveau rug by Ege Rya.

You can ignore the rules for mixing furniture styles—as long as the pieces are of good quality and design. The mix: a contemporary sofa, a French desk and a Chinese Chippendale chair (in foreground).

"Don't be afraid to break or modify decorating rules! Your house should convey a personal feeling, should be a reflection of you, not of some designer or store."

So advises decorator June Gussin, who is in a position to know. Mrs. Gussin, highly regarded in the home furnishings industry for her creative showroom and store displays, urges you to select furnishings that will look as good in your first home as in your last.

"My furniture, which is a mix of hand-me-downs, good basic furniture and things I've picked up while traveling, has worked in every house and apartment I've lived in," she observes. June, married to a home furnishings executive whose company has offices and plants scattered across the country, has moved nine times in nine years!

Stressing that you don't need family heirlooms to create a personal look, Mrs. Gussin suggests that when you purchase new things, you should buy what you really like. This will give the pieces special meaning for you. Then you can start your own handing down!

How to "Pull the Room Together"

Solid beige colors warm the living room, along with the bold rug pattern, tying the furniture together. The design is strong enough to carry the proportions of the sofa and complement the graceful Chippendale chair. Decorative objects add to the character of the room. The wool rug is from Ege Rya's Berber Deluxe collection.

Look out for "found space." Convert a little-used closet.

Entertain in a Foyer

A hallway closet was converted into an entertainment oasis, while a pass-through to the kitchen provides extra space for buffet service. As Mrs. Gussin dramatizes with art in the entrance foyer (not shown), she does so here with the lively patterned area rug, which provides an interesting entrance to the living room and draws the eye invitingly into the room beyond.

avoid things that are faddish. Steer away from bizarre or overwhelming fabric designs and bright, garrish colors. If you don't know what colors you prefer, buy a clutch of fabric remnants or some inexpensive scarves in the desired colors. Tape them to a wall or to the back of a chair or sofa for a few days. If you live with them for a while, you'll soon get a sense of whether they please you or not.

She offers other decorating tips: In the living room, the larger a piece of upholstered furniture, the more understated its style should be. Then smaller chairs and wood pieces, such as chests, tables or a breakfront, can be added for more dramatic and ornamental interest.

As to rules for mixing furniture, Mrs. Gussin is very reassuring: "There are no rules as to how many styles can be mixed. Combine any piece in the world as long as the furniture is of good quality and design. The only caution is that the piece be compatible in scale. Don't mix big, boldly scaled furniture with delicate, fragile-looking accessories or furniture."

Two of her favorite decorating devices are the use of area rugs and screens. "They do so much for design schemes and can be readily moved," she explains.

Area rugs in particular make a dominant pattern statement in a room. She recommends them for wall hangings, too, because they provide important color, design and textural interest.

"I've used them in most of my interiors. In our daughter's room (which doubles as a guest room and workroom when she's at school), I've placed one over the broadloom. In this instance, you must be sure that an area rug has a color that picks up the carpeting shade. Since it's a strong pattern, other patterns in the room must remain small," she cautions.

Screens are also problem solvers. "I had some made for my first home and I take them with me wherever I go," she says. "I often like using screens in corners, which seem such an abrupt end to a wall! They're softening. But screens have other virtues. They can camouflage all kinds of architectural difficulties and they're a wonderful substitute for draperies. With all the moves I've made, I haven't had time to order draperies—and I haven't missed them at all. You can use screens for a headboard, too, just by fastening them to the wall."

An inveterate collector, Mrs. Gussin suggests that few things add a more personal touch than art. "But it doesn't have to be expensive. There's a gold mine of good, inexpensive art available almost everywhere. Local colleges and art schools often have sales of student and faculty work, and many shows now exhibit the work of talented, local artists and craftsmen.

Mrs. Gussin's entrance foyer particularly reflects her interest in art and includes some of her own graphics and ceramics. A dark dreary spot when the Gussins moved in, it is now an intriguing gallery that beckons visitors into the warmth and very personal interior beyond.

Ballet Stars Patricia and Jean-Pierre:

How We "Collect" All Our Furnishings

Ernest Silva

The collectors: Pat at the "found" maple desk with Jean-Pierre holding a plate by potter Jurg Lanzrein. Nearby is their prized walnut clock.

Putting Attic Treasures to Work—Even in a Modern Apartment

Husband-and-wife team, Patricia and Jean-Pierre Bonnefous, both principal dancers of the New York City Ballet, live in a duplex apartment with an enormous living room, revealing a ceiling two stories high. Picture an exposed brick fireplace, a comfortable Victorian armchair and two muted red-velvet sofas drawn up to it and great expanses of oak flooring that lead to handsome "finds" collected by the couple. It's a room which, reflecting its owners, is warm and inviting.

Patricia's husband influenced her to become a collector and she has the enthusiasm of a true convert. For her first "bachelor apartment" she bought all the furniture at once, just to have the rooms filled. "I would never do that again," she says. "Now I feel you should take time, even years, to get exactly what you want. I really enjoy waiting until I find just the right piece."

Many of their treasured pieces are chosen spontaneously. "I don't have to spend a lot of time picking out something," Jean-Pierre says. "It's an emotional choice. We only ask if this is something we want to have around us all the time, if this is something we can relate to."

Some pieces in their apartment (the mahogany Victorian chair, for example) come from rather chic auctions and shops. Others—like a beautiful oak chest they have—were found in basements, flea markets and barn sales when they weren't really looking.

"We first saw this chest in a neighbor's basement, Patricia says, opening the doors that expose two shelves inside. "It was covered with soot and dirt." "That man didn't know what he had," Jean-Pierre interjects. "But we knew," Patricia says. "He told us it was solid oak, so we figured it must be beautiful underneath."

The neighbor named a nominal fee for the piece and gladly parted with what he thought was junk. Patricia and Jean-Pierre took it home and washed it. They knew from experience that oak, like other genuine hardwoods, can be given a bath without fear of damaging the surface, provided it is carefully dried afterward. Then they began waxing (with paste wax) and buffing it. Usually you only have to wax wood furniture twice a year, but since their piece had been neglected for so long, they waxed moderately every few weeks or so, with plenty of buffing in between. The chest began to thrive under their care.

Ordinarily, Patricia and Jean-Pierre don't buy furniture needing repairs or a complete refinishing job. But their beloved 7-foot-tall walnut clock, purchased in Paris, was damaged enroute, and they had to learn something about repairing. "You know," says Jean-Pierre, "when it is a fine wood piece, you can usually repair parts that have been broken, or replace them. It's not like some plastic thing, where you need a whole factory to start all over again."

The couple say they don't worry about mixing styles and periods. They just look for complementing tones of wood. "After all," says Jean-Pierre, "the trees grow together in nature—so I know they will look well together in my home."

And they do. The walnut clock stands near a hardwood desk with burl maple drawer fronts. Between them is a small, oak lamp table with delicate oak rope turnings. Elsewhere in the room is a magnificent little chess table of mahogany, with an inlay of satinwood and ebony. And a maple hutch sits beneath an oak balcony on the second story of the duplex.

It is obvious that Jean-Pierre loves their "collectibles." "I know every piece in this house," he says. "And the longer we live with them, the more they tell us about themselves."

The Hamilton Mint is the World's Second Largest Private Mint.

The Annual Easter Plate
Triptych II

For God so loved the world, that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life.

The Passion and Resurrection of Christ have moved the greatest masters of western civilization to their most profound works. Now, defining for all time the unique joy of Easter, The Hamilton Mint proudly offers their Annual Easter Plate. Triptych II will be available to collectors only until April 18, 1976.

Triptych II is available in either hand-antiqued pewter or 24 karat gold-on-pewter. Actual diameter size is 9 inches.

A CLASSIC TRADITION

In the central panel of the triptych, a bust of Christ is fashioned in delicate bas-relief. The humility and beatitude of the individual is expressed in the calm and gentle gaze of the eyes. Superbly etched aside the portrait are the dual scenes of the Passion and the Glory: Christ crucified and Christ resplendent in Resurrection. In the tradition of ancient craftsmen, antique pewter plates are individually struck and finished solely by hand. Gold-on-pewter plates retain the rich luster of gold in a satin-frost finish.

Each Easter Plate is housed in a specially-designed case. The plush lining exhibits, to the highest advantage, the intense glow of the plate. The outside of the box is grained and hand-rubbed to create a distinguished impression.

LIMITED EDITION

Orders for The Annual Easter Plate will be accepted only until April 18, 1976. Collectors are urged to act quickly. Those who wish to acquire this master's example of medallic art plates may do so by using the attached application form.

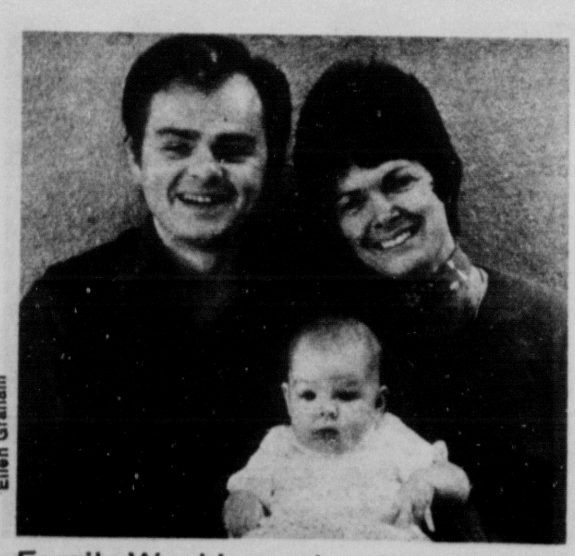
Gary Burghoff of "M*A*S*H"

Is There Really a "Radar" Off-Screen?



Ellen Graham

Family Weekly readers love him—you voted him your second-favorite second banana in all of television last year. And that makes him the champion second banana on his own "M*A*S*H." But is Gary Burghoff anything at all like "Radar"?

In the Malibu area along the Pacific Coast Highway lives Gary Burghoff who, after his club dates as a drummer-singer-dancer, starred in the long-running off-Broadway hit, "You're a Good Man, Charlie Brown." Later he was cast as the meek, mild-mannered underdog Radar O'Reilly, first in the film "M*A*S*H," then in the TV series based on the movie. Except for being a small fellow (5-6), he was, I soon discovered, not at all what he seemed on the screen.

FAMILY WEEKLY: Are you anything like the character Radar?

BURGHOFF: No. I'm basically a hostile person. I hate people. End of interview.

FW: Is that why you live way out here?

BURGHOFF: I bought this dead-end canyon because it was exclusive—not economically exclusive, but because of the nature of people. I want to be left alone. I don't want to have neighbors talking over the fence and have to do favors for them.

FW: Aren't you social at all?

BURGHOFF: My wife and I don't go out much. We have a normal family existence. Where we were raised (he's from Bristol, Conn., Janet's from Santa Monica, Calif.) there weren't parties two times a week. We go out maybe once in three months.

FW: How do you spend your time away from the series?

BURGHOFF: Right now, I'm appearing in clubs across the country in a song-and-dance routine. And during my spare time, I've developed a system which will allow a family to raise trout in their own yard. Instead of raising a victory garden, they can be protein gardeners. There'd be no food shortage if we'd compensate for our mistakes. Population and ecology have to work together. We expect bureaucracy to get us out of problems, but it mostly gets us into them. The individual does count, especially in this country, and the individual has to make an effort. Organizations are not the best way. Individual action is.

FW: Is your fish farm your individual effort?

BURGHOFF: My wife and I also had a bird sanctuary. That was a big individual action. I did that for myself. For self-respect. I knew if I organized and brought in other bird people, we'd be so tied up with newsletters and things we wouldn't be saving birds.

FW: How did you happen to get involved with a bird sanctuary?

BURGHOFF: It started when a little boy found a wounded pelican and his mother wouldn't let him keep it. The Fish and Game Department and the Animal Control Shelter couldn't come get it, so I decided to try to save it. It died in less than an hour. But word got around, and people began bringing birds they'd found. I had to have a vet help me be-

AT LAST!

Natural Face Lifting By Exercise!

Now, from Hollywood, California, comes what may be the most important beauty news of the decade. A proven, minutes-a-day method of facial muscle shortening—done in your own home with your own ten fingers—that has been called, "perhaps the only method in the world by which one can lift a face naturally"

For What Is Loose, Aging, Flabby Skin Really? Merely STRETCHED-OUT MUSCLES, That The Years Have Caused To Lose Their Ability To Hold Themselves Tight And Firm!

As Madame Rungé says, it is not the skin, but the firmness or looseness of the muscle flesh beneath that skin that really portrays a man's or woman's age.

In fact, as she points out, the collapse of the upper cheek muscles alone may cause more than 50 per cent of the aging appearance in the face. As she so vividly states:

"Between the ages of 21 and 40, for instance, the upper cheek muscles may have sagged as much as half an inch; and by the age of 60 by as much as one inch, which means that we have an inch too much hanging over the lower part of the face. This results in hollowness in the upper cheeks below the cheek bones, fullness and flabbiness in the lower cheeks, pouches from the mouth to the chin, folds above the laugh line, drooping mouth corners and jowls."

"In addition, the muscles of the upper eyelids may sag as much as half an inch or more between the ages of 20 and 60, causing eyebrows to shift down and upper eyelids to overlap lashes, making the eyes appear smaller. And those muscles attached to our throat skin may sag as much as two inches, resulting in what is termed a "turkey neck."

Thus, She Says, Since The Cause Of This Facial Aging Is Muscle Sagging, "It Stands To Reason That To Remedy It, WE HAVE TO SHORTEN THE MUSCLE GROUP RESPONSIBLE"!

"Flabby and droopy flesh is caused by muscles which have been ignored... My method of isometric facial exercises remedies the cause of the aging process of the face by tightening these sagging muscles... thereby producing a firming where the face appears flabby, and a filling out by rebuilding atrophying muscle tissues. All in a natural and healthy way, thus providing a natural youthful face which may be retained throughout life."

"And the skin itself will always adapt to the size of its underlying foundation... The skin is merely a thin covering over the flesh that has to return to the size of the muscle flesh when it is shortened through isometric exercise."

IF YOU READ NOTHING ELSE, Read This One Paragraph—

"You cannot help but see yourself looking younger, since each correctly applied exercise in this book has the power to turn your clock back regardless of age. And, if you can afford to eliminate 20 years from your appearance, this book can teach you how to do this in 3 to 4 months."

And Says Madame Rungé: This NATURAL Way To Lift The Face Is Much More ENDURING Than Even The Finest Face Lift Through Plastic Surgery!

"Surgery can never restore the tone to either skin or muscles... It should be understood that no plastic surgeon, and in fact nothing but exercises, can tighten up unelastic muscles.

"For example, even the result from peeling off the wrinkled surface skin lasts only temporarily, since the poor muscle condition beneath the skin very soon causes the same wrinkles to form."

"A woman whose career depended on public performances consulted me at the recommendation of her plastic surgeon, after he had performed surgical skin tightening on her neck eight times."

"The new tight skin (from plastic surgery) does hold the contour of the face somewhat up, consequently giving it a rejuvenated look. Unfortunately, however, the collapsed muscle structure beneath it soon pushes the new skin downward again, which makes it necessary to repeat the 'lift.'"

But Now These Temporary, Artificial Methods, Can Be Replaced By Simple, Natural Exercise, Says Madame Rungé, WITH RESULTS LIKE THESE:

"Some people I knew were practicing grimaces, and foolishly believed they were exercising their facial muscles. But reason and logic tell us that grimacing merely misforms muscles into lines, furrows and ugly features."

"The actual application of every one of these exercises takes only about one minute. The process causes to tighten and to shorten specific muscles, by expanding them to their fullest natural limit. In this natural way, neither muscles nor skin can be overexpanded. In fact, the skin also benefits from the increased circulation."

Consequently "YOU MUST SEE INSTANT RESULTS FROM EVERY ISOMETRIC PERFORMANCE... because if you do not see results, it tells you that you have done something incorrectly."

"Each exercise takes only about (60 seconds), and has to be repeated three times in succession. With this technique, models removed wrinkles from under the eyes, crow's feet, scowl and frown lines in just a few minutes right in front of the TV camera."

"Puffiness in the upper and lower eyelids containing fluid cannot be removed surgically. For its remedy refer to the eye exercise."

"A contour fault may be eliminated in a relatively short time. However, it usually takes from three to four months to restore sufficient tone to those muscles, to enable them to HOLD the acquired condition without having to exercise every day. (After that) perhaps two or three times a week will be sufficient."

"If my exercises are applied as instructed, the results are nothing short of amazing at any age. Most of my exercises if done correctly, produce instantaneous results, especially in areas where muscles are attached to the skin – as on the forehead, underneath the eyes, and in the crow's feet area. But we also get marvelous results on parts where the muscles lie deeper, as in the cheeks and jowls, which produces an immediate lift."

CAN MADAME RUNGE TAKE UP TO 20 YEARS OFF THE APPEARANCE OF YOUR FACE... AS SHE HAS DONE FOR THOUSANDS OF OTHERS!

Senta Maria Rungé first introduced her FACE LIFTING BY EXERCISE method through a four-and-a-half page, cover-line article in Vogue Magazine.

After the overwhelming success of this article, Madame Rungé conducted a daily half-hour television program, demonstrating to Southern Californians the amazing effectiveness of her natural method. On this live program, right before their very eyes, women all over Califoria saw almost "unbelieveable" transformations take place in the facial contours of her mature models – and were able to duplicate these transformations, at the same time, in their own homes.

Soon, the walls of her Hollywood salon were literally covered with testimonials she received from approximately 12,000 viewers who followed the simple, step-by-step instructions given them on their television screens.

And now she has released this exact same FACE LIFTING BY EXERCISE method to women all over America!

FROM A PLASTIC SURGEON:

As a practicing plastic surgeon for over thirty years, I have found that your work can play an important role in facial rehabilitation; and even the avoidance of excessive wrinkling and sagging.

The surgical face-lift is the only procedure that can remove the excess sagging skin in advanced cases; but even after the most complete lift, it is not long before the vertical folds on the neck and under the chin reappear.

The facial exercises as advocated by you offer promise to prevent this recurrence after the surgical lift, and possibly in many cases effect sufficient improvement that the lift could be postponed indefinitely.

–Harold M. Holden, M.D., F.I.C.S., Los Angeles, Calif.

Readers of Family Weekly are invited to Enjoy collecting a stirring panorama preserved for future generations.

• At a surprisingly modest cost, you can receive beautiful First Day Covers for each new commemorative stamp issue of the United States. • Each First Day Cover will be individually addressed and sent automatically to the name and address you designate.

WHAT IS A FIRST DAY COVER?

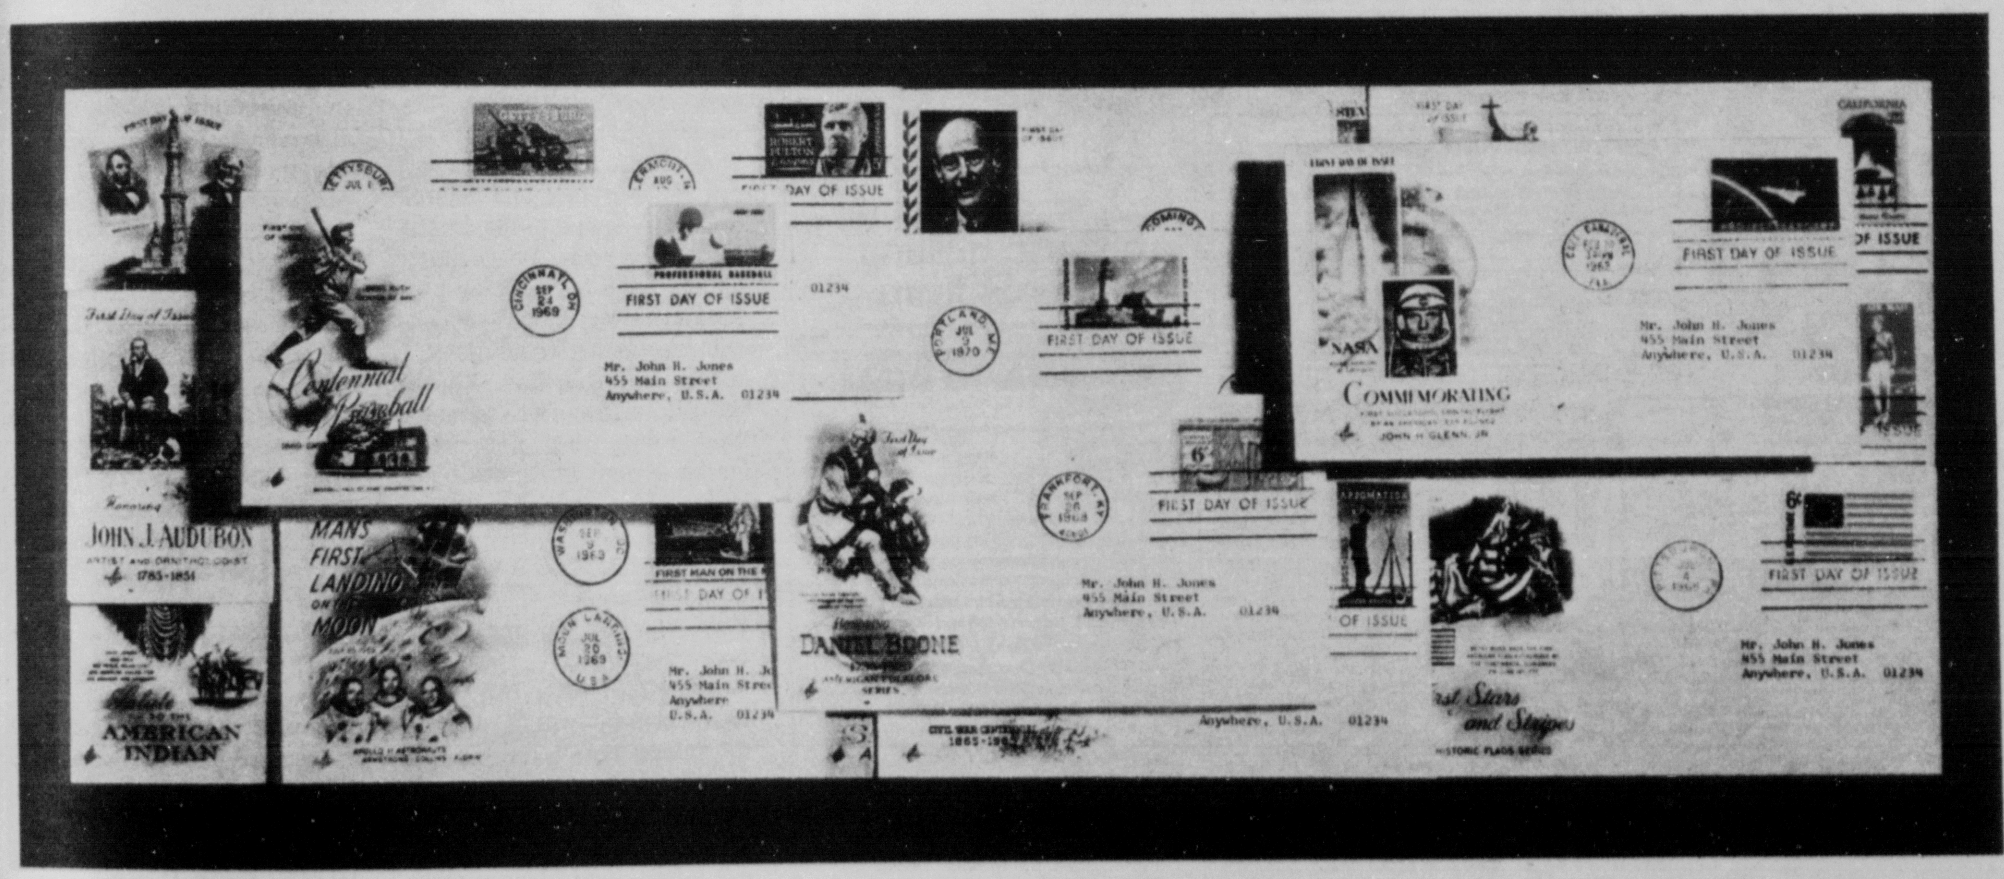
The United States regularly honors the important men, events and places in its history through the issuance of official U.S. commemorative postage stamps. When a new stamp is to be issued, one, and only one, post office is designated to provide the official "First Day" cancellation. The specially designed envelope bearing the new stamp, cancelled with the exact date of first issue of the officially designated post office, is a First Day Cover.

First Day Covers are fascinating collectors' items. As you can well imagine, the combination of a historic stamp, cancelled with the "First Day of Issue" postmark of the officially designated post office on a specially designed envelope, results in a collector's item of the first order. One that has been prized by collectors like Dwight D. Eisenhower, George C. Marshall and Franklin D. Roosevelt, plus others with the foresight to preserve yesterday and today for tomorrow.

The best time to obtain these prized collectors' items is when they are issued. This is now made easier than ever by the Postal Commemorative Society.

Postal Commemorative Society members receive everything they need to build and maintain a personalized "mint condition" collection of U.S. First Day Covers. For each cover issued, the Society provides an exclusive custom designed display page, especially made for the member's personalized album.

of U.S. history. To be treasured now and



First Day Covers combine art and history in a tribute to our American heritage.

Eisenhower... The Battle of Bunker Hill... the writing of the Star Spangled Banner... the landing of astronauts on the moon... such are the subjects chosen by the United States for national honor on commemorative postage stamps.

The post office chosen for a first day of issue usually bears particular significance to the subject commemorated. For example, a first day cover of the Eisenhower stamp bears the "First Day of Issue" postmark of Abilene, Kansas.

The nation's leading artists and designers are called upon to portray the subjects chosen. Such commissions naturally are highly prized, and bring forth the best efforts of the artists involved.

Membership in the Postal Commemorative Society makes it possible to easily collect First Day Covers as they are issued.

The Society will guarantee your receiving a personally addressed First Day Cover of every U.S. commemorative stamp issue. All details of arranging for your First Day Covers to be sent to you will be handled by the Society.

Commemorative stamps normally are issued by the United States at the rate of one every three to four weeks. You will receive a beautiful First Day Cover for every United States commemorative stamp issue during the term of your membership at a total cost of just $1.65 per month.

As a member, you will also receive the Society's exclusive display page for each new issue. Each beautiful, specially designed page is die-cut to hold the First Day Cover, and contains a full description with all important historical information about the subject of the commemorative issue. These pages are available only to members of the Society.

At the surprisingly low cost of $1.65 per month, you will be building a truly worthwhile First Day Cover collection to be enjoyed now and preserved for future generations of your family. Shouldn't you really give it a try?

Becoming a member now brings you an important collector's bonus at no additional cost.

The Postal Commemorative Society makes available to its members a handsome collector's album with the member's name hand-embossed on the cover. This album, specially designed to hold the Society's display pages, makes it possible for members to keep each new First Day Cover in perfect condition. It is yours free, if you join now!

cause I wasn't licensed to set bones. I also had to have a permit to keep sick and injured birds. I even had to file reports on injured birds. You can get all tied up in bureaucratic procedures. Everything was contributing to my frustrations. I finally sent then-Gov. Ronald Reagan a five-page telegram complaining that the ocean stinks, wildlife dies and nobody cares.

FW: What was his reply?

BURGHOFF: Well, it was very unsatisfactory.

FW: Why did you quit taking care of birds?

BURGHOFF: After two years, the sanctuary was a drag. I didn't cop out, I just wanted something else to turn me on, and went into this trout thing. I have no sense of guilt; I saved 4,000 birds, and I helped other people set up sanctuaries.

FW: How did you and your wife, Janet, meet?

BURGHOFF: When I was building my aviary for the birds. She was visiting next door and heard my banging. She was looking for a cat she'd lost.

FW: Does Janet want a career?

BURGHOFF: She doesn't talk about herself. I don't know where she's at, whether she wants to be a nurse or a housewife. She studied to be a surgical technician. But she could do anything she pleases. Right now she's being a mother to Gina (born last July 20).

FW: I understand you had a rather unusual honeymoon . . .

BURGHOFF: Yes— the pilot for "M*A*S*H" financed it. Instead of sitting around wondering if the network would go for it; we took off on our honeymoon to the back country of British Columbia. I bought an old International milk truck, made a bed in it, put in a stove, icebox, an original oil painting, a Persian rug and an antique chair. But we didn't have any heat. It got down to 19 degrees. We nearly froze to death. At least after that we knew if our sex life was good in weather like that, it would be O.K. for the rest of our lives!

FW: How well do you get along with your co-stars?

BURGHOFF: We all yell at each other: it's like a marriage.

FW: Do you yell at your wife?

BURGHOFF: Sure. We're very much alike. We fight like crazy. All the time. I'm past 30, and I'm only beginning to channel my anger into positive actions. It's great then. It's my heritage. My mother is Italian. I had a great-grandma who spoke only Italian. She used to throw the spaghetti on the wall. If it stuck, it was done. Groovy.

FW: You are one of the old-timers from the original film "M*A*S*H," aren't you?

BURGHOFF: Three of us from the movie were used for the TV pilot, but I was the only one to continue in the series.

FW: Do any of the actors on "M*A*S*H" have a star complex?

BURGHOFF: We all feel we are stars, if getting mail has anything to do with it. We each get over 200 letters a week. And we get paid enough to feel good.

FW: Do you consider yourself a free spirit?

BURGHOFF: You've got to learn to feel O.K with yourself and independent of others. I will not be controlled by my wife, neighbors, the film or TV industry or the Government.

FW: What about Government control? Do you believe in paying taxes?

BURGHOFF: I am a firm believer in paying taxes but not in seeing the tax money wasted, the way bureaucracy does.

FW: I've been told that like your character Radar you seem to have powers of ESP and can frequently foretell what's going to happen; for instance, you foresaw your winning an Emmy Award nomination. Is that true?

BURGHOFF: Yes, I did foresee winning the Emmy nomination, and I've had other experiences. But ESP is nothing new. It's one of mankind's oldest attributes. Animals have it— they can convey their feelings without words. If you get tuned in to somebody's behavior, you can anticipate his thoughts. ESP is just a way of communicating.

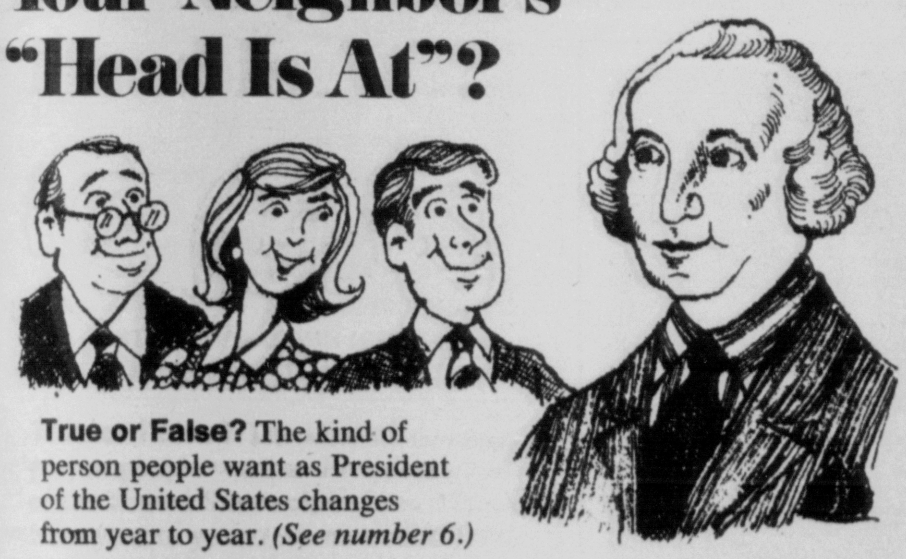
FW: When you get vacation time, what do you like to do?

BURGHOFF: I do things for the sake of doing things. I've grown up. What I do now, I do for myself. If my only motivation were to be patted on the back, I'd be in for a disappointment. If I feel like it, I'll walk along the highway and pick up beer cans. That's living!

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

Do You Know Where Your Neighbor's "Head Is At"?



True or False? The kind of person people want as President of the United States changes from year to year. (See number 6.)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. People who feel it is a just world behave differently in a crisis than those who don't feel this way.
2. If you have sometimes felt that life isn't worth living, you have plenty of company.
3. Most people feel that what you are counts for more than how you look.
4. Most people feel they have little personal control over their lives, that their destiny is largely influenced by environment, society and the gods of chance.
5. Everyone is subject to feelings of depression now and then.
6. The kind of person people want as President of the United States changes from year to year.

ANSWERS

1. True—as evidenced by psychological experiments at the University of Rochester, using over 200 students as subjects. Findings: In times of special need or crisis, those who believed in a just world behaved in a generous, altruistic way, going out of their way to help others and generally conducting themselves in a way to make themselves more deserving. Which is another way of saying that when the chips were down, they practiced the Golden Rule.
2. True. According to a survey, at least one person in every eight has at some point experienced the feeling that life isn't worth living. And one person out of 12 reported feeling that way at times during the past year. In the vast majority of cases, however, the feeling was a passing one, and only one percent ever reached the point where they seriously considered doing anything drastic.
3. False. A University of Minnesota survey of a cross section of men and women showed that most people feel that it pays to look one's best—and that the best-looking people get the best breaks. Most people also felt that "marriages in which the partners were mismatched on attractiveness seemed to them less stable than those in which the partners were about equal."
4. False. A consensus of studies and surveys shows that most people feel that they control their destiny to an appreciable extent by their own actions and attitudes; that how they fare in life —the extent to which they achieve their goals—depends largely on how much they have "on the ball" and how diligently they apply themselves.
5. False—according to a study sponsored by the National Institute of Public Health. After a large number of interviews, the investigators concluded that, "contrary to the opinions expressed by some, not everyone has episodes of depression," and that many people lead relatively serene and unruffled lives. It would appear that although depression is common, freedom from depression is even more common.
6. False—as indicated by two separate and independent studies made nine years apart. A comparison of the older study with the more recent one shows that "no statistically significant change has taken place in the public perception of the ideal President. He was perceived as a person who weighs the possible outcomes of a situation and the consequences of his actions; one who tends to be deliberate in his actions and in arriving at decisions; who exercises good moral judgment and who would be considered to be a highly ethical person." The ideal President was also envisioned as being socially outgoing, displaying a genuine interest in people, possessing diplomatic ability and mental alertness.

What in the World!

How one family turned a handicap into a source of strength: Jean Hines—the mother of 5-year-old Kerri, who suffers from cerebral palsy—talks about the effect Kerri's disease has had upon their family life: "Most people feel sorry for us, but they shouldn't. We haven't had to give up anything, or if we did, it was so unimportant in the larger scheme of things that it doesn't matter. We were a close-knit family to begin with (the Hineses also have an 8-year-old son), but now we're even closer because we have to be. We have gained in insight and compassion for the rest of the world. We have learned to look beyond our own limited environment and become aware of what's going on elsewhere. Sure, we have to depend on each other more than most families, but I see that as an advantage. We have a common purpose—we're working toward the day when Kerri can lead a more normal existence." What's the most difficult part of Jean's job as mother of a disabled child? "I have to remind myself that the handicap doesn't come before Kerri. I can't treat her differently from my son because if she thinks she's special, she won't try as hard to overcome her disability. Our whole family has had to learn to set realistic goals and take one day at a time, but wouldn't every family benefit from that instruction?" Kerri Hines lives in Waterford, Mich., and is this year's National Easter Seal Child.

LITTLE EMILY

"If it's Kathy, I'm out . . . if it's Betsy, I went ice skating with Laurie . . . if it's Barbara, I'm at Buddy's house . . ."

The "Intimidator's" version of how to succeed in business. "The quickest way to the top is not by fighting your way through the pack—the quickest way is to leapfrog over the pack and simply take it upon yourself to proclaim that you're above it. There is a catch, however: if you are not prepared to be above the pack, then, in spite of the fact that you make such a proclamation, the realities of the business will knock you right back into the pack. When you're prepared, an understanding of the Leapfrog Theory can save you from having to endure years of unnecessary frustration. Without authority from anyone else—and without being saddled by mystical guilt feelings or 'moral obligations'—you simply take it upon yourself to begin operating on a higher level. You don't wait for the industry, society or some abstract entity to christen you a 'heavyweight' in your business." From "Winning Through Intimidation," by Robert J. Ringer (Funk & Wagnalls, $9.95)

Robert J. Ringer

After 15 years of labor and a ton of material, the world is about to see a reconstructed elephant. The beast was shot in southern Africa, and the skin, which alone weighs half a ton, was shipped to Rowland Ward, a London taxidermist. It is destined for the Royal Scottish Museum. The elephant is stuffed with fiberglass, wire netting and wood wool. When it is completed, the ears will be outstretched to a span of 11 feet across, and the whole thing will stand 10 feet, 8 inches tall. The taxidermist says his next project is an even taller order . . . a giraffe.

VACATION HAUNTS

Did I leave the water running?
Did I double-bolt the door?
Did I, with all care and cunning,
Do each crucial little chore?

Did I water all the plant life?
Did I also feed the fish?
Did I spray the sink for ant life?
Did I wash that dirty dish?

Did I leave a light on, burning,
Lest some burglar know
I roam?
One more question, with some yearning:
Why then didn't I stay home?

I wish they wouldn't get so tricky with packaging. This morning my wife broke open an egg, dropped the contents into the pan and fried a pair of pantyhose sunnyside up!
